Terms Expiring For Eberhardt, Wright

Dean Charles J. Eberhardt, assistant dean of Curriculum and Guidance, and Ruth C. Wright, the first woman to become dean of women at Brooklyn College, have been at the College for the past two years. During his seventeen years on the job, Dean Eberhardt has supervised ten students—nine at the New York State University, and one at the University of California, where he taught history and philosophy of education.

Dean Wright, on the other hand, has been at Brooklyn College for thirty-two years. She has acted as a catalyst in establishing a true student government on campus and has been an integral part of the student life at the College.

Dean Wright's most notable achievement was her work in the field of guidance. She has been a strong advocate for counseling services and has been instrumental in the development of the College's counseling program.

Dean Eberhardt has been an important figure in the development of the College's curriculum. He has been a strong supporter of the liberal arts curriculum and has worked to ensure that the College's offerings were diverse and inclusive.

Dean Wright will assume Dean Eberhardt's position as of the end of this semester. He has been at Brooklyn College for twelve years and has been involved in various aspects of the College's administration.

Dean Eberhardt will continue to work with the administration, helping to guide the College through the transition period.

The retirement of Ruth C. Wright, Dean of Students, evoked numerous complimentary remarks by both students and faculty members.

"Dean Ruth Wright," stated Dr. William F. Klemann of the English Department, "has acted as a catalyst in establishing a true student government on campus and has been an integral part of the student life at the College. She enjoys a national reputation in the field of guidance and will be greatly missed by both the students and her colleagues."

"No single person aside from Dean Wright has made a family out of a school," stated Dr. William Taylor Day of the English Department. "She has acted as a catalyst in establishing a true student government on campus and has been an integral part of the student life at the College. She enjoys a national reputation in the field of guidance and will be greatly missed by both the students and her colleagues."

"I am impressed by her wonderful ability to assist students," remarked Mr. Edward L. Fox of the Chemistry Department. "She referred to her as a charming, vivacious, and remarkable woman who assumes a top position on the chain of command."

"From my brief association with Dean Wright, I feel that she is one of the most outstanding people in the field of guidance," stated Mr. Warner F. Price, the director of the Central House Plan. "I selfishly regret that I didn't start to work with her ten years ago. I am convinced that if I had done this, I would have more knowledge of guidance to my advantage."

Final Examinations Schedule

By Stan Dinsky

The reaction of the majority of students was one of shock and disappointment when it was announced that exams for the upcoming semester would be extended two weeks in order to allow students to "catch up" on their work. The announcement was made by President Louis Solomon, who cited the need for a "flexible" system of examinations as the main reason for such a program. The faculty, he said, will be free to choose the best dates for taking attendance, while freeing students from attendance obligations.

While it is hoped that the expanded schedule will not be abused, past experience and careful study indicate that students control their activities to keep up with the work. The student does not make up for his "curs," his grade suffers.

Individual instructors are given the option to take attendance and a course's final grade will be arrived at the grades if they decide. Individual requirements are explained by each professor. All courses, including physical education and laboratory courses, have a minimum attendance requirement. (Continued on Page 6)

Students Defeated In Action To Invalidate SC Elections

Student Council dashed the hopes of two students Friday when it refused to invalidate the elections for president and vice president in the Class of 1964. The students, David Epstein '64 and Lawrence Singer '64, claimed that they were unfairly disqualified from running for the top two positions, respectively, in their class, since they were misinformed as to the election procedure.

Harvey Lornberg '64, chairman of the Disqualifications Committee, explained that the students were disqualified because they placed themselves in a difficult position when they entered the S.C. president and vice president on their respective applications, in addition to the Junior Class offices.

Mr. Epstein asserted that he and Mr. Singer asked the person handling the desk in the S.C. President if each of them could use one application for two positions. They were told, alleged Mr. Epstein, that this was permissible. The resolution of the members of the Council was that Mr. Epstein and Mr. Singer read the elections rules they would be required to follow when they entered the S.C. president and vice president on their respective applications, in addition to the Junior Class offices.

Summer Session Head:
Rosenblum Commences Tenth Year

By Dale Fishbein

A number of students, summer means no school. To others, motivated by a multitude of reasons, summer means the school. To Dr. Leon Rosenblum, head of the division of Summer Session, the Summer Session is an opportunity for growth in a non-competitive environment. "We want to provide a place where students can come together and learn," he said.

The Student Center is open at 8 a.m. and stays open until 10 p.m. A summer bulletin is available with a copy of our catalog for the Center, Center's courses, programs, and on-campus events.

The University of Melbourne's overseas programs are open to graduate students. The program is available for further information. The University of Melbourne offers specializations in various fields, including education, science, and social sciences.

The summer session also offers a wide range of courses, including both academic and recreational courses. For more information, please contact the University of Melbourne at 112 E. 23rd & 3rd Ave.

