St. John's College, 1971

In 1971, St. John's College celebrated its 50th anniversary. The college was founded in 1822 and has since become a leading institution for higher education. The college offers a wide range of programs and services, including undergraduate and graduate degrees, continuing education, and community outreach. The college is located in Princeton, New Jersey, and is affiliated with the Episcopal Church.

Faculty Salary Increases

A new funding formula for community colleges indicates that full-time faculty salaries should increase by at least 15 percent. This increase is based on the cost of living and the need for competitive salaries. The formula takes into account the average salary of full-time faculty in other community colleges and the cost of living in the area. The formula also considers the number of students in the college and the number of full-time equivalent (FTE) students. The base salary for a full-time equivalent (FTE) student is $1555. Under the first funding formula, the base salary is expected to increase by 15 percent. This would result in a base salary of $1985 per FTE.

Profile:

Dean of Transportation

There isn't one Baruch student who doesn't know Tony. He's been Dean of Transportation for over 26 years, and everyone who has ever been on campus knows his name.

Tony was born in Brooklyn in 1939 and moved to Manhattan when he was a child. He graduated from Stuyvesant High School and then went on to New York University, where he received a degree in Business Administration.

After graduating, Tony worked for several years as a manager at various New York City transit agencies before returning to his alma mater to take over as Dean of Transportation in 1972. Since then, he has become well known for his dedication to ensuring the safety and efficiency of Baruch's transportation system.

Tony is a family man and is married with two children. He is a proud grandfather of five grandchildren.

Tony believes that his job is more than just running the elevators; it's about helping people. He says, "I make my job pleasant by knowing my job is important to many people."

Tony will be retiring some time in the near future, and he is looking forward to spending more time with his family and enjoying his retirement.

It was also announced that a new station called WKBZ to become a center of attention in university life. The station is formed with a $10,000 grant from the Students' Union for the purchase of the station's first official set as News Director was appointed. The station plans to work with the Baruch staff to coordinate the News Dept. under the joint initiative of the student wing's News Committee and the Baruch Peace Committee.

Executive Staff

Steven Calvin, member of the Executive Staff, said, "We will enjoy the cooperation and support of the student community." The Station is scheduled to broadcast regularly in the first week of September.

Changes

Baruch College is no longer just a building on 23rd St. It's a 15-story complex and a new home for the Baruch community. The College has announced by Dr. Jerome B. Conn, president, that the college is sponsoring a student newspaper for the first time. The Baruch News, a monthly publication, will be issued on a regular basis.

March 29, 1971

March 29, 1971
On a cool, breezy, summer night, the sea grew quiet and swallowed a light. The sun set a feet or so above the shore, so very happy, without a flaw. This man feels free, just like a bird. There's not a sound, not even a word. The windblows, gently, but this is not to be happy. The moon is full, as round as a ball, and stars emit a gleam. You sit in the dark and stare. The sandcastle with four rooms was given an additional room and a backyard and was now a fort made by the perfume bottle that was bought on the sands by the waves. There is no one way of seeing, being, feeling, or existing. Every man has a different concept and picture of the world, each one a right.
The FCC does it again! On March 12, 1971, the FCC Communications Commission sent a letter to its licensees requiring them to remove certain rock records, threatening to revoke their licenses if they did not. This action led to a barrage of criticism, but the Commission argued that it was necessary to protect the public from indecent material.

The Commission's action came in response to a letter from its licensees requiring them to remove certain rock records, threatening to revoke their licenses if they did not. This action led to a barrage of criticism, but the Commission argued that it was necessary to protect the public from indecent material.

John Denver, the most popular American musician, was criticized for his song "Rocky Mountain High," which contained the words "high" and "high". The FCC decided that this was indecent, and threatened to revoke Denver's license if he did not remove the song. Denver refused to do so, and the case went to court.

The court ruled in favor of the FCC, but the decision was appealed. The case eventually reached the Supreme Court of the United States, which ruled in favor of the Commission.

The decision has been criticized by many musicians and their supporters, who argue that the FCC's definition of indecency is too broad and too subjective. They argue that the Commission is trying to control the content of music, and that this is a violation of the First Amendment.

The case has also led to a debate about the role of the FCC in regulating the media. Some argue that the FCC should have more power to protect the public from indecent material, while others argue that it should have less power and be more accountable to the public.
BAD TASTE IN THE RADIO- OR LACK OF IT

There have been times when I had wondered why my mother bought a radio for my younger brother. As far as I could see, there was no need for one. The radio was kept in the living room and was seldom used. On one occasion, when I asked my mother why she had bought it, she replied, "It's for the whole family to listen to." But I was still not convinced. I thought the radio was just a waste of money.

Once, my mother was away on a trip, and my brother and I were left home alone. We were bored and didn't know what to do. That's when we decided to listen to the radio. We tuned in to various stations and listened to different programs. It was then that I realized the true value of a radio. It was not just a piece of equipment, but a source of entertainment and information.

I came to the realization that my mother had bought the radio for our benefit. It was not just for the children, but for the whole family. It was a way to bond over a common interest. I realized that the radio was not a luxury, but an essential part of our lives. I was ashamed of my previous attitude towards the radio.

I also came to understand the importance of radios in the lives of many people. They are used for communication, entertainment, and education. They are a source of information during emergencies, and a way to stay connected with friends and family.

In conclusion, I realized that my mother was right in buying the radio. It was a valuable investment, and I am grateful for it now. I hope that I can appreciate its true worth in the future.
