Proposals for New Curriculum Approved by Student Council

Business Curriculum, Teacher and Course Evaluation, and the Student Council Spring Social Program were dealt with at last week's Student Council meeting. Proposals of the four groups were passed by the members of that body. Methods of dealing with publications and by-laws were also passed.

A new curriculum was proposed and passed by the Student Council. (It appears on page 5). Russell Perlsheiser, Rep of 89 and Joseph Lipman, President of the Junior Class, proposed the curriculum that would be further discussed at today's Faculty Business Cur-riculum meeting. The theme of the event was to help people understand their areas of "relevance" while "cutting out the fat" in courses that are presently congested.

By a vote of 14-6 the proposal was passed. Some changes. Its implementation is not certain, and

An Experiment in Ind. Relations Conducted at ASPA Meeting

Last Thursday there was an experiment in industrial relations conducted by the Student Council. As head of the American Society for Participatory Action (ASPA) and the Lamport Leaders Society (LLS) of the Ticker, Mr. Perch worked with several students to prove, with the cooperation of Personnel Administrators of Baruch, that "a teacher and course evaluation" can work in practice.

After completing club business, Joe Campisi, President of ASPA, introduced the idea of an experiment in industrial relations conducted by the Student Council. Mr. Perch related the importance of sensitivity training in modern managerial concepts and how management is becoming more aware that things are done by people. He also explained about how management is turning toward sensitivity training to help people work together with a better understanding of each other.

Mr. Perch then turned the session over to Helen Orvaschel, a co-coordinator of Lamport Leaders. Miss Orvaschel outlined the goals of the group: 1) to acquaint students with the group's basic philosophy, 2) to develop a working relationship, 3) to establish a forum for discussion of the college community, and 4) to learn about organizations and the inter-connection of them.

The workshop was conducted by Mr. Orvaschel, a teacher who had taken the workshop and had been to several others. She had attended a number of workshops and had found a place, they were then instructed to close their eyes and feel their physical presence while standing. The next step was to walk around the "lab" again and talk at each or another people there.

The participants were then instructed to pick a partner and talk about the difficulties of communicating with a stranger and meeting new people. At this point Miss Orvaschel had them pick a new partner and discuss the same problems. Then, with the same partner, try and establish non-verbal communication by looking directly into each other's eyes and having minor bodily contact. The next step was to become a group of four for the function of groups in the four-group to discuss their partner's reactions, to the non-verbal communication.

The four-group was then put in another stage of indirect communication, without speaking, this time thumb wrestling and mirror-imaging with each member of the group. A discussion followed in each group about what happened. The next assignment was to pick a symbol, from anywhere, and bring it into the group. This when was accomplished, two larger assemblages were formed, one consisting of two

Campus Rights and Responsibilities To Be Studied by Pres. Committee

Campus rights and responsibilities will be studied by a special committee appointed last week by President Weaver. The committee, headed by Aaron Levinstein (Mgt.) is charged with the responsibility of determining basic guideline for students.

P.R.I.D.E. Presents Successful Program

Puerto Ricans for Involvement, Development, and Enlightenment (P.R.I.D.E.) presented a five day program last week, the purpose of which was to "display the cultural, social, political achievements of our people and our contributions to this society," according to the President of the organization. The program included an intercollegiate talk-out which, in addition to an exchange of political views was also attended by a college wide coalition; an open house assembly which featured the appearance of several poetry recitals, lectures, and a film. The week was crowned by a Friday night dance and the appearance of Bronx Borough President Herman Badillo (also a probable candidate for the next mayoralty campaign).

Wednesday's talk-out drew approximately 150 people who asked questions and expressed their views known can write to the committee in care of Professor Levenstein or come to one of the meetings. There was unanimous agreement in the results will be done by class and those results will be run between April 21-25. As preparations to help each of them to achieve his objective, the committee sub-committee was to pick a symbol, from anywhere, and bring it into the group. This when was accomplished, two larger assemblages were formed, one consisting of two

Black Week

Black Week is coming again. During the week of April 14 (right after vacation), the Society of Koromanty will present daily programs featuring a spectrum of black life from art to political philosophy. Although the plans have not been formalized, the week will include a series of discussions and black history appearances by the Black Panthers and

(taken from Page 2)
Student Council Meeting

In this week's meeting, the Executive Board presented a motion for the election of the Student Council. The meeting was held on May 1st. The agenda included the following:

1. Approval of the minutes from the last week.
2. Presentation of the final budget for the current fiscal year.
3. Discussion of the upcoming club auctions and events.
4. Review of the student council's annual report.

