Quotations of the Decade

"I shall not seek and I will not accept the nomination of my party as your President."

"Tonight, in the hope that this action will lead to early talks, I am taking the first step to de-escalate the conflict. We are reducing—substantially reducing—the present level of hostilities. And we are doing so unilaterally, and at once."

—President Lyndon Baines Johnson

Filing Date Announced For Financial Aid Applications

Undergraduate students wishing to apply for financial assistance must submit their applications no later than April 22.

Forms, which may be obtained in the Financial Aid Office, 411 S.C., are applicable to National Defense Loans, Educational Opportunity Program, Federal Work-Study positions, Bernard M. Baruch Scholarships and other financial aid programs for the upcoming academic year.

According to Leon Woloshin, the newly appointed financial aid officer, a standard application form prepared by the College Scholarship Service located in Princeton, N.J. is to be filed by students.

The service, which is used throughout the country and on the Uptown campus, evaluates the needs of the student according to information supplied by the School in determining what shall receive awards.

Petitions for Treasurer Due; Council Denies Film Funds

Action Is Taken On Diploma Rule

Student Council, while refusing to grant fifty dollars to show the film "Inside North Vietnam," discussed the Baruch College diplomas, The Ticker's finances and the Fees Committee allocations at Thursday night's meeting.

After a lengthy debate, Council voted down a motion by David Trager '70, Campus Affairs Committee chairman, to co-sponsor Felix Greene's controversial film "Inside North Vietnam."

A representative of one of the eight clubs already sponsoring the film, claimed that another fifty dollars was needed for the presentation.

Some factions on Council felt the film was anti-American and advocated subjecting the film to School regulations to continue but- torn

Function of the Lamport Leaders

By David Larinsky

The recent demonstrations against the Vietnam War may be viewed by some as efforts to mobilize the student body for a variety of issues, but to a faculty member, they can be seen as attempts to mobilize the student body for their own ends. To many, the demonstrations are a means of pressuring the university to take a stand on national issues, and they see the student demonstration as a way to bring attention to the university's role in the war.

The Lamport Leaders is an organization of students who have come together to address the problem of student apathy and to encourage participation in student activities. The Lamport Leaders believe that the university has neglected its role in the community and that students are not being given opportunities to participate in the institution's activities.

The Lamport Leaders have been trying to recruit new members and to involve more students in their activities. They have been successful in reaching some students, but they have had difficulty in gaining the attention of others.

The Lamport Leaders believe that the university should be more involved in the community and that students should be given more opportunities to participate in its activities. They see the demonstrations as a way to bring attention to the university's role in the war and to encourage students to become more involved in the institution's activities.

April: A Month of Extensive Protest By Anti-war Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) - The campus anti-war movement, which has been fairly quiet this February, with its pick-up expected in a series of protests planned throughout this month.

The anti-war movement, which has been fairly quiet this February, with its pick-up expected in a series of protests planned throughout this month.

A campaign has been launched by Students for a Democratic Society to organize a series of protests at the University of Washington. The campaign has been organized by the University Students for the Democratic Society, which is a group of students who are active in the campus anti-war movement.

The campaign has been launched in response to the university's decision to move the Vietnam War campus demonstrations to the end of the month. The students have been concerned that the university's decision to move the demonstrations to the end of the month will make it more difficult for them to participate in the protests.

The students have been organizing protests for the past month, and they have been successful in recruiting students to participate in the protests. They have been able to organize a number of protests, and they have been able to attract a significant number of students to participate in the protests.

Letters to the Editor

Strike to Be Told

With the current world mood of questioning the need for the war in Vietnam, it is also a question for the people of North Carolina. Therefore, the North Carolina Student Peace Organization and my organization, the Peace Corps, have scheduled an open meeting on April 30 to try to explain our position. I think it's important that North Carolinians become aware of the war to be able to make their own decisions as to whether or not they want to continue supporting the war. The meeting is being held at the Peace Corps office in Raleigh, and is open to the public. I hope a large turnout will be present.

Action on the Homefront with Peace

Criticism of the Administration's policy in Vietnam has led many people across the United States of many ages. My section of this concern is the middle-aged group, and my open invitation to the North Carolina Student Peace Organization by its president, Gary Mead, was immediately accepted by the United States Peace Corps, who have invited him to participate in their own encampment in Washington, D.C.

The next move must be taken by North Carolina, and that is a public and united demonstration. Through a public and united demonstration, we can send a clear message to the Administration that we are concerned about the war in Vietnam.

Right to Be Human

In the March 24 issue of The Ticker, I mentioned the issue of human rights. I believe that every person has a right to be treated with dignity and respect, regardless of where they live or what their beliefs are. It is important for us to stand up for these rights and work towards creating a more just and peaceful world.

