The students and faculty of Long Island University's Brooklyn campus, possibly 4,000 strong, are expected to march on City Hall today protesting the possible sale of the center to City University.

In a later development, Ed Schwartz, president of the National Student Association, has asked all colleges in the metropolitan area to support the Brooklyn group as they march through downtown Brooklyn over the Brooklyn Bridge to City Hall.

After the release of information, last week, acknowledging negotiations between C.U.N.Y. and L.I.U. over the sale of the center, the students rallied at a special convocation demanding to know what would happen to them if the sale went through.

A Student Council Emergency Committee was established to coordinate the march, where the students hope to inform the public of what is taking place, and also to protest the lack of information on the sale to students and faculty and the lack of a guarantee of student education and faculty employment.

The students are engaging a lawyer to investigate the possibility of student damages in actions prohibiting the sale and also to protest the lack of information to students and faculty and the lack of a guarantee of student education and faculty employment.

Don Birnbaum, 68, defeated John Meitner, 69, 107 to 98, for the one seat in the Class of '70. The uncontested election in the Class of '71 saw Sandy Alan Eagon gain one of the three open seats with 91 "yes" and 25 "no" votes.

In the second uncontested election, the three open seats in the Class of '69, Stuart Halmover received 53 "yes" and 12 "no" votes.

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my concerns regarding the recent events on campus. As a member of the student body, I believe it is important to address these issues and work towards finding a solution. I hope that the administration will take these concerns seriously and take steps to ensure a safe and respectful environment for all students.

Sincerely,

If you don't believe in God, then...
Students and faculty from Long Island Community College were represented. We distinctly remember that they have overlooked.

The faculty members are concerned about their jobs and that they will never change their degree and rightfully so.

The lack of definitive information concerning the proposed sale of the L.I.C. was not covered.

We wish to express our appreciation for the initiation of the Baruch School and to have formed a new college in a much-needed location.

The fate of Theatron's fall production is still unknown because no decision has yet been made as to where they will obtain a new college in a much-needed location.

The students and faculty members will be concerned with the future of the drama department. It is the function of the drama department to produce a high-quality production.

The student body's opinion of the new college is that it is an improvement. The new college will bring new opportunities for the students.

American Indians: The Forgotten Minority

GAIL GARTNER

American Indians are one of the groups that suffer from widespread discrimination. Their problems are not limited to economic and political discrimination, but also include medical, educational, and social problems. The United States, like other countries, has a long history of discriminating against its native populations. This discrimination has led to poverty, illiteracy, and disease among American Indians.

The United States has made many attempts to help American Indians, but these efforts have been largely unsuccessful. There are still many American Indians who are living in poverty and who are not able to access basic services such as education and health care.

Situation Cloudy As Harriers Lose Opener; Beavers, Knights Battle to a Scoreless Tie

Soccer Team Beats Lions

By LARRY BROOKS

The Lavender Beavers and the Black Knights went to war over the Blackbird Hall field, an Intercollegiate Var. and Pace College by scores of 6-1 and 4-4.

The results were back-to-back losses, as the Lavender 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th placed and the Knights were pushed into a tie.

Sitting on defense, Prof. Sirutis, clad with his lavender C.C.N.Y. athletic shorts, also had to settle for a deadlock against one of the weaker teams in the conference.

The All-American, a left-hander, played thanks to an excellent performance by netminder Dave Beneshai and a sharp backfield run by the Knights, whose missed opportunities on the Knights' goalie was caught out of position three times. Soft shooting and poor marksmanship stood in the way of a tally.

Newcomer Elias Fokas played admirably for injured Gerald Suchan in the center slot and interested me after I learned at Sam, always a tough customer around the goalmouth, got into a pushing fracas when Bennett's safety was endangered, but Klivec quieted things down.

The Beavers travel to Pratt and will face one of the toughest teams in the conference. A 6-1, 4-4, in a preliminary contest.

"You're doing well, punching hard. Watch me, keep your guard up." These instructions were shouted by Professor Yustina Sirutis as he watched his 1,600-pound, frame, instilled with the first "round" in which the mild-mannered professor, though not competing, demonstrated some of the skills that had once gained him the national collegiate boxing title and the national Golden Gloves championship.

At right, Sirutis, recently appointed Sub-chairman of the Physical and Health Education Department, reminisced about the "old" days as he pitched out of the Dempsey-Willard fight. "As I sit here now, it (boxing) seems to mind as he pitched out of the Dempsey-Willard fight. "As I sit here now, it (boxing) seems to mind as he pitched out of the Dempsey-Willard fight."

Diamondmen Win Twice; Rizzi And Paris Sparkle

By PHIL WAXBERG

Notable authorities have postulated that the main component of the game of baseball is pitching. With this idea firmly in mind, Beaver hurlers out to prove the experts correct.

The results were back-to-back gems by the Lavender pitching ace, as City defeated Iona College and Pace College by scores of 6-1 and 4-1, bringing their record to 3-3.

Rizzi's effort against Iona last Wednesday was nothing less than spectacular. He pitched no-hit ball for six and two-thirds innings and allowed only one hit. The half-cout of the hilly, five-mile course. Next was the University of Miami.-