Mini Workshop

Mini Workshop is an initiative where students can work in small groups on various projects. These workshops are held monthly.

Cafeteria Decorated By Collage

In an attempt to improve the appearance of the cafeteria, the Student Council decided to decorate it with a collage. The students worked together to create a vibrant and engaging environment.

The Fourth Northern Student Film Festival

This year's film festival featured a variety of films from different parts of the world. The festival was held from May 19th to 23rd.

Accounting Majors

A professional career with the Internal Revenue Service as a Revenue Agent is now available.

MARDI GRAS

Baruch College's First Mardi Gras will take place on April 26th.

ARE YOU AN UNRECOGNIZED GENIUS?

Opportunity to reveal your talents is approaching...

Student Art Show and Contest

May 19-23 at the Student Center

- Painging, Drawing, Sculpture, Construction, Needlework, and You'll Name It!

Three categories—all student work:

1. Experienced or trained artist
2. Semi-professional
3. First-time dabblers

Sponsored by Boosters
Presented by the Dept. of Student Personnel Services

IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO HELP RUN THE TEACHER AND COURSE EVALUATION

PLEASE CONTACT BOB BERNAN at STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICE 306B

The Success of this endeavor is up to YOU
On Being Naive

BY TOM SWIFT

You're naive. I've "grown-up" knowing that half the world is mad and bad and ugly inside. There were no shades of grey, no intelligence, everything was black and white. I was taught that the answer to any question is right or wrong. Now I realize that the ambiguous are surrounded by these intangible abstractions. I see reality as a mystery, for they are being removed from my life by one constant denial. No longer are they real.

The social structure of my "youth" has condemned an entire generation to false scriptures and lies to them the reality. Oh, at the advanced age of twenty, I can't grasp at life in the real world. Even knowing life is real and that my childhood hallucinations are gone; they still hold value for me. I feel that, among other things, the "I'm real" phase is a part of youth exist. I am too small for them to hide behind this facade.

You're naive. If you have read this far: true, truth, freedom means the very part of your mental world. A big enough part that has kept you interested, that enables you to think for a moment. Whenever there is a social change movement, there is bound to be some ridicule and derision. But it seems ridiculous to us that a basic plan under which students choose courses and a reasonable amount of credits must be required. It is to provide a structure for the student's work—this is what the "Chinese menu" curriculum plan is. The task set forth for the committee is to present a declaration of values that will serve us all in these days of change and momentous change. To achieve such a goal, it is necessary that we demonstrate, or if necessary vocalize, that involves you in the world around you. That society that supports this system, the hypocrisy of the Establishment, which is built on a premise of values that are not valid for an era of new conditions and to hate in this middle world. This "new generation" is wasting back the shadows upon the future. This "hip-generation" is becoming anti-value oriented. We must try to bring these values back to reality. We don't want these values to be seen and used as they are shallow—concrete understandings, but rather represent the entire college community.

Another Step Forward

The creation of a Presidential committee to establish the social structure of our college to us was considered as a giant step in the right direction.

The committee has been given a difficult assignment, to be sure. It is to provide a structure for the committee and express the points of view and of the entire student body—students, faculty, and administrators. In a way, it is impossible to express the points of view during the school term by the Ticker Association of the Bernard M. Baruch College. The City University of New York.

No more is there a need for the Faculty-Student Business School to urge the Faculty-Student Business School to examine its own operations with a view toward the achievement of our common goals. We are asking you to undertake a reexamination of our operations, to present the institutional structure of our "youth" has condemned an entire generation to false scriptures and lies to them the reality. Oh, at the advanced age of twenty, I can't grasp at life in the real world. Even knowing life is real and that my childhood hallucinations are gone; they still hold value for me. I feel that, among other things, the "I'm real" phase is a part of youth exist. I am too small for them to hide behind this facade.

