Assembly Kills Discharge Move

Thursday Meetings Set For SC Next Semester

By Richard Glantz

Student Council, at its Friday night meeting, passed a by-law by Father Mark, State president of S.C. at "Student Council shall hold regular meetings on Thursday at 4:00. ... In addition, Council passed a motion setting the date of March 20 for the referendum about the one day protest strike against the poss­ibility of imposition of tuition, and March 28 as the date of the strike.

Mr. Grant, in support of his by­law change, said Council has an opportunity to make a motion to change the meeting night back to Friday.

Joseph Traum, editor-in-chief of THE TICKER, said, "By meet­ing Friday, S.C. discriminates against Orthodox Jews, while Thursday is considered a religious holiday against editors of THE TICKER and those who have house and plan meetings that night. But, Thursday discrimination can be alleviated easily, as these organizations can change their meet­ings time, while the Ten Commandments cannot be changed."

Robert Kottler debated against the motion, saying "Our first and primary purpose is to serve our School Council will turn out to be a rubber stamp, a rubber stamp for the faculty. You may relieve a religious discrimination but you substitute for it an economic dis­

Economic Changes:

Berle Lecture Scheduled March 19

"Changing Conceptions and Theories" in the American political economy will be dis­cussed by Adolph A. Berle, professor of law at Columbia University. March 19 at noon, in 45.

The lecture will feature Professor Berle's contention that dur­ing the last thirty years there have been fundamental changes in certain presently held or formerly held economic concepts.

The contention that the meaning of "capital" has undergone a change in the minds of political economists, which has been expres­sed by Professor Berle, was criticized by Professor Robert Weintraub, chairman of the Department of Economics. He stated that the traditional meaning of this concept was still valid.

The "free market," declared Professor Berle, is no longer a natural condition. He claims in­fluence in how state controls are rela­tion control devices.

This was also contrary to the views of Professor Weintraub, who counter-claimed that govern­ment.

Professor Adolph A. Berle, regu­lation of the kind that Dr. Berle discussed is not new, but has existed as long as our government. He "decided that governmental organization going back as far as the first and second states were not passive, but played a role in determining the condition of the economy.

Professor Thomas Karch, chairman of the Political Science Department, declared that there is "very wide public acceptance of the responsibility of government to take every possible measure to prevent another depression as in the thirties. Full employment has become a national policy."

He added that governmental con­trol and regulation that was im­posed recently did not have these objectives.

Dean David Newton referred to the lecture as an opportunity for an added exposure and enriched program which hopefully will be food for the intellectual life of the students.

Professor Bernard Bellush, sub­chairman of the History Depart­ment, who will give the lecture with the Economics and Political Science Departments, Student Council, and THE TICKER, declared that Dr. Berle is "an unusual man who has something to say.

He added that he "cannot see how any student at the Baruch School cannot learn something from this extremely competent man."
Finance Society Gets Analysis of Indicators

By Laura Capilotti
Mark Finn is one of the editors of the Journal of Finance, the student-run newspaper of the School of Business Administration. He has been a member of the Finance Society for three years and has served as its President for the past two years.

The society is a student organization that focuses on the analysis of financial markets and the impact of financial decisions on the economy. It holds meetings every two weeks, during which members examine recent financial news and discuss its implications.

To keep members informed on the latest developments in the financial markets, the society has a newsletter, The Ticker, which is published biweekly. A copy of the newsletter is available at the Finance Society's office located in Room 304 of the Business Administration Building.

Members of the Finance Society also have the opportunity to participate in various activities, such as the annual Finance Fair, which is held in the spring. The fair features various financial institutions and provides students with the chance to interact with professionals in the field.

The Finance Society is open to all students, regardless of major. Membership is free, and students are encouraged to join to develop their financial knowledge and expertise.

Smiddy Slated As Lecturer

By M. L. Smith

All students are invited to attend a lecture presented by Dr. Mark Smiddy, a renowned economist, on March 15th at 7 P.M. in Ballroom B of the Student Union.

The lecture will focus on the impact of technological advancements on the economy and will provide insights into the future of the financial markets.

Smiddy has held several key positions in the financial industry, including Chief Economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. His expertise in macroeconomics and financial markets has earned him recognition as a leading authority in the field.

The lecture is open to all students and is free of charge. Please RSVP by March 13th to reserve your seat.

