Marks Is Chosen Editor-in-Chief of Ticker; Council Declares Outcome of Election 18-1, Refuses to Send Student Members to TA

Six Student Seats Asked

A motion calling last week's Ticker Association election "a travesty of justice" and recommending a change in the membership of the committee was passed by Student Council, 18-1, Thursday.

The motion, sponsored by Thomas Murray '66, decried the election of Horace Marks '67 as editor in chief of the Ticker, claiming that the election was compromised by "intertwined, interdependent, interlocking systems of the student body."

Dr. Marks defeated Frank O'Connor '67, 17-16.

Text of Council Motion on Ticker Election

The School's newspaper "had been responsible and responsive to the needs of the student body throughout the past year. The membership of the newspaper's staff and especially the editorial staff, should be warned by a process which primarily involves student participation in the election of those desiring to serve as editors."

However, at yesterday's Ticker Association meeting an interlocking system or our present system was revealed. Seven student editors were formed heretofore, the result of the interlocking system. Each of the editors has a vote on each of the student editors appointed before Ticker Association, and the result of the voting is a majority of the voting age in New York State.

Cassidy Also A Candidate

Herbert Marks '67, who has never before been a member of The Ticker editorial board, was elected editor-in-chief of the School newspaper Monday by the Ticker Association.

Head of BHE Is Re-elected

Dr. George G. Rosenberg was re-elected last night as chairman of the Board of Higher Education.

The convention was attended by Eugene Nixon, N.Y.U. Executive, in the midst of both angry andcheckpoint.

The theme of Mr. Nixon's speech was that "The final steps of social change are going to be made by a few people in a few places."

BALLEETING: Delegates to the Mock Democratic Gubernatorial Convention cast the vote for the prospective nominees for governor. COORDINATORS: Allen Broslovsky '67 and Harvey Wacht '67. The convention also approved a platform which included the lower income of the voting age in New York State, a tax deduction of $200 for political contributions, and a $100 fee for political contributions.
Bowler Says CUNY May Rent More Space

The City University is prepared to open emergency centers in rented quarters to accommodate the 2,276 freshman applicants to the university, announced Chancellor Albert B. Alutto.

At a meeting with the New York City Housing Authority, Mayor John V. Lindsay approved the plan as a temporary measure.

The problems faced by a graduate student at the university has been recorded in a report by the Faculty Disciplinary Committee. The report, which was presented to the Committee, contained recommendations for necessary improvements in the student activities. A copy of the report is available in the office of the Chancellor.

Dr. Minister Codifies Rules, Regulations for Students

Dr. Edward Minister, Dean of that State's university, states that the rules and regulations that govern student activities have been codified in a new manual, "Students Guide." The manual contains rules and regulations for all activities, including social events, student organizations, and student government. It also includes information on the rights and responsibilities of students.

Letters to the Editor

Dr. Albert Bowker, Space is Available

To the Editor:
The announcement of the CUNY Aid Bill, which provides financial assistance to the City University of New York, is a welcome development. However, the amount of money allocated for this purpose is not sufficient to meet the needs of the students. The students are very much in need of assistance, and the government should increase the amount of money available to meet their needs.

Seven students spoke in Mr. Cassidy's behalf or praised his abilities in reporting the proceedings. They were Mel Katz '66 and Norman Lipman '67, former Student Council presidents; Howard Minsky '67, the president-elect of the Inter-Fraternity Council; Steve Feldman '67, the present House Plan Association president; Tom Nicas '65, former editor-in-chief of The Ticker; Bob Famiglietti '57, the present editor-in-chief, and Paul Rogoff '68, the association's secretary. One faculty member in attendance and several students said they did not speak because they believed Mr. Cassidy's election was assured.

Mr. Lipton noted that, when he was the president of the student body, he often went to Mr. Cassidy for advice. Mr. Famiglietti said that Mr. Cassidy had done an "excellent" job as a member of the editorial board and pointed out that Mr. Marks had never held any position of responsibility in the school.

