

Lipton, Schoenberg Win Top SC Posts
Berman, Berger, Wiener Fill Out Board

Cassidy Heads '67 Council; Haberman, Mandel Chosen

Faculty Council Passes Changes in Curriculum

Bowker Charged With Opposing Free Tuition

Weinstein To Head SCAC; Broslovsky Voted To NSA
Letters to the Editor

Student Wins ROTC Award

The Legate of Valor bronze statue, purchased by the American Legion of New York, was awarded to Student Wing Private First Class Paul F. Hannon, a junior in the United States Air Force ROTC program at the Baruch School. Mr. Hannon is a member of the Delta Tau Chapter of the Delta Tau Chapter fraternity. The American Legion, which has been presenting such awards since 1945, selected Mr. Hannon for his dedication to public service.

Turnout At Blood Bank Is Called 'Disappointing'

By HUT EISEN

"This has been the most disappointing turnout in the three years I've been here," stated Lee Ruchenthal, '67, co-chairman of the Baruch School blood drive.

"I hope the students who have not donated their blood will see the results of the present drive. The drive was held last Tuesday, and a new record, 1,200 donations, was set. Students who have not donated are asked to see the results of the drive before they continue to neglect the blood bank.

Research and New York University

Dean of the College of the City University of New York, Dr. Charles F. Van Doren, has stated that there is an equivalent of a student population of one thousand students in the New York University. This is due to the fact that the students at New York University are more interested in the research work of the faculty.

The Degion of Valor bronze award to Mr. Yoskowitz, Officer Manager of THE TICKER, was announced, students desiring to attend may call Mr. Yoskowitz, Officer Manager of THE TICKER, to see the proposed changes before they are finalized and recommended for adoption.

Danilo David

Managing Editor

The event at which these papers were presented was a growing demand for a good blood bank drive, and business and communications, while being adequate, could have been improved. The blood bank, sponsored by the Legion of Valor, which is located in the city of chancellor, delivered the final result. To me, this is the greatest value of the event, however, may lie in the future of the blood bank.

The greatest value of the event, however, may lie in the future of the blood bank.
CCNY Five to Face American
And 7-1 Center Art Beatty

The Beaver five will have to keep playing heads up ball this Saturday when they meet the American University Eagles in Washington, D.C.

For the second game in a row, the Lavender will be facing a team which features a seven foot center.

In the Columbia game Tuesday, the Beavers had to take on 7-1 Dave Newmark. The pivot man scored 22 points.

The Eagles also have a 7-1 center, Art Beatty, and he figures to give Coach David Polansky as many problems as the Lavender did.

Although American has a 6-8 forward, Barry Eisemann, a sophomore, has looked very good. He has hit on 24 of 33 shots from the field, for an average of 72.7 percent.

In addition, Beatty has been leading scorer, with 16 points per game, and rebounder, with 9.2 rebounds per game.

City's hopes of containing him and thereby containing the Eagles, rest upon the shoulders of the Beavers' center Barry Eisemann. Barry, a 6-6 sophomore was giving Newmark a hard time Monday night until he fouled out. Up to that time, the Lavender pivotman had been matching the City sophomore point for point and rebound for rebound.

Commenting on City's chances against American, Coach Dave Polansky said, "A lot will depend on how Barry can handle Beatty. He certainly has the desire and ability to do a good job."

The remaining starters for the Eagles up front will be Gary Horsky, a 6-6 forward, and Will Horkey, a 6-8 forward, and Willie Eisemann, a 6-6 center.

The major arguments for the potential merger were first, the possibility of attracting more students from the City campus and, second, their support for the Uptown campus.

The majority of the members seemed to share the opinion of club president, Neal Comet, who wanted to "... keep the club going on its own."

After the announcements about the new coach and the new field, the possibility of merging with the Uptown club was discussed.

The major points in favor of merging were the potential of having a larger field for practice and a number of footballers attending the Uptown campus.

Dick Johnson as our coach, and Edison Field, located on fourteenth street and first avenue, the field is owned by the city.

Mr. Johnson has consented to speak with Dr. Arthur Des Grey, faculty adviser for athletics.

New careers may be blooming on the airwaves; careers which may have lain dormant along with suppressed ambitions.

To enable a better rapport between the college and the city, the club's field committee reported the feasibility of merging with the Uptown campus, and, second, the field is owned by the city.

After the announcements about the new coach and the new field, the possibility of merging with the Uptown club was discussed.

The major arguments for the potential merger were first, the possibility of attracting more students from the City campus and, second, their support for the Uptown campus.

The majority of the members seemed to share the opinion of club president, Neal Comet, who wanted to "... keep the club going on its own."

After the announcements about the new coach and the new field, the possibility of merging with the Uptown club was discussed.

The major arguments for the potential merger were first, the possibility of having a larger field for practice and a number of footballers attending the Uptown campus.

Dick Johnson as our coach, and Edison Field, located on fourteenth street and first avenue, the field is owned by the city.

Mr. Johnson has consented to speak with Dr. Arthur Des Grey, faculty adviser for athletics.