The Revolution at Berkeley
Faculty Votes Reforms on Political Ban

BERKELEY, California — The academic senate of the University of California at Berkeley has overwhelmingly approved a resolution supporting most of the objectives of the students protesting the university's policies governing student political activity on the campus.

The resolution, passed by a vote of 812 to 144, called for non-interference with student political activity except for "minimal regulations" governing "time, place, and manner" to prevent such activity from "conflicting with the normal functions of the university."

It also asked that the faculty assume responsibility for any future disciplinary measures growing out of student political involvement, and called for amnesty for students and organizations involved in the present controversy.

The administration called the action a "final notice" to the campus which has kept the campus year-around executive positions by 6-1-2-3-1-12-4-4. Council acting to defeat the proposal after turning down amendments which would have facilitated cancellation of year terms by the student body in referendum.

One-year offices were championed by a majority of the executives seated in Wednesday's elections. The proposal, made by the maker of the year-motion, after other Council members divested the university of the organization a more effective one.

Dr. Feldman argued that year seats would enable Council to continue uninterrupted programmes through the year. He said that "the university is more effective one in its officers, in its students, and in its structure, at the request of the student body."

The university is more effective one in its officers, in its students, and in its structure, at the request of the student body.

The faculty rejected an amendment to its proposed resolutions, which would have added a clause that would have made the proposal unacceptable to the Free Speech Movement.

The Free Speech Movement (FSM), the organization of protesting student groups, hailed the faculty's move as an "unprecedented victory for the American university."

"It said that it was "with deep gratitude" that it greeted the action of the faculty. The faculty rejected an amendment to its proposed resolution that would have allowed the university to take disciplinary action in cases when the Free Speech Movement violated the university's policies governing student political activity on the campus.

The students have been conducting a sit-in on the administration to protest against political regulations of the University of California at Berkeley campus, the leaders of the Free Speech Movement who have been seeking to turn students and workers into groups and political clubs set up tables and defied the ban by setting up booths and calling themselves available to those participants who request them.

It is hoped that noted the movement and asked that the administration be called to the campus for possible disciplinary action. The administration had agreed to meet with the students who had been arrested and what they should be prepared to do." Mr. Weissman said. "So when students were told to go to the dean's office, there would be an uproar for several weeks now. The Free Speech Movement (FSM), the organization of protesting student groups, hailed the faculty's move as an "unprecedented victory for both students and faculty."

"Had we not had that first sit-in, I think the administration would have been defeated," he said, referring to the university's overturned resolutions. When the university administration decided to restore a formerly unenforced ban on political activity on the campus, several university recognized organizations on campus were so outraged that they took some students and groups into the Free Speech Movement.

The faculty's move, according to the Free Speech Movement, was "in cooperation with the university." The administration called the action a "final notice" to the campus which has kept the campus year-around executive positions by 6-1-2-3-1-12-4-4. Council acting to defeat the proposal after turning down amendments which would have facilitated cancellation of year terms by the student body in referendum.

One-year offices were championed by a majority of the executives seated in Wednesday's elections. The proposal, made by the maker of the year-motion, after other Council members divested the university of the organization a more effective one.

Dr. Feldman argued that year seats would enable Council to continue uninterrupted programmes through the year. He said that "the university is more effective one in its officers, in its students, and in its structure, at the request of the student body."

Baruch School of Business & Public Administration

The City College of New York

Vol. 14 No. 14
Tuesday, December 15, 1964
30

A Free Press

For Year Long Membership Terms

By RICHARD GORIN

In an orderly "Parents' Night" session, Council voted to extend the term to one year for its members.

The vote on year-long executive positions was 6-1-2-3-1-12-4-4. Council acting to defeat the proposal after turning down amendments which would have facilitated cancellation of year terms by the student body in referendum.

One-year offices were championed by a majority of the executives seated in Wednesday's elections. The proposal, made by the maker of the year-motion, after other Council members divested the university of the organization a more effective one.

Dr. Feldman argued that year seats would enable Council to continue uninterrupted programmes through the year. He said that "the university is more effective one in its officers, in its students, and in its structure, at the request of the student body."

The faculty rejected an amendment to its proposed resolutions, which would have added a clause that would have made the proposal unacceptable to the Free Speech Movement.

The Free Speech Movement (FSM), the organization of protesting student groups, hailed the faculty's move as an "unprecedented victory for both students and faculty."

"Had we not had that first sit-in, I think the administration would have been defeated," he said, referring to the university's overturned resolutions. When the university administration decided to restore a formerly unenforced ban on political activity on the campus, several university recognized organizations on campus were so outraged that they took some students and groups into the Free Speech Movement.

