Dean Jerome B. Cohet
School of Business and Public Administration
Baruch College

Dear Dean Cohet:

In response to your letter of March 28, 1970, relative to the Student Senate's program of April 23, 1970, I am pleased to inform you that the Committee on Courses and Standing approved the proposal at its meeting today as follows:

All students who have selected the September 1, 1970, curriculum for the B.B.A. degree and who are scheduled to receive the B.B.A. degree by September 1, 1971, will be exempted, upon their request, from the requirements of Statistics 237 and Business Policy 100, providing they fill such requests by May 28, 1971.

Day Session students should apply in Room 308 and Evening Session students should apply in Room 3.

Sincerely yours,

Frank Sadel
Associate Dean

This letter represents an accomplishment of no small significance. It proves that students, if they are willing to work for it, can achieve the rectification of wrongs by working within the system. It also proves that the faculty and administration of our school are willing to admit that they erred, which is a big plus in their favor.

The issue behind the two courses was not that they were made required, nor was it their content. Rather, it was the way in which they were made required.

Under our system of government, a person cannot be accused of committing a crime if the act he performed were not a crime at the time he performed it. Similarly, students cannot be made to take courses in a curriculum if said courses were not required at the time they chose the curriculum.

Statistics 237 and Business Policy 100, although they are excellent courses, were passed as requirements in October, 1969, which

THROUGH THE TUBES

by VAS DIFFERENT

As you walk through the aisles of your local supermarket, you may notice a quickening of the pulse and an accompanying flush of the cheeks. This is a physiological response to the sight of damask cloth, cashmere sweaters, and crystals. You may even feel a desire to possess the objects. This is the phenomenon known as consumerism. It is a response to the media's propaganda and is a major force in modern society.

The media's influence on consumerism is vast. Television, radio, and print media all contribute to the creation of a desire for material objects.

Sociologist Robert Park has stated that "the mass media are the most important agents of socialization." This statement highlights the importance of the media in shaping consumer behavior.

Consumerism has both positive and negative effects. On the one hand, it can improve living standards and provide opportunities for personal growth. On the other hand, it can lead to materialism, waste, and environmental degradation.

The key to addressing consumerism lies in education. By raising awareness about the consequences of consumerism, we can encourage people to make more informed choices.

The Ins and Outs of Sex

Among The Nations Students

The issue of sex education is a common one among the nations.

In some countries, sex education is a subject that is taught in schools. In other countries, it is not.

In the United States, sex education is a subject that is taught in many schools. However, the content of the curriculum varies from school
to school.

In some schools, the curriculum focuses on the mechanics of reproduction,
while in others, it may include information about sexual health
and disease prevention.

The issue of sex education is an touchy one, and it is often debated in many countries.

Some people argue that sex education should be taught in schools, while others argue that it is a personal issue and should be left to parents.

The decision of whether or not to teach sex education in schools is one that must be made by each country.

Censorship Legislation

BILL HIGHLIGHTS CAMPUS NEWSPAPERS

The DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY announces, with regret, that Dr. Arthur Baut will retire at the end of this spring term. A bill which prevents campus newspapers from being censored, the result of the greatest influx of student interest since the 1970-71 registration period, has been signed into law by the Governor. The legislation proposes that college newspapers, like other media, are entitled to free speech protection under the First Amendment. The bill will go into effect at the beginning of the fall semester, at which time no newspapers will be permitted to be censored by any college official. It is anticipated that the legislation will be challenged by college officials, and that the laboratory will continue several of its present activities and other related programs.

The DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY is currently planning to offer introductory chemistry, a new course, beginning next semester. The course will be offered in both the fall and spring semesters, and the laboratory will be available to all students.

To the Editor:

In the light of the general influence of the 1970s on American life, it seems to me that the college community should be able to express its views on the issue of censorship. It is my hope that this legislation will be upheld.

Sincerely,

Professor Walter

AEROBICS - A NEW TYPE OF EXERCISE FOR HEALTH

Aerobics - the reverse, or active, of the word "aerobic," meaning "air and life," is a method to handle to improve health and fitness. An aerobics program can provide some surprising effects on your body and mind. It can improve your heart rate, strength, and flexibility, and it can help you lose weight. Aerobics can be an excellent way to increase your physical activity and enjoy good health.

The main things to do in your aerobics program are: walking, jogging, and swimming. These activities can be done in any order, and it's a good idea to do them in the same order each week.

Walking is the simplest and most effective way to improve your health. When you walk, you get a good workout without having to break a sweat. You can walk for 10 minutes every day or for 30 minutes a day.

Jogging is a more demanding form of exercise. It's a good idea to start with a 10-minute jog and then increase the time gradually. You can jog for 10 minutes a day or for 30 minutes a day.

Swimming is a great way to get a good workout. You can swim for 10 minutes a day or for 30 minutes a day.

Aerobics can be practiced at any level of fitness. It's a good idea to start with a 10-minute walk and then increase the time gradually. You can walk, jog, or swim for 10 minutes a day or for 30 minutes a day.

Dear Chancellor Bowker:

I believe that in a free university system, each as many, the burden of payment for education should not be placed on the student, and not be placed on the student.

I demand that the Board of Higher Education not pass any fee increase.