Previously this term, Mr. Marks was asked by Mr. Cassidy to be a reporter but replied that he did not have the time. Mr. Marks worked as a candidate for the editor-in-chief for about six weeks in the spring '65 semester.

No students spoke for Mr. Marks at the meeting.

The Ticker Association then went into executive session. It was later learned that the vote was four to three for Mr. Marks. It was further learned that Professors Edwin Hill (Math.), Michael Raehder (Mktg.), and James Sullivan (Law), and Stuart Briedbart '66 voted for Mr. Cassidy.

Professor Banach previously announced that he would, after sixteen years, no longer serve on the association. He was awarded a gold service key.

The fourth faculty member of the Ticker Association, William Turner Levy (Eng.), was not in attendance because “his Cadillac was stolen” and he was straightening out the matter. He reported to be at a police station at the time of the meeting.

The other three student members of the association, Marlene Shoreick '67, Mr. Weiner, and Lucy Tarr '66, voted for Mr. Cassidy.

When the final decision was announced before an audience of approximately twenty-five students, a shocked silence resulted.

Mr. Marks still served as editor-in-chief while in his upper sophomore term. No upper sophomore filled this position for at least the past seven semesters.

It has been rumored for several weeks that a change in The Ticker's editorial board was to take place. Professor Maurine Benewitz (Chairman, Eco. and Fin.), had recently been heard saying that “a coup is going to take place on Ticker.”

Associate Dean of Students David Newton had asked Paul Nomm '68, the editor-in-chief of The Greek Way, I.F.C.'s newspaper, to run for editor-in-chief. When Mr. Cassidy heard the decision, he noted, “I couldn’t believe it because the criteria used to make the judgment were not apparent to me. Also, no criticism of my work on The Ticker was brought up at the meeting.”

Mr. Cassidy, in addition to having served five terms as a member of the staff, is the president of the Class of '67, was the chairman of the special Student Council Talk-out Committee, the chairman of the Sigma Alpha Chi Affairs Committee, selected to the Dean’s List, and was formerly a Baruch School Fellow of the International House.

The meeting lasted from three to six thirty. The executive session lasted about forty minutes.

While the members of the association were in executive session, students in attendance at the meeting joined other students waiting to learn the results of Council's election of representatives and Class Council executives. The air was one of confidence in Mr. Cassidy’s victory and Mr. Marks commented as he left the meeting. "There’s no doubt, is there?" Mr. Marks later commented that he was sure he had been defeated and he was ready to go home.

Students still expressed "shock and dismay" at the outcome of the election, days after it had occurred.

Head of BHE Is Re-elected

The chairmanship was elected to the position of vice-chairman, a new position filled for the first time in accordance with the by-laws of the board.

There is an indication that Mr. Chandler might be considered for the chairmanship when Dr. Rosenberg resigns.

The sixty-five year old attorney, who is with the firm of Davis, Poll, Wardwell, Scherlender, and Kinsella, has served as a member of the board since 1952. His term does not expire until June 1970.

Mrs. Ruth Sharp, a member of the board for fourteen terms and the secretary to the board, had her position abolished last night.

Information was also obtained that the board has reiterated the goals of the Master Plan, which is to make available a tuition-free education to as many high school graduates as possible.

Before any action may be taken on the board’s proposal funds must be appropriated by the state government.

Dr. Rosenberg stated after the election, “The confidence which the board has expressed in me in electing me chairman is very greatly appreciated, especially since it has made absolutely clear to the members that for personal reasons I would not serve longer than six months at most.”

“I am glad,” he said, “to have had the opportunity to fight for and preserve the policy of free tuition and the independence and autonomy of the City University. This I will continue to do because I know what the opportunity in the colleges of the City University means to the young people of New York.”

Schedule of Final Examinations

Students are required to report conflicts — two examinations — at the same time — to the Registrar’s Office, 303, by Wednesday, March 30, on the special form available in that office.
