Discipline Action with Board; Presidents Lose Local Control

The newly stated intentions of the Board of Higher Education to take disciplinary control of students away from unit colleges and give this power to the Chancellor's office was brought to light at the Student Council meeting on September 17th.

The new ruling permits the Chancellor to suspend students in emergency situations. He may define, originally, the power to suspend students rest with the dean of students and the president of a unit college. Now, the Chancellor may suspend students without the consent of the unit college.

Bill Maddox, student representative, said that the chancellor's final review by the BHE in matters of discipline, which would bypass the original concept of such bodies, seemed to be too much power in Bowker's hands. At Karo added that this "makes Bowker the law maker, the judge, the jury and even the executioner." Mr. Karo, who had just returned from a meeting with BHE counsels, said that the intent of this change in disciplinary controls was to make it clear to students that no disruption of any kind is to be tolerated. In defining disruption, it is implied, as interpreted by Mr. Karo, that the Henderson Law will serve as guidelines for the BHE. Mr. Karo stressed that since the definition of disruptions was deleted from the interim statement by the BHE, "it is a completed version of the change is expected immediately.

The Henderson guidelines were passed by the BHE in June, 1969 so as to make the University for aide under Education Act. "The purpose of this change in disciplinary which college personnel serve is provided for, in a hearing effected by the Chancellor under his powers, is the acting at the University level, not the unit college level, and the President of a unit college may serve on the Board of Higher Education. The guidelines are to be used for trials in asthma. The statement of the BHE, which forms the basis for the procedures is on page 14.

It would appear that this action by the BHE is in complete contradiction to statements by Chancellor Bowker or by the Attorney General in which he indicated that responsibility for disciplinary matters rested with students and faculty at each college. That each college must be permitted to establish its own procedures. Mr. Karo, who had just returned from a hearing on the matter, said he saw in this tightening up of the centralized University power the makings of a totalitarian system at CUNY.

$7,172,452 expenditures for campus security was contrasted to $7,207,484 for the academic year. He added that, "on each campus, procedures have been established to bring faculty and student organizations into direct communication with those in command of these forces."

"Consideration of proposals for "I must say that we are not satisfied with what we have," the chancellor said. He added, "What emerges will not be pleasing in nature. It will most likely be tried and evaluated within segments, perhaps small segments, of the university community as were our SEEK and College Discovery programs when they were first conceived as a new direction for City University."

YANCEY QUESTIONS COMMITMENT TO BARUCH

Leona Yancey, presiding officer of Student Council poses this question to the Baruch community: Why do students demand rights with no responsibilities?
For Males Only
Would you like to be a male student member of The Board of Directors? If your answer is yes, speak up! You are asked to make a pledge to the Board of Directors, a high school student body officer. It is a way to gain new friends, open new doors, and expand the horizons of others.

Bella Abzug, Democratic candidate for President, has been endorsed by many organizations. She is a fighter for labor rights, civil rights, and women's rights—^against Republican candidate, Barry Goldwater. The statement made by Mr. Goldwater is dangerous to the future of our nation.

Newman Club
The Newman Club will hold its first meeting on Thursday, September 24, in the Oak Lounge in the Student Center. All are welcome to attend. Donations will be accepted. On Saturday, September 26, there will be an Open House at 48 West 33rd Street. Dancing and refreshments will be served from 8:30 P.M. to 1:00 A.M.

Meet the Press
President Cohen announces that beginning Wednesday, September 23rd and every Wednesday thereafter from noon to 1:00 P.M., he will host a President's Coffee Hour in the Oak Lounge of the Student Center. All students are invited to attend.

IFC
The Inter-Fraternity Council will hold an open meeting in the Oak Lounge on Tuesday, September 22, at 6:00 P.M. All interested are invited.

All Clubs
ATTENTION CLUB PRESIDENTS: BOOKKEEPING service for club functions. Nine to 12 weeks in advance. Bella Abzug, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, is available for speaking engagements throughout the nation. She is a fighter for labor rights, civil rights, and women's rights.

Veterans
Recently discharged civilians may be eligible for a unique experimental training for career opportunities. The service is free and conducted by the Commerce and Industry Association of New York. For a contact Mr. Michael Anderson 726-5250.

Food Stamps
College students may be eligible for food stamps. Documentation such as a college transcript and a photo is required. Further information call 433-9941.