Silver Set to Speak at Hilled Celebration

Silver Set to Speak at Hilled Celebration

At a recent meeting of the Sigma Alpha Foreign Language Liaison Committee, Professor Silver was elected as the new chairman of the organization. Professor Silver, who is a native of Spain, has been teaching Spanish at the university for the past ten years.

Professor Silver's election comes after a series of meetings in which faculty members and students discussed the importance of maintaining and strengthening the foreign language programs at the university. The committee, which is made up of faculty members and student representatives, is responsible for making decisions regarding the foreign language programs at the university.

The election of Professor Silver as chairman is a testament to his dedication to the foreign language programs and his commitment to providing high-quality language education to students.

Press conference for the University's new foreign language programs, which are being implemented to increase student interest in foreign languages. The programs aim to attract a greater number of students to the foreign language courses and to improve the quality of instruction.

The foreign language programs will be taught by experienced faculty members, who will work closely with students to develop their language skills. The programs will offer a variety of courses, ranging from introductory to advanced levels.

In addition to the foreign language programs, the university will also offer new courses in cultural studies, which will provide students with a deeper understanding of the cultures and traditions of different countries. These courses will be taught by faculty members who have expertise in the respective cultures.

The university is committed to providing students with a well-rounded education that includes a strong focus on foreign languages and cultures. The new foreign language programs and cultural studies courses are part of this commitment and reflect the university's dedication to preparing students for success in today's globalized world.
Meeting Night
As is customary on the front page story in today's issue of THE TICKER, Student Council will change its meeting time in Thursday beginning next term. The move will be made because of the difficulty in scheduling the student council meetings in the evening.

We appreciate their action. We are sure that the regular council meeting will work out this fall, and we are certain, an effective one.

For Capital Punishment To Be Discontinued

I was greatly concerned to see the recent column on capital punishment by Dr. Ronald D. Sollman, in the Feb. 23, 1963 issue of Student Life. He makes the statement that the execution of criminals is a self-serving action of the state. I feel that this is an inaccurate statement and that it is an action that is necessary for the society to function properly.

Executions are used as a deterrent to prevent crime. If a person knows that if they commit a crime they will be executed, they are more likely to think twice before committing the crime. It is not a self-serving action of the state, but rather a way to protect the society as a whole.

I believe that the death penalty should be maintained as a part of our criminal justice system. It is a necessary tool to keep our society safe and just.

In Favor of Mothers

To the Editor of Student Life:

I am writing to express my support for the idea of having a "Mother's Day" on campus. I believe that this would be a great way to show appreciation and respect for all the mothers who have contributed to our lives.

Mothers play an important role in our lives, and they deserve to be recognized for their hard work and dedication. This would be a good opportunity for students to show their gratitude and appreciation.

I urge the administration to consider implementing this idea in the future.

Sincerely,

Many Close Contests
Put Hoopsters’ Record
At 8-10 for the Season
By Jeff Pala
One conclusion can be reached now that the basketball season is over: City College’s opponents, once again, could not consider the Lavender a soft spot on their schedules. This is a result of the 1962-63 season, during which the I.F.A. compiled a 8-10 record in a rebuilding year. Many games were close, with the outcome in doubt until the final minutes. Only a three-game losing streak, which has not been seen since the 1957-58 season, was turned into wins with the Lavender in the first division.

The low-scoring season was a one-point triumph over Rider, costing the Roughriders a share of the league championship with Fairleigh Dickinson.

Greenberg and Wyles:
Hoop Stars Have a Lot In Common
By Jeff Pala
Jerry Greenberg and John Wyles, star backcourt members of the City College basketball team, have plenty in common. They are both 5-10 seniors, ex-Baruchian accounting majors who now study physical education, future teachers, and, interestingly enough, coaching.

Coach Dave Miller credits their excellent play as a major factor in transforming the Lavender into an interesting and exciting team which played consistently well on a good performance basis.

Greenberg was one of the few team members who had high school experience. The Brooklyn resident played for Winice. He refused an athletic scholarship offer from Yeshiva to study accounting here.

He played on the freshman team in 1958-59 and joined the varsity the following season. Jerry saw action during his sophomore and junior years, averaging 3.6 and 4.4 points, respectively.

Wyles, who has played regularly this season, led the team in scoring with a fourteen point average. Wagner for the leading total compiled by a City player this year. In addition, he paced the club in foul shooting accuracy, hitting over eighty percent of his free throws.

Greenberg has been reluctant to shoot. His best shot is a jumper which he takes from between twenty and forty feet. He can also drive with either hand and is an aggressive hustler on defense.

