Liberal Arts Symposium Begins

By Bob Muhlbrad

A series of lectures and discussions sponsored by the School of Liberal Arts entitled "Liberal Arts Symposium," will begin on October 26th, according to Prof. Thomas Frazier.

Prof. Frazier, who is Acting Associate Dean, School of Liberal Arts, stated that the symposium will be amenable feature. The first program in the series will be a panel discussion on "Nixon's New Economic Policy" with members of the Economics Department and an "outside economist" as participants. This discussion will occur on Thursday, October 28th, at 12 in Room 311, in the 25th St. Building.

Upcoming topics in the symposium include: "Urban Problems in an Election Year," a lecture by Professor Richard Wade; and "The 50th Anniversary of Irish Independence," a lecture by Professor Richard Wade.

The Acting Dean, who is also a member of the History Department, believes that Baruch needs more intellectual programs such as the Liberal Arts Symposium. He also introduced all students to the various sessions of the Liberal Arts Symposium, which will in most cases be on topics of current interest.

Suddenly, this was not a picket group, but a group, composed of the students of Baruch College, who were not only fighting for rights, but fighting for the rights of the students of Baruch College. It was the students of Baruch College who were making their voices heard. It was the students of Baruch College who were fighting for their rights.

In this article, I will be concerned with the fact that in the 1969-70 academic year, the student government and student personnel services at Baruch College was run by Leon Yancey. Leon Yancey was making a fool out of the student government and student personnel services. He was being used as a scapegoat for the shortcomings of the student government and student personnel services.

Leon Yancey was a manipulative individual who was trying to take credit for the success of the student government and student personnel services. He was trying to make it appear as though he was the one in charge, when in reality he was not. He was using his position as a way to manipulate the student government and student personnel services for his own gain.

Leon Yancey was a man who was not interested in the well-being of the students of Baruch College. He was only interested in his own personal gain. He was using the student government and student personnel services as a way to further his own agenda.
