Proposed Economics Split To Be Voted On By BHE; BA Division Is On Agenda

A proposal to divide the Uptown and Downtown Economics Department into two separate units will be considered by the Board of Higher Education at its next meeting. Also at the meeting, the proposed division of the Business Administration Department is scheduled to be voted on.

Both items were on the agenda for last night's meeting; however, it was postponed yesterday afternoon.

The present Downtown Economics Department will become an autonomous unit and will be called the Economics and Finance Department.

The Business Administration Department will be divided into two divisions of Management, Marketing, and Statistics.

Dean Emanuel Saxe explained that changes in both departments needed to ease the burden of administration.

The Economics Department, according to the planned curriculum handbook, offers fifty-one courses and employs forty instructors, twenty-six of which teach only in the Evening Session.

Dean Saxe noted that the Business Administration Department is the largest in the School when both the Day and Evening Session courses are considered. The department offers 161 courses and employs 166 instructors, 160 of which teach only in the Evening Session.

Marketing and management, the dean noted, are "normally divided, but that statistic data should also be a separate department."

He noted that the new Statistics Department will probably consist of business statistics courses (now in the Business Administration Department) and economic statistics (now in the Economics Department).

SC Wants Freshmen In The Club Program

By MARC BERMAN

Student Council unanimously passed a resolution Thursday stating that it felt entering freshmen should continue to be permitted to participate in the co-curricular program during their first semester in college.

The declaration came after Council defeated a motion proposed by President Fred Schwartz to ban entering freshmen from all co-curricular activities including fraternities and house plans.

The Department of Student Life, currently considering a Freshman Orientation Program including freshmen's membership in any student organization.

The Council resolution declared that such action would seriously hurt the co-curricular program.

Speaking for his motion, Mr. Schwartz noted that the ban would help build a stronger co-curricular program by forcing the clubs to plan more activities open to the entire student body, which would attract the entering freshmen.

Speaking for the resolution which followed the defeat of the motion, Andrew Rafferty '65 stated, "Council should take a definite stand against what may be Student Life's course of action." He noted that many clubs which depend on lower freshman participation for their existence would, in his opinion, be destroyed. These clubs, he said, include the Young Democrats, Young Republicans, and several small fraternities.

CUNY Lowers Admission Average; Reaches Major Master Plan Goal

Next September, the City University of New York will open for its Master Plans at least one of its senior colleges for qualified high school graduates with an average of eighty-two or above.

The Chancellor of the City University, Dr. Albert C. Bowers, announced to the Board of Higher Education that approximately 21,000 applications were received for September admission, as compared with the 17,000 applications for September admission to the four-year and two-year units of the University which had been received.

"The senior colleges," Dr. Bowers said, "have offered places to about 15,000 applicants, with the expectation that of these, following the normal experience with multiple applications the nation over, about 10,500 will actually enroll in the day sessions of the senior colleges. The comparable figures for the community colleges of the University, exposing both transfer and career programs, show that some 6,000 day students of the 9,000 to whom places have been offered will enroll.

Thus, the City University will provide day session places for 16,500, not quite half of the number of applicants. About 8,000 of the 33,000 applications were from students who did not have the qualifications for the college for which they applied. Some 3,000 more of the applications were incomplete or were received after the last possible date on which they could have been processed.

Student Council discusses motion to ban freshmen from co-curricular existence would, in his opinion, be destroyed. These clubs, he said, include the Young Democrats, Young Republicans, and several small fraternities.

THE TICKER

"Thirty-One"

BY STEVEN EAGLE

The title "Thirty-One" is confusing. Twenty-one is the number of the enemy in the last battle before falling. It is the end of an era. It is the end of the line for a single man. It is the end of a single era. It is the end of a single life. It is the end of a single story.

The document does not provide a complete context for the title "Thirty-One." The text is fragmented and does not offer a clear explanation for the significance of the number twenty-one. Further reading would be required to understand the full meaning behind the title.

In Search of..."

After feeling that they were the "right" background of excellence, Schlessinger was willing to play a part in the next season's success. He is a versatile player, knowing how to do almost anything. Last year, he pitched both in the starting rotation and in relief, but now he will be doing everything from batting to pitching. Schlessinger's contribution to the team has been invaluable, and he is expected to do even better this year.

In her second season, Judy Eisenmeyer has become one of the leading catchers in the country. She has won the coveted "Stein" award, which is given to the best catcher in the country. Eisenmeyer has also been a member of the national team that has competed in international tournaments. She is expected to continue her dominance in the catching position this year.

Our Man Smith...

The pitching was shared almost equally between Jeff Albies and Tom Chamberlain, "the first year man." Chamberlain had a couple of one-hitters, although his control was lacking. But his potential is enormous, and he is expected to do even better in his second year.

The Beavers finally scored their fifth run in the ninth inning. The runners had been stranded on base for the previous three innings, and the crowd erupted in excitement when they finally scored. It was a tense and dramatic game, with both teams playing their best. The Beavers won the game, 5-3, and will move on to the next round of the tournament.