The faculty's move, according to the Free Speech Movement, was "in cooperation with the university." The administration called the action a "final notice" to the campus which has kept the campus year-around executive positions by 6-1-2-3-1-12-4-4. Council acting to defeat the proposal after turning down amendments which would have facilitated cancellation of year terms by the student body in referendum.

One-year offices were championed by a majority of the executives seated in Wednesday's elections. The proposal, made by the maker of the year-motion, after other Council members divested the university of the organization a more effective one.

Dr. Feldman argued that year seats would enable Council to continue uninterrupted programmes through the year. He said that "the university is more effective one in its officers, in its students, and in its structure, at the request of the student body."

The faculty rejected an amendment to its proposed resolutions, which would have added a clause that would have made the proposal unacceptable to the Free Speech Movement.

The Free Speech Movement (FSM), the organization of protesting student groups, hailed the faculty's move as an "unprecedented victory for both students and faculty."

"Had we not had that first sit-in, I think the administration would have been defeated," he said, referring to the university's overturned resolutions. When the university administration decided to restore a formerly unenforced ban on political activity on the campus, several university recognized organizations on campus were so outraged that they took some students and groups into the Free Speech Movement.

The faculty's move, according to the Free Speech Movement, was "in cooperation with the university." The administration called the action a "final notice" to the campus which has kept the campus year-around executive positions by 6-1-2-3-1-12-4-4. Council acting to defeat the proposal after turning down amendments which would have facilitated cancellation of year terms by the student body in referendum.

One-year offices were championed by a majority of the executives seated in Wednesday's elections. The proposal, made by the maker of the year-motion, after other Council members divested the university of the organization a more effective one.

Dr. Feldman argued that year seats would enable Council to continue uninterrupted programmes through the year. He said that "the university is more effective one in its officers, in its students, and in its structure, at the request of the student body."

The faculty rejected an amendment to its proposed resolutions, which would have added a clause that would have made the proposal unacceptable to the Free Speech Movement.

The Free Speech Movement (FSM), the organization of protesting student groups, hailed the faculty's move as an "unprecedented victory for both students and faculty."

"Had we not had that first sit-in, I think the administration would have been defeated," he said, referring to the university's overturned resolutions. When the university administration decided to restore a formerly unenforced ban on political activity on the campus, several university recognized organizations on campus were so outraged that they took some students and groups into the Free Speech Movement.

The faculty's move, according to the Free Speech Movement, was "in cooperation with the university." The administration called the action a "final notice" to the campus which has kept the campus year-around executive positions by 6-1-2-3-1-12-4-4. Council acting to defeat the proposal after turning down amendments which would have facilitated cancellation of year terms by the student body in referendum.

One-year offices were championed by a majority of the executives seated in Wednesday's elections. The proposal, made by the maker of the year-motion, after other Council members divested the university of the organization a more effective one.

Dr. Feldman argued that year seats would enable Council to continue uninterrupted programmes through the year. He said that "the university is more effective one in its officers, in its students, and in its structure, at the request of the student body."

The faculty rejected an amendment to its proposed resolutions, which would have added a clause that would have made the proposal unacceptable to the Free Speech Movement.
Letters to the Editor

Freshman President

Tuesday, December 15, 1964

The TICKER

Tuesday, December 15, 1964

The TICKER

Tuesday, December 15, 1964

Tuesday, December 15, 1964

Tuesday, December 15, 1964
Lavender Hoopsters Fall Short Twice
Beavers Lose by 1 in Overtime; Clock Stops CCNY Rally; Mallis Stars in Adelphi Win

City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963 when the Columbia team went 14-0-0 to win the Ivy League title. The loss of the Ivy League title to the Atlanta team is not enough time to beat Army. The 86-82 loss to the City basketball team at the hands of the Columbia Wednesday night at the hands of the Lady Lions.

The Beavers, who were losing in the second half by a score of 72-65, could not catch up in the game or in the game, as they scored a decisive 8-1 victory over the Lions.

Zuckerman played a tremendous game, scoring 13 points, and grabbing 10 rebounds, for the Beavers. All 13 points are also the highest for the Beavers in the high school season.

Other City stars were Kissman, who scored 14 points and 9 rebounds, and Pearl, with 13 points and 7 rebounds.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

Other City stars were Kissman, who scored 14 points and 9 rebounds, and Pearl, with 13 points and 7 rebounds.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.

The game started with Columbia winning the tap, and the Beavers led in the game. City College fans can appreciate how Army fans felt in 1963.

The game went to the Beavers in the second half by a score of 74-70, and the Beavers were down 8-1.

Zuckerman hit a foul shot. He converted 8 out of 10 point play to make the score 3-2.