One lesson can be drawn from this issue is that it is possible for the government to offend a large number of people. To prevent this from happening in the future, I believe that we need to have a better understanding of the values and beliefs of the people we are working with. If we can do this, we can avoid the kind of situation that occurred in Vietnam.

The President's move must be impressive to part of public opinion in this country. This can be evidenced by his statements aiming an end to this in the face, then by those first in the United States.

I am writing because I am a subscriber to The Ticker. I am interested in participating in the April 30 event in Washington, D.C. Please let me know if you can participate. Thank you.

The Academy Awards

This year's Academy Awards ceremony was held on April 30, 1968. The ceremony was held at the Dorothy Chandler Pavilion in Los Angeles, California. The event was broadcast live on television and was watched by millions of people around the world.

The Academy Awards are presented annually by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The awards honor excellence in filmmaking and are considered the highest achievement in the film industry.

The ceremony was hosted by Johnny Carson and featured performances by various actors and actresses. The ceremony featured several awards, including Best Picture, Best Director, Best Actor, Best Actress, and Best Original Score.

The ceremony ended with the presentation of the first Oscar statue, which was given to Costume Designer Freddie Bailey for his work on the film "Cleopatra." The ceremony was a huge success, and it is considered one of the most memorable events in the history of the Academy Awards.

The following are some of the highlights from the 1968 Academy Awards ceremony:

- Best Picture: "The Sound of Music"
- Best Director: Blake Edwards for "The Pink Panther"
- Best Actor: Peter O'Toole for "Lawrence of Arabia"
- Best Actress: Elizabeth Taylor for "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"
- Best Original Score: "2001: A Space Odyssey"

Month of Protests...

Without a doubt, one of the months that will be remembered for its significant events is April, 1968. The month was marked by a series of protests and demonstrations that were linked to the anti-war movement and the civil rights struggle.

Among the significant events was the strike of university students in support of the five black students arrested during demonstrations at Howard University. The strike was organized by the War Resisters League and was one of the largest anti-war demonstrations of the time.

Another notable event was the rioting in Chicago that followed the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr. The riots were triggered by a demonstration against the Chicago Police Department's treatment of black residents.

The month also saw the beginning of the anti-war movement's efforts to mobilize campus and grassroots organizing against the war. The movement was led by organizations such as Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and the War Resisters League.

The month of April 1968 also saw the beginning of the anti-war movement's efforts to mobilize campus and grassroots organizing against the war. The movement was led by organizations such as Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and the War Resisters League.

Several Birkenstock groups that had been meeting regularly to discuss alternative lifestyles and the war were among the groups that organized protests and demonstrations during the month. These groups included the Berkeley Birkenstock Group, the San Francisco Birkenstock Group, and the Los Angeles Birkenstock Group.

"I joined IBM in June, '45, in operations research. "I liked the work well enough, but after a year and a half, I began to think that the ideal field for me was computer programming. (This is Alvin Palmer, an Associate Programmer at IBM.)"

"But by this time, I was making a pretty good salary. So I was faced with a big question. Would IBM be willing to let me move into a new field which would mean going to school and not being productive for a while?"

The answer was 'yes.' I went to programming school full time for three months, so I'm glad I was able to make the change. I think it indicates how far IBM will go to help you make the most of your abilities."

NETMEN, STICKMEN OPEN

Tennis

The City College tennis team, defending Metropolitan Tournament champions, opened the season and somewhat weakened by graduation, opens defense of its title today. The Bears will host Fairleigh Dickinson at the Ridley Center Tennis Court this afternoon in a non-league encounter.

The Leopards will face Teachers for its first conference clash and will entertain Teachers League Brooklyn Poly, Sunday.

The Bears have lost to each other in recent years and today's match will be an interesting one. Both teams are loaded with good players and a strong showing by the Bears or Teachers will be a good indication of how the season will shape up.

LACROSSE

The City College lacrosse team will have a mighty tough time trying to repeat last year's fantastic heroics.

Last season the stickmen had a record of 5-2-1, the best in the City College history. However, the Bears and their opponents in the Metropolitan Tournament were all evenly matched, making it difficult for the Bears to claim any major victories.

Boys' basketball

 mentioning twelve victories in the first day's total, but dropped to third place behind Columbia and the Bears.

City Nine Rips Manhattan Community

City Nine, a team announced for the first time in the Big Ten, opened the season with a bang. The Bears beat Manhattan, 15-4, in the first game of a doubleheader.

LACROSSE

The Bears had a tough time, but managed to come out on top in the Bears' final game against Teachers, 5-3. The Bears' lineup included Jack Smith, John Dodge, and George Quill in the midfield. The Bears' defense was led by Bob Johnson and John O'Brien.

CLASS MEETING

The City College council met Thursday evening in the council chamber to discuss the team's future. The council decided to continue the team's efforts to improve their record and to try for a better finish in the conference.