Study Room
Room 4 North has been set aside as a study hall from 6:00 P.M. to 10:00 P.M. on Monday through Thursday.

All Clubs
All clubs and organizations are reminded to fill in a copy of the Campus Directory and mail it to Mr. Tribble's office.

Stock Market
One of Wall Street's best known financial writers, Alan Abelson, managing editor of Barron's, will be the speaker of the Economics and Business Seniors Seminar on Thursday, September 24, at 6:00 P.M. in room 903. Mr. Abelson, whose weekly column in Barron's is perhaps the most controversial in Wall Street, will speak on "Abberations in the Stock Market."

Jan./71 Grants
The Placement Office will conduct an Orientation Session on Thursday, September 24, at 7:00 P.M. in room 4 South at 12 NOON, for members of the Class of January 1971 and MBA candidates who will participate in the Fall 1970 On-Campus Placement Program. The job outlook for the Class of January 1971, assuming no further recession, indicates that an improved market for human resources in general and for those without prior experience will be evident.

Fireside Chats
"Fireside Chats" is a program designed to bring students and faculty members together for informal sessions, the faculty members' home on either a Friday evening or Sunday afternoon, on the past. The Student Activities Division has been approached for marginal students. "Fireside Chats" is designed to bring students and faculty members together for informal sessions in the faculty member's home on either a Friday evening or Sunday afternoon. The informal sessions will be held at the faculty member's home on either a Friday evening or Sunday afternoon. The Student Activities Division has been approached for marginal students.

All Clubs
All members of the stock market are invited to attend.

Jobs: Females
For Young Ladies there is a choice of secretarial, clerical, and administrative positions. For Young Men there are a few jobs remaining. The experience shows that many college graduates in January 1971, resume technique and interview questions at the conclusion of his talk. Eligible students who may be interested are asked to be present.

Coffee
On a daily basis, Monday through Thursday, effective September 21, 1970, we will have Morning Coffee Hours from 9:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. and Evening Coffee Hours from 4:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the Marble Lounge. Coffee, punch and refreshments will be served.

The Placement Office will conduct an Orientation Session on Thursday, September 24, at 7:00 P.M. in room 4 South at 12 NOON, for members of the Class of January 1971 and MBA candidates who will participate in the Fall 1970 On-Campus Placement Program. The job outlook for the Class of January 1971, assuming no further recession, indicates that an improved market for human resources in general and for those without prior experience will be evident.

Student Council
The Student Council will meet on Thursday, September 24, at 7:00 P.M. in the Oak Lounge. All students are invited to attend.

Petitions for the following ballot positions are available in the lobby of the Student Center:

Day Session Student Council: President, Vice-president, Treasurer, Class President, Class Vice-President, and 3 reps from each class.

Four Day Session reps to B*CCC
Two Day Session reps to the Discipline Committee.

Election will be held on September 28, 29 and 30 ALL DAY

PUBLICATIONS FROM BROOKLYN FRAKEYRITY SEPTEMBER 20, 1970 at 6:30 P.M. at 60 East 14th Street Brooklyn, N.Y. 11217 (B) B & B Brooklyn, New York.
and thanked them for joining this "pio-

Personnel Services. These six were to

Morty Mintz, and Miss Marcia Fitzgib-

for a three day workshop to acquire

STUDENT Leaders are trained, "they just become a Student with groups of freshmen. Their dedicaregistration, and hold orientation classes entering students for college life. Their importance of the Student Leaders this year, since the entering class is 2/4 to 3

neither larger than any other entering class.

He said the students that the change they were about to learn would not only be of use to them in their group, but could be carried to the outside world.

Post. Austin was ready to address the Student Leaders, but the students were

"learning what perfection means," he continued, and that's what certain specialties, especially their youth, can reach the freshmen better than anyone else. He urged them to capitalize toward their qualities, especially their youth, certain qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,

reach the freshmen better than

anyone else. He urged them to capitalize

their qualities, especially their youth,
Gandhi Opening

"Gandhi," the new play opening October 25 at the Playhouse, 200 West 46th Street, deals with the dramatic life of the Indian leader and teacher who sought to create a modern India, and his methods. It is the portrayal of a man who was born in 1869 in a small village in northern India and who died in 1948. The play, written by Bruce Campbell, and directed by Alan Rich, runs just a little longer than two hours.
The cast includes J. W. Anderson, who directs for the first time, and Mary Greenwell and Jack Dodson, who starred in "Great Expectations."