Drill Spurs Comment; Sparks Student Rally

"One of the best ways to ensure that the school really stays in operation," according to Dr. Leon Rosenblum, "is to get the students to talk about their experiences. They need to have a sense of pride in their school." The school has a budget of $1 million, with the help of students and alumni donations.

The summer session is a great opportunity for students to explore new interests and gain new skills. It is also a great way to meet new people and make lifelong connections.

The summer session is currently enrolling for the 1965 session. For more information, please contact the summer session office at 112 E. 23rd & 3rd Ave.

Flower Sale To Help Center

The textbook fund created by the summer session is used to support various charitable causes, including the Center for Democratic Studies. The Center is working to help students in need of financial assistance.

The Center for Democratic Studies is a nonprofit organization that provides educational resources to students who need financial assistance. The Center is supported by the sale of flowers and other goods.

The summer session is a great opportunity to support the Center for Democratic Studies and help students in need. For more information, please contact the Center for Democratic Studies at 112 E. 23rd & 3rd Ave.

Letters to the Editor

The school has received many letters from students and alumni, expressing their support for the summer session. The summer session is a great way to explore new interests and gain new skills.

For more information on the summer session, please contact the summer session office at 112 E. 23rd & 3rd Ave.
The Ticker

Philadelphia University Union
student association will use the name of "University Union" instead of "Ticker." According to Dr. Donald Dixon, director of student affairs, "Ticker" is the student newspaper for the University of Pennsylvania and will continue to be published. Demand for "Ticker" has increased, and there is now a need for a name that better represents the content and format of the newspaper. "University Union" is a more appropriate name because it reflects the broader interest of the student body.

Everyone’s Friend

By Tom Nicas

A letter to the editor is the best way to express your opinions and get them heard by the editors. It is important to understand the format and requirements before submitting a letter. Letters should be concise and to the point, and should include relevant facts and sources. Submission deadlines are important to keep in mind when writing and submitting letters. It is also important to be respectful and considerate in your writing.

South Florida

Ten Years Ago

Name Given to College

By Florence Green

A decade ago, the name of the President of the University of Florida, Dr. Junior S. E. Gallagher, speaking at an Upstate meeting, said, "The name of the University should be changed to University of South Florida to reflect the character of the University." The new name was approved by the Board of Trustees and the University was renamed University of South Florida.

Florida State

Congratulations! Paul Gallagher, a student at the University of Florida, was named "Student of the Month" by the University's Alumni Association. Gallagher was recognized for his academic achievements and leadership roles on campus.

- The Ticker's job is to cover all Baruch School students. When the issue of whether or not a student is eligible to vote in the Student Senate comes up, the Ticker will publish the results of the vote along with any relevant information.

- The Ticker is responsible for covering all Baruch School activities, including sports events, club meetings, and student government meetings. It is important to ensure that all activities are covered fairly and accurately.

- The Ticker is published weekly and is distributed to all students, faculty, and staff on campus. It is also available online for students who cannot pick up a physical copy.

- The Ticker is a student-run publication and is overseen by the Student Senate. The Student Senate hires the editors and executives of the Ticker and approves the content of the newspaper.

- The Ticker is a valuable resource for students, faculty, and staff. It provides up-to-date information about campus events and activities and serves as a platform for student voices and opinions.

- The Ticker is an important part of the University of Florida community and plays a significant role in shaping the culture and atmosphere of the campus. It is essential to support and contribute to the success of the Ticker in order to preserve its legacy.

Mr. Chinua Achebe, a novelist, recently visited the School and was the recipient of the Permanent Professorship in African Studies. The School has long been interested in the life of the Nigerian writer and his views on the non-African's traditional way of living, and the present opportunity to have Achebe at the School was welcomed by the students and faculty.

The School has been concerned with the relationship between African and American cultures since the 1930s, and has developed a tradition of cultural exchange with African countries. The School hopes to foster a deeper understanding of African culture and to promote the integration of African ideas into American society.

Chinua Achebe was born in the Eastern Province of Nigeria, and has been a prominent figure in Nigerian literature since the 1950s. He has written several novels, including " comenzar", which was published in 1960 and has been translated into many languages. Achebe has also written several essays and short stories.

The School is currently planning a series of events to mark Achebe's visit, including a discussion of his work, a screening of his films, and a reading of his works. The School hopes that these events will provide a platform for students and faculty to engage with Achebe's ideas and to explore the relationship between African and American cultures.

The School has a long history of hosting visiting scholars and writers, and has been committed to promoting cultural exchange and diversity. The School hopes that Achebe's visit will be a step towards further understanding and integration of African ideas into American society.
Harriers Take Fourth In CTC Championship

Encountering cold weather, the C.C.N.Y. trackmen amassed twenty-three points to place fourth in the Col- lege Track Conference championship Saturday at Adel- phi's Garden City course.

In last year's outing the harriers had run second to the Rollins College (U.S.M.A.) team, which handed the Beavers their only dual meet defeat of the season, captured the title with forty-two points. Trenton State and Central Con- necticut followed with thirty-two and twenty-five points, respec- tively.