Walt Kopezuk

Walter Kopezuk, the soccer goalie, has been named the recipient of the Bob Wallack Memorial Award, which is given to the City College Athlete of the Year.

Kopezuk, a junior, and two time all-American gave up only nine goals in ten games. He is twenty years old and a Physical Education major.

Beaver basketball Coach Dave Polansky was a former recipient of the award.

Reflections On A Career

His name is Smith. In many ways he is the same as other Smiths. He is quiet and conscientious. His friends are in the habit of calling him Smitty. He is a senior at Baruch who is about to embark on a career of accounting that is tailor-made for him.

Here is where Howie Smith is different, because "they," the major league baseball scouts, Smith has already spoken to pitching scouts from Minnesota and the White Sox, "If the right offer comes along, I can't very well refuse."

Although Howie cannot foresee what the future holds, he is sure about the past — particularly his four year career as a student and athlete at City College. "I preferred going to City rather than other colleges in the area because I was looking for an education."

Smith's education at City has extended beyond the usual halls of learning. It's a bit tougher, for the error at second base. Smith then got clean-up hitter Eno de Filipi out. Smith then batted and drove in the two runners with a booming triple to left center.

At the bottom of the second, Beaver freshman, Lou Gatti was safe on an error. Howie Smith then batted and drove in the two runners with a soaring triple to second base, second baseman. One out later, Barry Edelstein bunted 12-3, 2, 1, 2, 3 over the center field fence, for a three run homer. Barry Mandel and Dave Hayes then hit doubles and right to put the Beavers ahead 4-2.

The lead was short lived, however, as the Beavers tied the score in the third. Baskin batted a leadoff single, and Smith got two quick strikes on the second out. Rudy Chaloupka then drove in Baskin with a base hit to left center.

Howie Smith

Baruch student to be a C.C.N.Y. athlete. In reflection, Smith is not unhappy. "The satisfaction and the experience I got from competing in intercollegiate athletics justified the sacrifices I had to make." Howie continued, "It is especially gratifying to play for the only team in the Metropolitan Conference that doesn't obtain its players by giving them scholarships."

Smith's most beset achievement was a Beaver slugging party against Hunter College last year. He was a star in the ninth, and he can still vividly recall the last inning. The first man up became a routine out. The second batter smashed a line drive that went skipping over the mound. "I didn't want to turn around because the ball was hit so well. There was a chance that it was within reach of the centerfielder. But I didn't want to turn around because the ball hit so well. There was a chance that it was within reach of the centerfielder. They tried to turn it around but I couldn't do it."

Commenting on the loss, Coach Castro said, "We weren't able to contain our opponents." In the Lafayette game, attackmen Craig Hirsch and Ted Kostlik played well. "I got two of the goals and Kostlik one."

Commenting on the loss, Coach Castro said, "We were hurt by the absence of our star defender, Larry Sanborn. He was injured in the first half and could not return to action." In the Union game, Goalie Stan Wonka played well. "I made nine saves. " McCartney said. "I was very pleased with the way the team played." In Union's 1-8 loss, Wonka played well, scoring the only Beaver goal.

Netmen's Title Hopes Rest on Vital Match

Coach Cire's crew finished up their season Saturday, with an 8-1 victory over N.Y.U. The Beavers had topped the Violets of N.Y.U., 8-1, Wednesday.

In the Pratt match, the netmen overwhelmed their opponents. Marty Deich, City's number one man, evened his season record at 5-5, an excellent goal considering he was pitted against top opponents all year.

Simon and Mike Sedone are also graduating. But Coach Cire will have a fine nucleus to work with next season, according to he.

Arthur Garfin and Charlie Batten are all returning, and the roster for the sixth year was not made. The coach commented.

Trackmen Eighth In Mets; O'Connell Wins 3 Mile Run

"Absolutely the biggest surprise of the year." This was the reaction of City College Saturday, after Beaver Jim O'Connell had won the three mile run in the Met Championships, held at Downing Stadium on Randall's Island.

The Johnson-occasion scored nine points to tie for eighth place in a field of ten. The Manhattan College Jaspers finished first, for the sixth straight year.

O'Connell's winning time, 1:13:36, was five seconds off the Metropolitan Collegiate record. He topped his nearest competitor, Fordham's Matt Cucchiara, the Met indoor two mile champion.

It was the upset of the year, in a meet which Coach Castro termed "a glamorous array of the finest runners in the metropolitan area."

Among the competitors was Olym- pian Tommy Farrell of St. John's.

City's performance was a typical one. Just as they have done all season, the trackmen put up a good fight, but they were overcome by their weakness in the weight events, and their lack of depth.

The fact that he had only eleven men to work with was Coach Castro's biggest disappointment this year. As a result of this lack of depth the Beavers were handicapped in almost every meet.

In spite of this, they still managed to win the Municipal College championships and to place eighth in the Collegiate Track Conference.