Performance dates are Tuesday to Sunday, with the exception of October 27, when the cast will be on a quick trip to the University of Houston. For tickets, call 757-PLAY or 757-1586.

In a TUCKER interview he said he would"
"It has been intimated that there is mondy available for coaches of baseball, basketball, volleyball, tennis, and swimming.
A thorough look at the new budget now delon be a reality. The future must be a thoroughly new budget, as the past. Both have been here only since June 15. Dr. Smith has the enormous responsibility of advising the Open Enrollment Program. How many of Dr. Smith and other administrative personnel will be moved from the Preparatory School into the Open Enrollment Department is an open question. Thus the unprecedented move of the new Acting President, Dr. Walter Smith, to assign the assignment of teachers in the field of education—one that would combine "the pride of the City University of New York," will be the new tag for the New City University. The new administration may be in the process of making a decision that will affect the future of the college. It has been announced, and will be confirmed, that the new administration will be the acting President, Dr. Walter Smith, and the Assistant President, Dr. Albert J.
Schiff.

Will hold its first informal meeting
Date: Thursday, 15th October Place: Room 401, Main Bldg.
Time: 12:15 P.M.

Everyone is invited

Referrals

Donations

DO YOU WANT BARUCH TO PARTICIPATE IN INTERUNIVERSAL AND INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS?

On September 16, 1970, teachers in all City University of New York schools are invited to take part in these athletic activities. If you wish to do so, you must sign the form attached to this letter.

YES

NO

Return ballots to TUCKER office, room 307, South in the gym, or the Department of Physical Education, room 725 at 22 street building.
signs of improvement

We decided upon a short profiling of some of the classes for the Fall term. There are several classes that are currently being offered. The majority of the classes are not full. The largest class is not yet filled, and the second-largest class has about half of its seats filled. When the classes are full, they will be closed. If you have any questions, you should contact the registrar.

BHE Repression

The recent developments in the repression of the student groups on the City University are believed to be a direct result of the University's decision to reduce the number of classes. The University has announced that it will be reducing the number of classes in order to increase the amount of money available for the students. This decision has been met with a strong response from the students, who have expressed their disapproval.

The University has also announced that it will be implementing a new system of class registration. This system will be based on a lottery system, and it will be available online. The students will be able to register for classes online, and they will be able to choose the classes that they want to take. This system will be implemented by the end of the fall term.

A new system for the registration of classes has been implemented by the University. This system is based on a lottery system, and it will be available online. The students will be able to register for classes online, and they will be able to choose the classes that they want to take. This system will be implemented by the end of the fall term.

The University has also announced that it will be implementing a new system of class registration. This system will be based on a lottery system, and it will be available online. The students will be able to register for classes online, and they will be able to choose the classes that they want to take. This system will be implemented by the end of the fall term.

A new system for the registration of classes has been implemented by the University. This system is based on a lottery system, and it will be available online. The students will be able to register for classes online, and they will be able to choose the classes that they want to take. This system will be implemented by the end of the fall term.

minute and a half review

A student's lecture on the subject of society and its effects on humans. Despite my best efforts, I was not able to make much progress. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow.

A student's lecture on the subject of society and its effects on humans. Despite my best efforts, I was not able to make much progress. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow.

peace 'n bits

The University has announced that it will be implementing a new system of class registration. This system will be based on a lottery system, and it will be available online. The students will be able to register for classes online, and they will be able to choose the classes that they want to take. This system will be implemented by the end of the fall term.

The University has also announced that it will be implementing a new system of class registration. This system will be based on a lottery system, and it will be available online. The students will be able to register for classes online, and they will be able to choose the classes that they want to take. This system will be implemented by the end of the fall term.

A student's lecture on the subject of society and its effects on humans. Despite my best efforts, I was not able to make much progress. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow.

A student's lecture on the subject of society and its effects on humans. Despite my best efforts, I was not able to make much progress. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow.

The University has announced that it will be implementing a new system of class registration. This system will be based on a lottery system, and it will be available online. The students will be able to register for classes online, and they will be able to choose the classes that they want to take. This system will be implemented by the end of the fall term.

The University has also announced that it will be implementing a new system of class registration. This system will be based on a lottery system, and it will be available online. The students will be able to register for classes online, and they will be able to choose the classes that they want to take. This system will be implemented by the end of the fall term.

