Several members of the Baruch College community were extremely active yesterday's rally at Board of Higher Education Headquarters at 80th Street and York Avenue. The rally was concerned with the situation at the University of Louisiana in which two students were murdered.

The rally was sparsely attended, with only approximately 200 people present. The rally was organized to raise awareness and support for the students at the University of Louisiana.

The rally was introduced by James Williams, Senate delegate from City College, and Louis E. Rivera, Executive Vice President of City College's student government. The rally was unanimously in favor of a resolution supporting students at the University of Louisiana that had been introduced by a group of students from the University of New York. The resolution was introduced by William Williams, Senate delegate from City College, and Louis E. Rivera, Executive Vice President of City College's student government. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 50-0.

The resolution will be sent to the University Student Senate, meeting in plenary session, voted unanimously in favor of the resolution supporting students at the University of Louisiana in their struggle for human rights and condemning the slaughter of students involved in this struggle.

The rally was also attended by representatives from the University Student Senate of the City University of New York in their struggle for human rights and condemning the slaughter of students involved in this struggle. POW's are being Sold

POW's are being returned to their home to see the family and to see their belongings. The POW's are happy to be home and to see their loved ones. They have been through a very difficult time and are happy to be safe and home. The POW's are very grateful for the support they have received from their family and friends.

New York To Kumasi

By Gavry Greenlaw

The world of the Ashanti is territorial and the land is classified as either forest land or farm land. The Ashanti live close to the land and respect the land they live on. The Ashanti are a very nature-oriented people. They respect the land and the resources
they live on. The Ashanti believe that the power of the land is the power of the people who live on it. They believe that the land is the life and the sustenance of the people who live on it.

There is a tremendous amount of land that is undeveloped in Kumasi.
This land is under the control of the Kumasi Authority. The Kumasi Authority is a government body that is responsible for the development of Kumasi. The Kumasi Authority is responsible for the development of the city and the surrounding area.

The Kumasi Authority is working on a number of projects in the city. These projects include the development of new residential areas, the development of new industrial areas, and the development of new
commercial areas.

The Kumasi Authority is
also working on a project to upgrade the
infrastructure in the city.
This project includes upgrading the roads,
upgrading the
electricity system, and
upgrading the
water system.

At the time of my visit, the Kumasi Authority was working on a project to upgrade the water system in the city.

The Kumasi Authority is working on this project to improve the water system in the city. The water system in the city is very old and needs to be upgraded. The project is expected to take several years to complete.

The Kumasi Authority is
electricity system in the city. The electricity system in the city is also very old and needs to be upgraded.

The project is expected to take several years to complete.

Baruch and Southern University

Baruch College should be extremely pleased with its participation in the Southern University crisis. You, Walter Lippman, have expressed your admiration for the activities of the Student Center. Baruch College should be extremely pleased with its growth. Since the tragedy of November 7, 1969, Baruch College has taken a leading role in the development of the Student Center. It is comforting to know that the silent majority, the great majority of the students, want the Student Center to develop. It is comforting to know that the Student Center is going to be used by the students. It is comforting to know that the Student Center will be used by everyone. It is comforting to know that the Student Center will be used by the students.

AN EYE FOR AN EYE by GARRY FRANK

"You're a little punk," I said, "you know that? You think you own the world, but the world owns you."

Jesús Coronado was a small man, but he was strong. He had big hands and a big nose, and he moved with a purpose. He was a streetwise man, a man of the people. He was a man who knew how to survive.

a fool of himself by believing he has the right to We'll, kids, how have you liked it? From my last campaign to come, I've seen a hundred thousand fellows have met their maker. And you to say we'd let it. We'll, there are no more enjoy besides the music. The and the alcohol is nothing pet and we have

But I Yeah, you knew it just as we would have.

But I must accept my fate.

As far as the music. The

A small light
gives me space to write this letter to you, friend:

A cardboard stench is in this prison jokers huflt and burnt.

Mirrored the last scout about four hundreds thousands of your fellow have met their maker. And you will all loved it. Well, there are no more surprises and no more entertainment besides the music. The better windows are closed and the alcohol is running out and we have only eight hours to go. And you blow it! Yeah, you blow it just as we would have blown it if it left to ourselves. We didn't have it to ourselves. We dragged everybody into this life you loved it. Loved it just like we do. It's too bad that tomorrow we'll be entitled to hard core. But that's life and aren't you glad that you didn't and it happened? I look what you'd be missing. Live it up. We who are about to die salute you! (Call in crowd: cheerig: screaming and snapping) (Go around and call out names, C.F.P.)

I squeezed an eye to watch your sail puffed like a wind struck cloud.
It filled me full and made me sigh

I know the sounds — screams wrenched in the rat still night — mold in the feast bread — worms in the walls —

And yet...

you, flamingo winged waft skybound, sunset after moonlight.
And I know I should tremble in peace I have - glad small lights grace me and yet...

when you told me I stood rock sure —

of course you are a poet.
