TRANCE

RON BRUSE, Coordinator of Student Activities plight of a person suffering lost in a world of terrible crises, a world in which one loses himself.

Ron Bruse to Speak on "The Only Subject is Self"

Mr. Ron Bruse "thought the subject matter was critical," that it was the only way he could express his feelings about the situation in the world today.

The essay has triggered off a book, of the same title, which Bruse is now writing. He hopes that "those who need to" will come to his essay and just with these few sentences he's trying to say what he's trying to say.

The purpose of these demonstrations is to get the nation's attention, to focus on the budget crisis as possible. The more coverage we have the better-off we are.

And just like that, Mr. Bruse's essay is read, and the audience is left to ponder its meaning.

USS Elects Shark Chairman

Alan Shark

At its March 8, 1972 meeting, the University Student Senate elected Mr. Alan Shark as student chairman. Mr. Shark has served as a member of the Baruch College Student Government, and has served as the student body president of the Student Senate.

During this past year, Mr. Shark has served as both the Acting Executive Vice-Chairman of the Senate. While serving in these capacities, Mr. Shark has been involved in a number of activities, including the University's budget crisis.
A central concern to any evaluation of higher learning in the American college is that it is the institution of higher education that is considered too liberal. This has led to a demand for changes in the curriculum and in college life. This demand is partly a reaction to the perception of students as disaffected with the mainstream of traditional public life and disaffection from many of the institutions of our society. Many educators, including Paul Goodman, feel that the current generation of students is different from the last generation because of a new sense of self and individuality. They argue that this is the result of the post-war period and the civil rights movement. This is not to say that all students are necessarily disaffected, but that there is a growing feeling among many that the traditional values and norms of society are not appropriate for them. This is reflected in the increased interest in alternative lifestyles and the rejection of institutionalized religion.

The New Irish Awareness

BY Charles Arluck

Last Thursday more than forty students attending a seminar on the history of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) in the History Department. A speaker from the Department of History and the Department of Irish Studies, Dr. Arluck, gave a lecture on the history of the IRA.

Dr. Arluck, a native of Ireland, spoke on the history of the IRA from its origins in 1916 to its current role in the Northern Ireland conflict. He discussed the political and social context of the IRA's activities, the role of the IRA in the Irish War of Independence, and the IRA's role in the Northern Ireland conflict.

The lecture was well received by the students, who asked many questions about the IRA's history and role in contemporary politics.

Dr. Arluck also discussed the IRA's role in the struggle for Irish independence. He emphasized the importance of the IRA in the Irish War of Independence and the role of the IRA in the Northern Ireland conflict.

The lecture concluded with a discussion of the IRA's role in the current political situation in Northern Ireland. Dr. Arluck emphasized the importance of the IRA in the Northern Ireland conflict and the need for a solution to the conflict.

The lecture was well received by the students, who asked many questions about the IRA's history and role in contemporary politics.
Last Chance

The Baruch College Community of students, faculty, and staff are invited to attend the Spring 1973 Convocation on Tuesday, March 20, at 1 p.m. in the Kupferberg Hall, Lower Manhattan Campus. The Convocation will feature the presentation of academic and general honors to the outstanding students of the College.

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TICKER:

I am amazed that there was no candidate from Baruch. The last student election only 13 out of 76 percent voted. Does this small percentage mean that the majority of Baruch students are apathetic? If so, then the school is in serious trouble.

I have been informed by one of the parents that segregated housing had been ordered by the American Broadcasting Company. Since this is the American way of life, I presume that the American people are supposed to be preserved in their status. I am not sure that the whole population of America is supposed to be preserved in their status.

Little did I know that the American way was hypocrisy, corruption, hatred, and self-seeking. ANNOUNCEMENTS

The House Plan Association's Softball "Only Subject is Self" presents Jungian Philosophy. "All of us are subject to some aspects or other of our consciousness, so it is impossible to avoid the essence of the human soul, whether it be in the present or future. We must learn to accept the pain of living, but it is also possible to find an answer to our problems."