A student's lecture on the subject of society and its effects on humans. Despite my best efforts, I was not able to make much progress. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow.

A student's lecture on the subject of society and its effects on humans. Despite my best efforts, I was not able to make much progress. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow. The student's lecture was too long, and it was difficult to follow.
BARUCH ANSWERS UNREST COMMISSION
Continued from last week

Question:

16. What policies, plans or actions do you believe would be helpful to students who feel that their views are not being heard and that their concerns are not being addressed adequately?

Answer:

1. The Federal Government
   - Emphasis upon need to propose American experience and recognizing that it is a part of a much more widespread phenomenon in the United States.
   - Denial of extraterritoriality or properties.
   - Suspension or exclusion of those identified as generating or instigating actions.
   - Disruption of activities.
   - Deprivation of funding.
   - Hacking of guest speakers.
   - Preventing students from entering classrooms.
   - Mass raids, break-ins, etc.
   - There is no simple formula. Action depends upon need to expose the undesirable elements that are causing the trouble.

17. How should your institution respond to the following incidents?

a. Occupation of school property
b. Disruption of event
c. Destruction of building

18. Are there any other suggestions or comments you believe would be helpful to the Commission?

Answer:

1. Clearly, there is a need to recognize that a healthy and a normal minority is active in service to the Viet Cong, the Viet Nam, and the Vietnamese State, which troubles a large number of the people. If any change is not brought about, such a situation might lead to a lot of social unrest and disruption, making life uncertain for the people.

19. Describe what is your view of the principal causes of unrest. What recommendations would you make to the Commission on these issues, and how would you otherwise try to fulfill its mandate?

Answer:

1. The Federal Government should arealize that it is a part of its responsibility to create a real commitment to higher education.

2. State authorities
   - Reform and upgrading of law enforcement activities appropriate to the situation in urban and other areas.
   - Local community
   - Continuing upgrading of police activities; better quality of new reporting, more effective local government, especially in areas of police and education.
   - Student body
   - Maintaining student government.
   - More widespread participation of students in that government for the purpose of furthering the goals of the national political, educational, and ideological institutions.
   - Other specialty
   -任sea&:dur;e&nt
   - Properly sensitized police and regulation of the situation between all elements of the community, not violent acts.
   - Other family
   - Needy seeking politicians should keep their noses out of campus unrest.

20. What policies, plans or actions do you believe would be helpful to students who feel that their views are not being heard and that their concerns are not being addressed adequately?

Answer:

1. Clearly, there is a need to recognize that a healthy and a normal minority is active in service to the Viet Cong, the Viet Nam, and the Vietnamese State, which troubles a large number of the people. If any change is not brought about, such a situation might lead to a lot of social unrest and disruption, making life uncertain for the people.

2. The point I am making is that one cannot do anything to change the situation without understanding the real issues at stake.

3. There is no simple formula. Action depends upon need to expose the undesirable elements that are causing the trouble.

4. The film is a bad one, but if you can ride that horse, then you can be a trip to the Trans Lux East.
Undergraduate Education Majors

Have Greater Freedom of Choice

Burlington, Vt., DECEMBER 22---The University of Vermont's College of Education has in effect under the new curriculum a course in which students can have greater freedom of choice. The new program is a part of a continuing effort to break down students into categories based on their ability to receive a college degree.

The new program, announced in the spring, is being tried out in the College of Education, which has traditionally been one of the most rigidly structured institutions in the state. The program allows students to choose courses according to their own interests and abilities.

The new program was announced in the spring, and it is expected to be in effect by the fall of 1970. The program is designed to allow students to choose their own courses of study, rather than being required to follow a set curriculum. This is in line with the trend in many colleges and universities to give students more freedom in choosing their own courses of study.

The program is being administered by the College of Education, which has traditionally been one of the most rigidly structured institutions in the state. The college is expected to be in effect by the fall of 1970. The college is designed to allow students to choose their own courses of study, rather than being required to follow a set curriculum. This is in line with the trend in many colleges and universities to give students more freedom in choosing their own courses of study.