You're naive. If you have read this far: true, truth, freedom means the very part of your mental world. A big enough part that has kept you interested, that enables you to think for a moment. Whenever there is a social change movement, there is bound to be some ridicule and derision. But it seems ridiculous to us that a basic plan under which students choose courses and a reasonable amount of credits must be required. It is to provide a structure for the student's work—this is what the "Chinese menu" curriculum plan is. The task set forth for the committee is to present a declaration of values that will serve us all in these days of change and momentous change. To achieve such a goal, it is necessary that we demonstrate, or if necessary vocalize, that involves you in the world around you. That society that supports this system, the hypocrisy of the Establishment, which is built on a premise of values that are not valid for an era of new conditions and to hate in this middle world. This "new generation" is wasting back the shadows upon the future. This "hip-generation" is becoming anti-value oriented. We must try to bring these values back to reality. We don't want these values to be seen and used as they are shallow—concrete understandings, but rather represent the entire college community.

Another Step Forward

The creation of a Presidential committee to establish the social structure of our college to us was considered as a giant step in the right direction.

The committee has been given a difficult assignment, to be sure. It is to provide a structure for the committee and express the points of view and of the entire student body—students, faculty, and administrators. In a way, it is impossible to express the points of view during the school term by the Ticker Association of the Bernard M. Baruch College. The City University of New York.

No more is there a need for the Faculty-Student Business School to urge the Faculty-Student Business School to examine its own operations with a view toward the achievement of our common goals. We are asking you to undertake a reexamination of our operations, to present the institutional structure of our college community.
Save this map. It will help you at registration.
Don't bother to color it.
The Registrar will reject it anyway.

These are the free punch and cookies distributed at the Student Center.
Color the punch pink. Color the cookies brown.
Color it before Tuesday, 3/12, 3:00 or it will disappear.

These are the elevators. Color one on floors 12-15.
Color the other on 7. Color them both rusty.

This is the student in class. Color his hair lightly so that you don't make him up.

This is a typical instructor. Color his beard gray.
Remember your midterm?
On second thought, color it black.
Color the pants and jacket different colors.
This is an Art I class. See the painting. Color the painting. Be sure to follow the numbers.

This is the Art I student. He sees the painting. Paint his eyes accordingly.

This is the student on his way to: (check one) Class □ Home □ Work □
All of the above □ None of the above □
Any of the above □
Color him grey.

This is the Baruch College Seal. Color it hazy.

This is the student preparing for the weekend. Color her hopeful.

This is the student preparing for the weekend. Color him hopeless.

This is the student accounting. Color him yellow.

This is the student at the conclusion of his accounting homework. Color the paper eager. Color him yellow.
This is the student at his part-time job as his boss sees him. Color him industrious.

This is what he's really doing. Color him sneaky.

This is the entrance as it is today. Color it obsolete.

This is the entrance of tomorrow. See the difference?

This is the student as his instructor sees him. Color him industrious.

This is what he's really doing. Color him doubly sneaky.

This is the TICKER office publication night. Color the tar black. Color the feathers white. Color the editor blue all over.

Here is something to do in class. Connect the dots. Do it slowly — it will keep you awake.
Dear Reader:

As of this date, we are not in a position to secure financial aid. Our financial aid applications are not yet processed. We are still awaiting the final determination of our financial aid applications. We hope to receive financial aid soon.

The budget, which we have been working on, is not yet finalized. We are still working on our financial aid applications. We hope to receive financial aid soon.

Thank you very much for your cooperation and understanding.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

[Director of Student Financial Aid]

---

The Tucker

Newspaper

Letters to the Editor

The budget which has been approved by the Faculty Council and approved by the Department of Business Administration is not yet finalized. We are still working on our financial aid applications. We hope to receive financial aid soon.

Sincerely,

[Director of Student Financial Aid]
Swhali At Student Center

Dear Editor:

Swahili at Student Center

Dean Newton announced today that Swahili will be taught for the first time at Baruch College. The course is being sponsored by the Department of Student Personnel Services and is open to all students. The course will be taught by James Beth, a native of Kenya.

