Deep Dark Registration Frustration
By Jan W. Yablow

Many students are still not aware that registration of Day Session students for Spring, 1971 semester is now being held through December 18. It is taking place at the 24th Street (RCA) Building on the second floor. Angelo B. Proto, Acting Dean of Admission, explained that students should be aware of the times of day and time the students are to register to ensure that they carry through the elections.

Now, and a massive voluntary effort will be needed to carry through the elections issues, with the new document and the candidates seeking office. For a reason which still cannot be explained, very few people received such information. Anyone who has not received such a schedule should go to the Registrar’s Office, outside of room 312.

Unfortunately, the facilities at 24th Street are not sufficient in space to produce a smoothly flowing registration. Seating for students needing to re-make often confused programs will only seat about 60 persons, which is approximately one-half of last semester’s registration area. It is most likely that the days in which the lower freshmen will register shall prove the need for larger facilities. Mr. Proto made it known that there should not be enough time for lower freshmen to register, the registration may be forced to be extended for another one or two days.

There is also a wide range of misconceptions when the students who entered Baruch in September of this year should register in order to have their college at this time just register only on December 17 and 18, and only as Lower Freshmen, no matter how many credits they carry this term.

Green registration booklets will not be given out by the Registrar until the student has paid his $50 fee. The reason for this is that there is a chance that there will be a large shortage of them. As 6000 books are still needed for the transfer and freshmen entering in February 1971. Of course, some students did manage to get this book without paying their fee. Mr. Proto has asked that those students who finish registering should kindly return their green book to the Registrar Office as a shortage may occur.

Those freshmen desiring individual help with their programs should speak with their Orientation Leader in class. Mr. Proto has also advised all lower freshmen to be sure to plan a permanent program until one or two days before they register. The reason for this is that most courses will be closed-out. Students can pick up a list of courses that have been closed but already in the Ticker bins every other day through the registration period.

NOTE: THE REGISTRAR’S OFFICE HAS INFORMED TICKER THAT THERE WILL BE STRICT ENFORCEMENT OF REJECTION OF STUDENTS WHO DO NOT REGISTER AT THEIR SCHEDULED TIME AND DATE (in other words, no sneak-ups).

Baruch Bowls
by Alan Steinberg

Baruch beat Columbia 5-4 on November 22 in one of the most exciting matches of the year. Both teams went into the third game with the match tied 2-2. Going into the tenth frame, Baruch was trailing by several pins. The game ended exactly that way except for another one or two days.

In making these remarks, the Dean said that students might want to take advantage of permits to allow them entrance into liberal Arts courses at other Colleges of the University.

Dean Lavender mentioned that the expansion of the Liberal Arts program should be a Baruch College project. It is inconceivable to have a four-year senior college without a Liberal Arts program.

Convocation and Beer Blast

In a quickly called open meeting last week, Andrew Lavender, Acting Dean of the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences indicated that the Liberal Arts program at Baruch was not in any real danger of collapsing.

Dean Lavender said that the faculty meeting of November 24, 1970 began by smoking out the issues created by a shortage of funding for the College as a whole, and the shortage of space. At that meeting, Prof. Benewitz said that the Birbaum report (on the development of Baruch College) supported expansion of the Liberal Arts program. This report superseded the Keppel report of 1967. The Keppel report also favored expansion of the Liberal Arts program.

At the open meeting, Prof. Lavender said that the Liberal Arts program here was not being funded at a new school. This means that funding went for the expansion of existing programs with the need created by Open Admissions. Under new school fun-

What Now Liberal Arts?

Information that has leaked out during the past weeks indicates that a major upheaval is in the offing. A large number of upperclassmen, who are in the key positions of influence, are in favor of dropping certain courses in the College Liberal Arts curriculum. The primary advantage of the new course, according to the supporters of the move, is that it will allow the students to go 'in full swing' without the burden of taking the courses that they are now required to take in order to receive a degree.

Registration Blues—Registration blues are everywhere. In many cases, students are forced to take courses that they do not want to take. This is a problem that is not new. In fact, it has been a problem for many years. However, the problem has become more severe in recent years, and it is now reaching crisis proportions.

An Eye For An Ear

By GARY FRANK

We almost always supposed it. I've been holding it for a long time. Mick Jagger is writing a solo album. It was said he had signed a contract with CBS which would pay him $500,000 to produce a quality version of rock music. He was described as being a bit involved in the writing. In the interview he announced his new project, he said he had a song called 'When a Man Loves a Woman'. It will be released on December 15. He also mentioned a new song he was working on, which he called 'The Last Time'. It was said he had recorded it last week in London. Mick Jagger is definitely leaving the Rolling Stones. He will continue to record and tour as a solo artist.

The moral of the tales of two media, the MTA's public relations, the WINS report why the delay was so lengthy, the tales of two media, what they reported as news was distortion, much more interesting. With Pot Luck They'll Never Know

You can now let your future go up in smoke with the odorless grass. It's so discreet that you can take it wherever you go, even to the 13th Precinct. It provides the same high as the standard stuff.

Why use grass when the skies the limit, when there's a whole nation campuses around the country.
