Quotations of the Decade

"I shall not seek and I will not accept the nomination of my party as your President."

"Tonight, in the hope that this action will lead to early talks, I am taking the first step to de-escalate the conflict. We are reducing—substantially reducing—the present level of hostilities. And we are doing so unilaterally, and at once."

—President Lyndon Baines Johnson

Petitions for Treasurer Due; Council Denies Film Funds

Action Is Taken On Diploma Rule

Student Council, while refusing to grant fifty dollars to show the film "Inside North Vietnam," discussed the Baruch College diplomas. The Ticker's finances and the Fees Committee allocations at Thursday night's meeting.

After a lengthy debate, Council voted down a motion by David Trager '70, Campus Affairs Committee chairman, to co-sponsor Felix Greene's controversial film "Inside North Vietnam."

A representative of one of the eight clubs already sponsoring the film, claimed that another sixty dollars was needed for the presentation.

Some factions on Council felt that the film was anti-American, and that the majority was against showing the film at any price.

Leon Weisberg '69, introduced a motion which was subsequently amended by Robert Bernan '70, requesting that all students who entered the College before July 1 be given a choice about the diploma they receive.

Under this proposal those students requesting a City College diploma could then receive one.

Button Sale Halted for Student Strike; Charity Drive Committee to Hear Case

The steering committee for the international student strike was dealt a slight setback Wednesday when it was informed by Dr. Irving Gregor that it must discontinue its sale of buttons because a "political" group must exist as a non-profit organization.

Dr. Gregor, director of student services, told representatives of the committee that it is against School regulations to continue button sales within the confines of the School grounds.

Despite these circumstances, it was learned that the Charity Drive Committee can approve the sale of the buttons. This committee will meet this week to render its decision.

Thus far the committee has sold 400 buttons at twenty-five cents each for a revenue of $100. A committee spokesman said that the primary cost of the organization focus on publicity.

At the steering committee meeting Thursday several sub-committees were established to deal with different facets of the proposed strike, which is slated for April 26.

Petitions are due tomorrow at 12 for the position of Student Council Treasurer in a special election to be held next Wednesday.

There will be an election meeting tomorrow at 3 for the purpose of determining ballot positions and reviewing the rules and regulations of campaigning in 308 S.C.

The position of treasurer became vacant when Paul Rogoff resigned from that post two weeks ago. In the interim, Arthur Ainsburg '68, Student Council Treasurer last year, and an assistant is fulfilling the function of the treasurer. Mr. Ainsburg this term is serving as a special assistant to President Max Berger.

The election will be held next Wednesday in the auditorium lobby at a booth run by Jointly Boosters and Sigma Alpha. In order to vote Bursar's and Identification Cards are required.

To prevent students from voting twice the student's program card will be punched as he votes. Before last term it was possible for a student to vote twice by obtaining another Bursar's Card from the Bursar's Office claiming to have lost his original. At that time Bursar's Cards were punched to prove that a student had voted.

A member of the Student Council stated at press time that at least two students had already taken out petitions.

The special election is being called by the Council president according to the charter and will be held from 9-3:15.

Plans Readied For Special Election

The motion passed and letters were sent to Acting Provost Emanuel Sachs and C.U. Chancellor Frank J. Gessel informing them of the decision

The Ticker Association made a motion which stated that Council desires that The Ticker be allowed to print, and that the Fees Committee do everything "within reason" to insure that The Ticker continues to print.

Asserting that The Ticker was in trouble of not being able to print any more because of its reason.

Softi, a confessional story of a modern-day Joe of Arizona, was performed for the first time in Los Angeles last year. The play is set in the town of S.F.A. in the Southwestern United States, where a group of young people, including the main character, Softi, are trying to make sense of their lives. The play explores themes of identity, belonging, and the search for purpose in a world that can often be overwhelming.

Analysis of a True Crime

By LEON WEISSBERG

The public, often-suspicious attitude towards the media stems from an established mistrust of the media's impartiality and accuracy. Reporters and authors are often perceived as biased towards their own interests, which can compromise the truth. This is further complicated by the proliferation of misinformation and fake news. The problem with the media's neutrality, however, extends beyond the transmission of facts and refutes the notion of a "neutral" stance.

Instead of covering events with objectivity, media can be influenced by various factors, including financial interests, political affiliations, and personal biases. This can lead to a distortion of the truth, which can have significant implications for society. It is crucial for media professionals to be aware of these influences and strive to maintain a high standard of journalistic ethics.

To address these issues, it is essential for media professionals to be held accountable for their actions. This can be achieved through increased transparency, self-regulation, and accountability measures. It is also important for the public to be informed about these issues and to engage critically with the media's content. Ultimately, a more accountable and transparent media landscape can contribute to a more informed and empowered society.

"I think you can measure a company's interest in its people by its willingness to invest in them."

"I joined IBM in June, '64, in operations research. "I liked the work well enough, but after a year and a half, I began to think that the ideal field for me was computer programming. (This is Alvin Palmer, an Associate Programmer at IBM.)

"But by this time, I was making a pretty good salary. So I was faced with a big question. Would IBM be willing to let me move into a new field while I was still going to school and not being productive for a while? "The answer was yes. I went to programming school full time for three months, and IBM continued to pay my full salary."

"And a competent kid out of programming. You're telling a computer

You don't need a technical degree. "Your major doesn't matter. There are plenty of programmers at IBM with degrees in liberal arts or business. What counts is having a logical mind."

"I'm making good progress in this field, so I'm glad I was able to make the change. I think it indicates how far IBM will go to help you make the most of your abilities."

Detroit, March 30—Two City College fencers were named All-Americans last week when College Championships ended its three day run at Wayne University.

The pair, Bill Borkowski and Arnold Messing, finished in the final eight in the foil and epee competition respectively, and, on Sunday evening, Steve Liebermann, who finished seventh in the saber, came back to win the final bout and claim the Gold Medal in the event.

Liebermann was almost as strong as he was tall and is expected to win the title. He won every bout except the final, which he lost to Michael Baker, of Notre Dame, who placed fifth in the tournament. Liebermann ended the day with a 15-7 record.

When the final day started this morning the Beavers were in third place, one point ahead of fourth place Penn. Liebermann was the man of the hour as he had just downed one foe after another, winning the final bout in three times in thirteen bouts, including a loss to Michael Baker, of Notre Dame, who placed fifth in the tournament. Liebermann ended the day with a 15-7 record.

When the day's events were over Borkowski added twelve victories to his total, three of which he won against his old foe, Bill Scott, who had held the record for the season, but was still a distant second to Liebermann. Borkowski finished fourth in N.C.A.A. meet.

Liebermann, however, felt that he left the Vienna Cup, 9-3, eventually pushing Borkowski out of third place. Two of Liebermann's losses came to Kosben, 8-5. Two of his other defeats yesterday also came to Kosben, 8-2 and 8-6.

Yesterday's open results were similar. Messing lost four bouts of fifteen. Liebermann, however, finished third. He lost his opening bout, and then was off to a rough start, losing three times in thirteen bouts, including a loss to Michael Baker, of Notre Dame, who placed fifth in the tournament. Liebermann ended the day with a 15-7 record.