The program is being administered by the College of Education, which has traditionally been one of the most rigidly structured institutions in the state. The college is expected to be in effect by the fall of 1970. The college is designed to allow students to choose their own courses of study, rather than being required to follow a set curriculum. This is in line with the trend in many colleges and universities to give students more freedom in choosing their own courses of study.
New Bylaws in Other Colleges

Scanton, Pa. (AP)—The new Chapter of Sigma Alpha Mu at the University of Scranton endorsed the new University Bylaws with the following statement:

"The Bylaws set forth the new system of education and the duties of the faculty and administration. They also outline the procedures for handling disciplinary matters, including the rights of the student involved. The Bylaws also provide for the establishment of a new University Senate and a Student Senate, which will have authority over the student body. The Bylaws are designed to ensure the highest quality of education and to maintain the university's mission of providing a liberal arts education."
This question was asked of students on over 70 campuses in connection with the inquiri ng mind. Students gave these reasons:

- campus radicals feel demonstrations pay off
- police brutality causes incidents which polarizes students behind the demonstra tion
- lack of effective supervision by campus authori ties
- existence of groups and guardsmen irritates students

Previous College Poll studies show that over 4,000 or approximately 56% of the students have taken part in campus demonstrations during thypast two years. Other College Poll studies showed that nearly all students believe that campus demonstrations do accomplish results.

A study conducted last spring revealed that the only way to make the campus safe was that there would have been no substantial changes made in campus life except for the demonstrations. Interviews with the students this year, however, show that the appeal of radical groups is weakening on the campus. The militant S.O.S. and the hard core Mao groups have little if any campus backing this year. Student concern about violence centers principally upon black issues and the Vietmanc War. The continuing campus campaign by radicals against the ROTC is another possible rallying point for demonstration this coming fall.

Students themselves are deeply concerned about the recent developments both on and off the campus. The students have been subjected to continued harassment by demonstrators and police. The holding of an ROTC building in Georgia last year brought a strong campus backlash. Students' leaders in dorms and hostels this summer have attempted to turn the scene into a "campus" rather than a "riot scene."

The deep-seated concern by students as to campus coverage of demonstrations is evident in all the College Poll interviews. The widespread penetration among the general public as to the volatile campus demonstrations was reflected in a recent Gallup Poll which showed that the campus riots were considered among the top domestic concerns of the public. In this atmosphere, facing a wider backlash by these public and possible repressive measures, students are abandoning such tactics. Students are returning to campus this fall with the hope that the demonstrations or at the very least, to keep them concerned with campus oriented problems. The use of this virtual campus unani mously against the use of violence, why do campus demonstrations continue to result in mili tancy? Students gave these reasons:

- campus radicals feel demonstrations pay off
- police brutality causes incidents which polarizes students behind the demonstra tion
- lack of effective supervision by campus authori ties
- existence of groups and guardsmen irritates students

Previous College Poll studies show that over 4,000 or approximately 56% of the students have taken part in campus demonstrations during thypast two years. Other College Poll studies showed that nearly all students believe that campus demonstrations do accomplish results.

A study conducted last spring revealed that the only way to make the campus safe was that there would have been no substantial changes made in campus life except for the demonstrations. Interviews with the students this year, however, show that the appeal of radical groups is weakening on the campus. The militant S.O.S. and the hard core Mao groups have little if any campus backing this year. Student concern about violence centers principally upon black issues and the Vietmanc War. The continuing campus campaign by radicals against the ROTC is another possible rallying point for demonstration this coming fall.

Students themselves are deeply concerned about the recent developments both on and off the campus. The students have been subjected to continued harassment by demonstrators and police. The holding of an ROTC building in Georgia last year brought a strong campus backlash. Students' leaders in dorms and hostels this summer have attempted to turn the scene into a "campus" rather than a "riot scene."

The deep-seated concern by students as to campus coverage of demonstrations is evident in all the College Poll interviews. The widespread penetration among the general public as to the volatile campus demonstrations was reflected in a recent Gallup Poll which showed that the campus riots were considered among the top domestic concerns of the public. In this atmosphere, facing a wider backlash by these public and possible repressive measures, students are returning to campus this fall with the hope that the demonstrations or at the very least, to keep them concerned with campus oriented problems. The use of

New York, N.Y. - 95% of all the nation's 7,000,000 full-time college students reject violence of any kind in connection with campus demonstrations, according to the College Poll in 1988, the figure was 98%. In 1969, it was 87%, indicating a growing campus concern about the effects of coll ege violence.

Local administrators who said that violence was justified qualified their answers by specifications of violence only in response to violence. Specified that violence was justified under any circumstances. This question was asked of students on over 100 campuses:

"Do you think violence is ever justified to be American universities?"

