Black Week Comes to Baruch
"Last Poets' To Recite Today

Yesterday, the Afro-American Society opened "Black Week" with two events, followed by "A Last Poets' Extravaganza" on Friday night in the North and South Lounges of the Student Center with a reception for the exhibiting artists Robert Reid, Rudy Harding and Kinroad. In 4 South at 3 p.m. the films, "Free at Last" and "Heritage of the Negro" were viewed by individuals who a spokesman for the Afro-American Society called "an excellent turnout" considering the scheduled and the emphasis placed on the rest of the week program.

This "Black Week" program is the first of its kind ever attempted at Bernard M. Baruch College. It can be measured by one student, "a group of revolutionary Black poets who according to Michael Lemelle, undoubtedly have a message. Immediately following the readings, the "Last Poets" will participate in a discussion "Culture: an Illusion" with Larry Neal, Resident Poet CUNY, and the audience. Both readings and discussion will be in the Auditorium at 4:30 p.m."

Biafra Drive A Success

It is highly doubtful that anyone within the confines of Baruch did not have some rudimentary concept of the situation in Biafra by the afternoon of Wednesday, October 30. Supporters of the former Biafran were plentiful and from fairly divergent backgrounds, the second statement being substantiated by the fact that members of both the R.O.T.C. and the Human Rights Society worked for the same cause.

Such a cause which inspires funds to alleviate the horrors of some obscure conflict thousands of miles away can be easily ignored in an area where news or millions dying of plague in India or bullets in Vietnam is flashed on the book club in "living" color while Mr. and Mrs. America eat supper. Reports coming from the indigenous races of a war of starvation in which 7 - 8,000 deaths a day are possible, have not been ignored.

To those who evidence some concern in spite of all these factors, a note of thanks is deserved, especially Mark Frank, V.P. of Habitat for whom the drive behind the term Charity Drive.

According to information released by the Catholic Relief Services and other humanitarian agencies such as CARE, the airlifts of food, medical supplies are reaching the Biafra land. In 12:15 p.m. the "Oppressed Peoples of Class of '72 Mr. Rozier came to the fashion show will consist of original poetry interpretations by the "Last Poets" a group of revolutionary Black poets who according to Michael Lemelle, undoubtedly have a message. Immediately following the readings, the "Last Poets" will participate in a discussion "Culture: an Illusion" with Larry Neal, Resident Poet CUNY, and the audience. Both readings and discussion will be in the Auditorium at 4:30 p.m.

Curriculum Talkout
Shows Path To Future

"I think our curriculum is antiquated and our methods of teaching obsolete." --With these words Professor Levenstein began what was to be one of the highlights of last Thursday's "Talk-Out". The highly controversial subject of the Management Department at Baruch recalled his affections for antiquity, substantiated by his own efforts in the "ruins of the educational liaison lines in which we live", and properly preserving such antiquities.

Such a preservation-rejuvenation process would not reject all that is old and embrace all that is recent according to Professor Levenstein, but to adjust to environmental change and still provide the opportunity for excellence.

Existing teaching techniques and curricula are often oriented to a rural, agricultural, society of the past era, not the current problems of an urban, industrial life. Prof. Levenstein also utilized the widespread practice of apportioning the time of the younger generation's educational experience to the classics of a bygone era, without an interim curriculum plan to allow students who are currently enrolled a choice of degree.

Robert Berman was unanimous elected as the student-faculty committee which will help plan the liberal arts curriculum for the first year of our new program.

Considerable discussion focused on the liberal arts proposed which was presented in last week's TICKER editorial. The curricula changes urged by the faculty were endorsed by Student Council. A copy of the Council resolution follows:

WHEREAS the students of the Bernard M. Baruch College have spent many hours studying and discussing potential Liberal Arts Curriculum for the new college;

AND WHEREAS we have been convinced that only those students who will be entering as freshmen in September 1969 and thereafter but those students who are currently enrolled in the Bernard M. Baruch College;

AND WHEREAS many currently enrolled students have indicated a strong desire to obtain a Liberal Arts degree;

AND WHEREAS we are aware of the problems caused by our incomplete Constitution and the limited number of tenured faculty (Continued on Page 2)

Professor Wysobrood session, thereby maximizing student-faculty contact and net educational effect.