Death Penalty: Cruel and Unusual?

Burzbaum...

While reviewing the article in this issue, I was reminded of something that I have been thinking about for a long time. The death penalty has been on my mind for some time now. I have read many articles and studies about the death penalty, and I have come to the conclusion that it is not cruel and unusual punishment. It is a just and necessary punishment for those who commit heinous crimes.

In response to my article on the death penalty, I would like to say that I believe it is important to consider the consequences of the death penalty. While it may be a just and necessary punishment, it is important to consider the potential consequences of the death penalty. It is important to consider the potential consequences of the death penalty. It is important to consider the potential consequences of the death penalty.

About a year or so ago I discovered I was becoming a comedian without even noticing it. When I was about 15 I discovered that I had this ability to make people laugh, and I would do it whenever I could. So I started to do it more and more, and eventually I became a professional comedian. Now I'm a comedian.
To Your Health

Dear Friends:

There is a rumor that people play a game called "To Your Health". However, this game has not been officially recognized nor endorsed by health authorities. It may be a form of entertainment, but it can also be risky for your physical and mental well-being. Therefore, we recommend you to avoid it and focus on more healthy activities.

Sincerely,

Six games in the University of Miami Hurricanes’ two-day, six-game spring baseball schedule announced this week by Director of Athletics Fred Larrabee.

After a seven-game exhibition schedule, the Hurricanes will return to action for the season on March 27 against the University of Miami at Coral Gables, Florida in the first round of the Atlantic Conference.

In the tournament, which runs from March 25-27, Miami will play five games each with Miami State, the Big Ten champion. The Hurricanes are the second-seeded favorite for the Middle Atlantic Conference championship.

The tournament opens on March 25 before the tournament opens Baruch will play an exhibition game against Southern Illinois, a team that went to the final game of the College World Series last year before losing to Southern California in the title game.

Of course there’s nothing wrong with being commercial, and WHAT’S UP DOC? certainly is. But its value lies simply in the short time one spends in the theatre gazing at the screen. With Ryan O’Neal, Barbra Streisand and Madeline Kahn there’s certainly plenty for everybody.

Mr. O’Neal — the leading idea in San Francisco with his shrewish fiancée, Madeline Kahn — is a finalist for a $20,000 award from the Larrabee foundation to pursue his studies. Judy Maxwell (Barbra Streisand) and Madeline Kahn are a team that went to the first big success. But, the division of WHAT’S UP DOC? seemed to be one of those rare cases where one hopes to create a happy marriage between art and commercial value. This latest vehicle simply opts for the latter.

And Things That Go Bump In The Night

Mr. Subotzky and Mr. Rosenberg have given us a number of horror films over the years. Their last, and one of the best, was FRIGHT NIGHT. In TALES FROM THE CRYPT, an admissible achievement on a technical level, it leaves much to be desired as a horror film. Based on material created by the Aquanauts and the Cryptkeeper, TALES FROM THE CRYPT contains five short stories, each one dealing with the same idea — the existence of death itself. The people trapped in a catacomb by crypt keeper Sir Ralph is in each story what will happen to them at night. The direction is by Galen Taggart, the script by Christopher Lee and the story is by the Aquanauts.

I See You!

(But I Fob A Whole Branch)

by Linda Masiu

Dean Roy Senour apparently has no interest in the disappearing act, that is, if Dean Senour can be considered an actor. He has no interest in anything concerning the death of his wife, Barbara. Nothing has come of these. It seems the reason for all of this is that there is no ocean separating him from Barbara's students. No one has asked him to walk on campus, or to meet other students, or to sign autographs. That's the curse of Baruch. Students generally do not know his name, and it is an ocean separating him from Barbara's students.

Some type of introduction must be made, and it must be made as soon as possible. Dean Senour is the only student who could become a instructor. We must help along with the construction. It seems that we can only do this by telling Barbara. This is not the case at Baruch. Students generally do not know his name, and it is an ocean separating him from Barbara's students.