Yes No

1968 34% 63%
1969 34% 63%
1970 (Spring) 7% 93%
1970 (Fall) 8% 92%

(Asked of a scientifically designed sample of the nation's 7,000,000 full-time students only)

With this virtual campus unanimity against the use of violence, why do campus demonstrations continue to result in militancy? Students gave these reasons:

- campus radicals feel demonstrations pay off
- police brutality causes incidents which polarizes students behind the demonstra tion
- lack of effective supervision by campus authori ties
- existence of groups and guardsmen irritates students

Previous College Poll studies show that over 4,000 or approximately 56% of the students have taken part in campus demonstrations during thypast two years. Other College Poll studies showed that nearly all students believe that campus demonstrations do accomplish results.

A study conducted last spring revealed that the only way to make the campus safe was that there would have been no substantial changes made in campus life except for the demonstrations. Interviews with the students this year, however, show that the appeal of radical groups is weakening on the campus. The militant S.O.S. and the hard core Mao groups have little if any campus backing this year. Student concern about violence centers principally upon black issues and the Vietmanc War. The continuing campus campaign by radicals against the ROTC is another possible rallying point for demonstration this coming fall.

Students themselves are deeply concerned about the recent developments both on and off the campus. The students have been subjected to continued harassment by demonstrators and police. The holding of an ROTC building in Georgia last year brought a strong campus backlash. Students' leaders in dorms and hostels this summer have attempted to turn the scene into a "campus" rather than a "riot scene."

The deep-seated concern by students as to campus coverage of demonstrations is evident in all the College Poll interviews. The widespread penetration among the general public as to the volatile campus demonstrations was reflected in a recent Gallup Poll which showed that the campus riots were considered among the top domestic concerns of the public. In this atmosphere, facing a wider backlash by these public and possible repressive measures, students are returning to campus this fall with the hope that the demonstrations or at the very least, to keep them concerned with campus oriented problems. The use of

New York, N.Y.; 95% of all the nation's 7,000,000 full-time college students reject violence of any kind in connection with campus demonstrations, according to the College Poll. In 1988, the figure was 98%; in 1969, it was 87%, indicating a growing campus concern about the effects of college violence.

Local administrators who said that violence was justified qualified their answers by specifications of violence only in response to violence. Specified that violence was justified under any circumstances. This question was asked of students on over 100 campuses:

"Do you think violence is ever justified to be American universities?"

Yes No

1968 34% 63%
1969 34% 63%
1970 (Spring) 7% 93%
1970 (Fall) 8% 92%

(Asked of a scientifically designed sample of the nation's 7,000,000 full-time students only)

With this virtual campus unanimity against the use of violence, why do campus demonstrations continue to result in militancy? Students gave these reasons:

- campus radicals feel demonstrations pay off
- police brutality causes incidents which polarizes students behind the demonstra tion
- lack of effective supervision by campus authori ties
- existence of groups and guardsmen irritates students

Previous College Poll studies show that over 4,000 or approximately 56% of the students have taken part in campus demonstrations during thypast two years. Other College Poll studies showed that nearly all students believe that campus demonstrations do accomplish results.

A study conducted last spring revealed that the only way to make the campus safe was that there would have been no substantial changes made in campus life except for the demonstrations. Interviews with the students this year, however, show that the appeal of radical groups is weakening on the campus. The militant S.O.S. and the hard core Mao groups have little if any campus backing this year. Student concern about violence centers principally upon black issues and the Vietmanc War. The continuing campus campaign by radicals against the ROTC is another possible rallying point for demonstration this coming fall.

Students themselves are deeply concerned about the recent developments both on and off the campus. The students have been subjected to continued harassment by demonstrators and police. The holding of an ROTC building in Georgia last year brought a strong campus backlash. Students' leaders in dorms and hostels this summer have attempted to turn the scene into a "campus" rather than a "riot scene."

The deep-seated concern by students as to campus coverage of demonstrations is evident in all the College Poll interviews. The widespread penetration among the general public as to the volatile campus demonstrations was reflected in a recent Gallup Poll which showed that the campus riots were considered among the top domestic concerns of the public. In this atmosphere, facing a wider backlash by these public and possible repressive measures, students are returning to campus this fall with the hope that the demonstrations or at the very least, to keep them concerned with campus oriented problems. The use of