Highly enthusiastic about team teaching as a means of counteracting the divisive departmentalizing process, Professor Levenstein proposed such courses as: "The Impacts of Business in American Literature" conducted by Profs. Levenstein and Lavender (English), "The Impact of Business on the Psychology of the Individual" conducted by Profs. Fineberg (Psych.), and Bandman (Mgt.), "Business and Social Accounting" with Profs. Beloff (Acct.) and Podell (Eco.).

Prof. Levenstein also proposed that students of Mgt. and Acct. could be advisors to small ghetto businesses or assist in operating the college's physical facilities and (Continued on Page 3)

There were so many events occurring in the last week which I cannot tell you all about. Perhaps you can get a better sense of what it has been like during this period by reading the students' newspaper, The Ticker. The Ticker is a publication of the Baruch College student body and is published every Monday at 12:00 noon. It is available on the college campus and at various locations around the city. If you are interested in subscribing to The Ticker, please contact the Baruch College Student Association at Room 408, The Ticker Staff Office.

On Thursday, October 22, 1968, the Baruch College Student Association held an all-day meeting to discuss the future of the college. The meeting was well attended and the atmosphere was lively. The students discussed a variety of issues, including the proposed move to the 34th Street Armory, the need for increased funding, and the importance of student voice in the decision-making process. The meeting was also a chance for students to express their concerns and to hear from other students about their experiences.

The meeting was held in Room 408 of the Student Center on the Baruch College campus. The meeting lasted from 10:00 AM to 5:00 PM and was open to all students. The agenda for the meeting included the following topics:

1. Introduction and welcome
2. History of Baruch College
3. Current issues and challenges
4. Future plans and goals
5. Open forum

The meeting was well attended by students from all classes and majors. The atmosphere was positive and the students actively engaged in the discussion. The meeting was a successful event and the students were happy with the outcome.

If you have any questions or comments about the meeting, please contact the Baruch College Student Association at Room 408, The Ticker Staff Office.
The World Of Music

BY JAN KRAUSE

Joe Leider, William Perkins and John Wood are back, through it hard to determine if they've gone anywhere. They are the Chambers Brothers, and their latest album, "A New Time/ A New Day," is a fact of life they have. And judging by the latest "You Know My Name," their latest single, it seems that they have some good ideas of their own.

What is it about the Chambers Brothers that makes them so successful? It's hard to put it into words. They are, after all, a group that has been around for a long time, and their music has always been so good. But it's hard to say what it is about their music that makes it so popular. Maybe it's their ability to write good songs, or their ability to perform them in a way that makes them sound like they're having fun. Whatever it is, it's hard to deny that they are a success.

The Chambers Brothers have been playing for a long time, and they are a group that has been around for a long time. Their music is always good, and their performances are always fantastic. If you haven't seen them perform, you should definitely try to. They are a group that you definitely want to see.
Coed Archery Tourney
To Open This Thursday

On October 24th the coed archery tournament will be held on the 5th floor at 12:00. Fun is the name of the game, so everyone who enters is sure to be a winner. There will be 2 prizes for each division: male, female, and mixed. The prizes will be type of suit and smokings.

The Intramural Board has found supervision for the activity areas and the golf, archery, and ping pong areas will now be open regularly on Thursdays at 12:15. And for the basketball fanatics, the gym will be open on Fridays from 2-4 p.m. 1MB is working on providing hours for the girls too, and we will have word on that by next week.

The registration date for Bowling was postponed and there is still plenty of room for you. Drop into the 5th floor locker room E to register. Girls can register in 725 with Professor Henderson. Remember it's only 10c, a game.

Civil Service

The E.U. Civil Service Commission will administer the Federal Service Entrance Examinations at The Burgh College, October 24th. From 2-4 p.m. All members of the class of February 1969 are eligible to make this examination.