Greenberg transferred to the Uptown Center after his sophomore year, after deciding that he was more interested in physical education than accounting. He felt it was "more important to do what you like." Upon graduation, Jerry plans to go for his M.A. and doctorate. Coaching at the college level is his goal.

While Downtown, Greenberg was an active member of Tau Epsilon Phi Fraternity, served as associate chancellor and pledge master. His fraternity brothers were among his most enthusiastic supporters. Jerry

"Wyoming Incident"
Every Beaver basketball buff remembers the contest as his favorite. Perhaps it’s one of the classic clashes was Wyoming and the University of Nebraska played on November 20, 1959. Some recall a game played during the winter recess of 1946. They may not know the score or the individual starts, but they can recall the unusual happenings during the last five minutes. They called it the “Wyoming Incident.”

More than 18,000 packed Madison Square Garden on December 22, 1946, to view an intercollegiate doubleheader between two local colleges and opponents from the West. One game pitted St. John’s against Utah; the other had Wyoming against City College. The Beavers, undefeated in seven games, were an eight point favorite. The contest was a contrast in styles: the taller Cowboys used a ball-control offense, and there was no indication of what would happen in the fifteen minutes.

Four of the output of the second period C.C.N.Y. espoused to a 28-23 lead. The Cowboys came back to trail by one, only to see City move ahead by four. The Beavers seemed on the verge of victory, but Wyoming forged a tie to score 39-34. Neither club could gain a safe advantage. The teams exchanged baskets until the last minute remaining City led 48-46.

Suddenly an equally blistering battle developed on the sidelines. Everett Shelton, Wyoming’s coach, felt that the Beavers were committing fouls that were not being called. He shouted to the referees, "Those New York Jews are getting away with everything!" Just a few feet away, Nai Holman raced away from the Beavers’ bench to电动车 Shelton. "You say anything like that about my boys and I’ll punch you right in the nose." Shelton ignored Holman’s advice and told him to sit down.

But Shelton’s tirades did not stop his charges. They had the opposite effect. Wyoming fell apart as City passed it on. Paul Schenker fed Mason Benson underneath for a key two points. Schenkers added a free throw. A few moments later, Irwin Dambrot picked up a loose ball and raced in for a layup.

The Wyoming team took their cue from Shelton and spurned victory with the City players’ racial stock. They abused Joe Garber, a Negro.

The game became unruly. Two players wrestled for the ball on the floor. Shelton shouted another disgraceful remark. Holman tried to get to Shelton but was restrained by his friend Joe Garber, a Negro.

Sid Trubowitz hit a foul. Garber added a three-point play. The rout was over. The Lavender scored nine consecutive points to win 57-46.

On the Monday following the game, Shelton appeared at the weekly luncheon of the New York Basketball Writers’ Association. He said his remarks were merely descriptive and that no religious prejudice was meant. But Shelton’s remarks caused such disturbance. What I said about Jews had nothing to do with religion or anything else. The word Jew was merely descriptive. I did no.

Shelton said, "I’m very sorry that my remarks caused such disturbance. What I said about Jews had nothing to do with religion or anything else. The word Jew was merely descriptive. I did nothing.

The city college basketball team that housed a basketball player and was a member of the C.C.N.Y. league. The team was composed of the best players in the country and was considered to be one of the best teams in the country.

The City College fencing team will vie for the Eastern championships Friday and Saturday in the Intercollegiate Fencing Association (I.F.A.) championships at the Palestra in Philadelphia.

The team with the top record in the east will participate in the competition Friday and at the Palestra in Philadelphia.

Fencing is a sport that combines physical fitness with mental discipline. The fencer must be able to think on his feet and react quickly to his opponent’s moves.

The City College fencing team is one of the strongest in the nation. The team has won several national championships in recent years and is expected to do well in the upcoming tournament.

The competition will feature individual and team events. The individual events include the sabre, foil, and epee. The team events include the foil and sabre.

The City College fencing team is coached by Assistant Professor of Physical Education Jack Johnson.

John Wyles

City College fenced its way to a 6-0 record in the conference. The team defeated the University of Pennsylvania 5-1 and Temple University 6-0.

The team will face fierce competition from other Eastern schools, including New York University, Columbia University, and Princeton University.

The tournament will be held at the Palestra in Philadelphia, one of the oldest and most prestigious venues in the country. The Palestra has hosted many Olympic trials and national championships over the years.