The course will be held at the following times:

Monday and Wednesday, 10:00 a.m. - 11:30 a.m.

Tuesday and Thursday, 10:00 a.m. - 11:30 a.m.

It is recommended that students enrolled in the course also attend a black history program at the Cultural Center during the Spring semester.

Jim Kelleman

Editor's Note: The Student Center is located in the basement of the Student Center Building.

Letters

Steve says advertising raises prices.

But how come that color TV set his family just bought costs $300 less than it used to?

Ten years ago, a typical 21-inch color TV set sold for $700. Now a 21-inch color TV set sells for $300. Why is this the case?

When bought the price down over the years? Many factors contributed to the lowering of prices.

Firstly, improvements in technology and production methods have led to lower costs. The cost of components such as semiconductors, transistors, and microprocessors has decreased dramatically. This has allowed manufacturers to produce color TVs at a lower cost.

Secondly, increased competition among manufacturers has driven down prices. As more companies entered the market, they were forced to offer lower prices to remain competitive.

Thirdly, economies of scale have played a role. As production increased, manufacturers were able to lower costs per unit.

Finally, the spread of color TV technology to the middle class has also contributed to the price decline. As color TVs became more affordable, they were purchased by a wider range of consumers, driving down prices even further.

In summary, the decrease in color TV prices is due to a combination of technological advancements, increased competition, economies of scale, and expanded market penetration. These factors have all contributed to the lower cost of color TVs over the years.
Prom will be held on June 5
Forest House site is Selected

After long hours of comparison shopping for hotels, consultation with interested students, trips upstate, and many headaches, the Senior Prom Committee, headed by Dave Fom, has announced details concerning the Class of 1969 Senior Prom, the first ever at the Baruch College.

To start at the beginning, the Prom will be held at the Forest House in Lake Mahopac (printed directions will be given to anyone purchasing tickets; the trip is easy and not too lengthy). This fine hotel has been the scene of many Baruch School proms in recent years. The date will be Thursday, June 5, 1969 (most of the students will have completed finals by then, according to Dave. Mr. Pearl has seniors who will have finals on June 5 or June 6).

The planned format of the evening is as follows: From 7-8 p.m., there will be a cocktail party at which any type of liquor will be available, in all the popular brands. From about 8 to 10, a full, delicious prime ribs of beef dinner will be served (the Forest House is noted for its elegant cuisine). After 10, there will be dancing till the wee hours to a fine, versatile band and, possibly, a singer.

You’re probably wondering what this luxurious evening, which would cost a minimum of $50 a couple in Manhattan, is going to cost. Well, the cost per couple will be $30, but if tickets are purchased before May 5, the price for a couple will be $25. For this small sum, you get drinks, dinner, dancing, and entertainment, plus the excitement of sharing a farewell to the College that has been your home for the past four or five years.

If you plan to stay at the Forest House overnight, the price is $12 per person, which also includes breakfast on Friday morning. Rooms should be vacated by noon, Friday, but you may stay and enjoy the many and varied facilities of the hotel.

More details will be forthcoming shortly, but the date to remember is Monday, April 14, when tickets go on sale (as usual, handled by the Boosters, who will be selling the tickets in the Student Center Lobby).

Remember, buy your tickets before May 5 to get the special $5 per couple discount.

Stonesthrowe
On Television
The April 13 edition of NBC’s “Someone New” will feature Baruch’s Craig Whitman and Lance Berland, otherwise known as Stonesthrowe or Craig and Lance. The show is on Sunday, at 4 p.m.

“Someone New”, as the name implies, presents relatively unknown talent, that the producers of the show believe can make it in show biz.

COUNSELOR OPENINGS
in sleepaway camp for mentally handicapped, in Poconos. Needs general counselors (male), and specialists in waterfront, drama, arts and crafts, remedial education. Kosher Food.

Call Mrs. Greenberg
(212) 471-0100

ALADIN
YOU CAN SELECT FROM OVER 200 SANDWICHES, BURGERS, PLATES, SALADS, SIDE DISHES, DESSERTS, BEVERAGES, ETC.

PUT THAT IN YOUR FOOD MACHINE AND REHEAT IT

150 East 23 St. GR 5-3870