Norm Jackman, although plagued by a pulled leg muscle, came through it in excellent fashion by setting a new record in the hup, step, and jump with a total distance of 53' 9". The old mark was held by City's Bill Hill who placed sixth in the event this year.

Bill Barratt, Jackman's teammate, could not compete in the 100-yard dash and 220-yard dash events because of in- jury. He also specialized in these events; the team did not participate.

Gene Bartell and Bill Casey were outstanding for the Lavender. Bartell earned three points by his second-place finish in the high jump at 5' 5", while Casey took third and one point in the quarter mile relay.

Paced by sprinters John Bourne, Leney Zane, Hill, and Casey, the Beavers posted a win in the own-mile relay hitting 2:39.7. The event was run in a dead heat until the last twenty yards when Zane opened up a wide margin to pull ahead of the field.

Tri-State Loop Holds Meeting

The results of Friday's meeting by Tri-State League teams regarding the proposal to divide the conference into two divisions were established.

According to Professor Arthur DesGreve, faculty manager of athletics, "The results are not final, since approval is needed from the college's involved. Official information will be given through the college." The proposal would begin in the fall.

The conference now consists of Adelphi, Bridgeport, C.C.N.Y., Adelphi, Bridgeport, C.C.N.Y., Adelphi, Bridgeport, C.C.N.Y., Adelphi, and York. The latter three teams are interested in joining the "B" bracket.

The loop has been in existence for seven seasons and three teams have monopolized the championship. Fairfield won the title three times, while Adelphi and Fairleigh Dickinson have competed. The winner receives an automatic bid to the N.C.A.A. college division tournament.

Trust Overcomes Rheumatic Fever To Play for City

When Bill Trust was eight years old he suffered an attack of rheumatic fever. How- ever, this illness has not nullified Bill's career as City Col- lege's first baseman. Furthermore, Trust has run track, and played roller hockey and lacrosse.

"If you have rheumatic fever, you have to keep fighting against it. Although my case is not that serious, I still take penicillin pills when I get a cold to prevent compli- cations," Bill said.

When Trust had his first attack while in grammar school, he was bedridden for an entire summer. "Before I could leave the hospital," Bill explained, "I literally had to learn to walk all over again.

Until he was thirteen, Trust barely participated in athletics, al- though he confesses, "Occasionally used to sneak out and play." By the time Bill entered St. John's, he was auter- nate varsity player for two years as a first baseman and outfielder. He later managed in the minor leagues for seven years as a first baseman and outfielder. He later managed in the minor leagues.

He was graduated Phi Beta Kapa from Occidental College. "Before I graduated," Bill said, "I received my M.A. at Columbia. Mistlin is now the director of physical education at Columbia Grammar.

DiBardi, 27, lived and played for the Beavers, and the Lavender was sidelined with hepatitis. Trust worked in the minor leagues again. He was graduated Phi Beta Kapa from Occidental College. "Before I graduated," Bill said, "I received my M.A. at Columbia. Mistlin is now the director of physical education at Columbia Grammar.

DiBardi, 27, pitched and played for the Beavers from 1955 to 1957. In 1956 he hit 360 and was awarded the College's Polly Kramer Award as the team's leading batter.

Styacgmen Lose To Cardinals

Westham scored three times in the last five minutes of play to defeat the Beaver lacrosse team, 16-14, according to Steve Mather, who also specialized in these events; the team did not participate.

"The roof fell in on us with five minutes remaining to play," Coach George Barron said and added, "we were lacking in one goal to the game and then went on to victory.

"Without a doubt Harvey Leach- man was the outstanding defensive player," Barlan continued. "Other outstanding players included Andy Mosher, who kept the floor off, and Enell Castro, with two goals each," he concurred.

The harvesters will resume action Saturday in the season's finals against Sachem and New York. Last year City won 12-5.

City Diamondmen Seek Place in First Division

City College's base ball team plays four Metropolitan Conference games this week in an attempt to finish in the first division for the first time since 1953.

The Beavers visit Wagner tomorrow to make up a double- header which was rained out last Saturday. C.C.N.Y. will conclude the season at 11 Saturday by host- ing Fordham in a twin bill at Macombs Dam Park.

All remaining games will be league contests.

The Lavender has a 4-6 league and a 7-8 overall mark. One win in their remaining games will give the Beavers their best season since 1953 when they won nine league, and eleven overall contests. In 1963 City also won the league.

C.C.N.Y., in seventh place, have only one game behind the New York Community College.

Under Mishkin's tutelage the Beavers have had a 6-4-3 record from 1948 through 1954. In 1953 City won the Metropolitan Conference Championships and placed third in their final season this year when DiBer- nardo was sidelined with hepatitis.

Mishkin played in the minor leagues for seven years as a first baseman and outfielder. He later managed in the minor leagues again.

He is graduated Phi Beta Kapa from Occidental College. "Before I graduated," Bill said, "I received my M.A. at Columbia. Mistlin is now the director of physical education at Columbia Grammar.
