BOYCOTT OF CLASSES IN EFFECT TODAY

In Memory Of The Two Students At Southern University

RALLY AT NOON AT 30TH STREET

Wingfield Asks Faculty To Excuse Students

Shortly after a committee of students met with President F. G. Wingfield last Wednesday, November 21st, to discuss the name and needs of the group participating in a city-wide demonstration today, Monday, November 27th, 10 of Noon, on Third Avenue, students of the State University of New York, Baruch College, President of the college, extended a special note of sympathy to the families and friends of the two students killed and injured at Southern University in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. The students of the college are deeply disturbed by the recent events.

On that date, Wingfield, after a conference with the Committee to Support Students of Louisiana, asked the students of the State University of New York, Baruch College, to excuse the students of the State University of Louisiana from classes on Monday, November 27th. The students of Baruch College expressed their best wishes to the students of the State University of Louisiana. The students of Baruch College also expressed their sympathy to the families and friends of the two students killed and injured at Southern University.

On November 21st, the students of the State University of New York, Baruch College, expressed their sympathy to the families and friends of the two students killed and injured at Southern University. The students of Baruch College also expressed their best wishes to the students of the State University of Louisiana. The students of Baruch College also expressed their sympathy to the families and friends of the two students killed and injured at Southern University.
(Continued from Page D-1)

Sheriff Amis: At first, both Governor Edwards and Sheriff Amis stated that none of the deputies could have fired shots. But as the amount of evidence began to mount, Edwards was forced to admit that it was "obvious that there are discrepancies and uncertainties." Amis contends that he is still "in the dark" that notes his men fired anything except tear gas.

On Friday Edwards told reporters that the deputies were armed with both regular 30-caliber shells and tear gas shells, and that another avenue close to him identified that "if I held them up, you couldn't tell them apart." He added, however, that he was drawing no conclusions from the fact that the two shells look alike and that "in the heat of that kind of action, if a deputy was to reach in his pocket and pull out the wrong kind of shell and slip in the gun, even he may not know that he did it."

By Saturday, Governor Edwards had become more definite: "I have no doubt it was a deputy sheriff who fired," Edwards said in a hush-time interview with three Federal officials and two reporters, including L.A. Times reporter Nicholas Church.

The "accidental" theory of the shooting in fact raises more questions than it answers. There is still the question of why the deputies used live ammunition at all. Added to that now is why shot gun shells and the tear gas canisters would be made to look so much alike that such a mistake could be made.

After the shootings 600 National Guard troops were brought in to seal off the campus and the school was ordered closed. The National Guard returned, it is reported from the administration office that the National Guard troops will be there again. Also, there will be the same demands that two students died for on the 16th.

The quality of the education at Southern University is still inferior to the quality of education one can receive at mostly white Louisiana State University. And the state board of education is still all white.

In order to force Southern University students from the administration building, cops wearing flak jackets used tear gas and shotguns.

Members of Students United, the name given to the protest movement at S.U., say they have no doubts that future protests will also be met with violence. However, Fred Prejean, one of the students arrested in the predawn hours of the 16th, stated that "the students have no plans to drop the issues or to stifle their demands."