Kibbee Will Call For Revised Tenure Quota Policy

(UNC) Hailing an apparent victory on the tenure quota policy, Dr. Bille Zelle, President of the Professional Staff Congress, announced on February 29:

"At the urging of the Professional Staff Congress, Chancellor Robert J. Kibbee will propose to the new Board of Higher Education, two major revisions of the policy that were adopted by the old Board Oct 29:

- Revision of all specific or implied numerical limits on the conviction of tenure, and
- Elimination of all ‘special circumstances’ and ‘specific justifications’ currently required in determining tenure eligibility.

The Professional Staff Congress represents UNC’s 18,000-member instructional staff on 20 campuses and is the largest union in higher education.

Board approval of these recommendations, Dr. Zelle said, would eliminate an ongoing campaign conducted by the union for four months.

It would also reverse a national trend to restrict tenure and to fire tenured faculty members, the union stated.

USS Discusses Budget Cuts With Chancellor

(UNC) Chancellor Robert J. Kibbee appeared as a guest speaker at the University Student Senate meeting on February 24, 1984, as the student legislative body of the城 University prepared a series of resolutions and strategies relating to the proposed University Budget.

Dr. Kibbee, addressing the Senate plenary session for the first time, addressed a wide variety of topics including the status of free tuition, capital construction, open admissions, tenure, and the budget.

In an extended question and answer session, the Chancellor noted that the senate system was under review and the revisions would be forthcoming in the near future. Dr. Kibbee discussed the construction of physical facilities on individual campuses in response to questions on space problems. He stated that the University construction program exceeded $100 million.

Ramsey Clark To Speak Here

On March 7, 1974 from 12-1 at the "Auditorium of the Main Building," Ramsey Clark, former Attorney General under the late President John F. Kennedy, will speak.

Clark has been a shining light in the political history of America. At age 21, he was a law student at the University of Chicago. After graduation, he passed the bar examination in 1942 and began practicing law in Chicago. He served as legal counsel to the United Nations in the 1940s and as Assistant Secretary of State for the U.S. Department of State.

Management Instructor Builds Teaching Robot

In the computer science, management, and engineering departments at the University of California, Santa Barbara, a student named William Galloway has built a teaching robot that is being tested in the New York State University. The robot, called "Teaching Assistant," is designed to help instructors teach mathematics. In France, a similar robot called "Edu-Rob," has been developed and is currently being tested in a mathematics class at the University of Paris. This robot is equipped with a computer terminal, a scanner, and a talking device. It is able to answer questions, provide help with homework, and even grade tests.

In The Streets

by Kevin Howard Dubrow

When I first arrived at Baruch College, I was excited and nervous. I had heard so much about the city, but I wasn't sure what to expect. As I walked around the campus, I noticed that there were a lot of different people around. Some were students, some were faculty, and some were just people walking by. It was a bit overwhelming, but I knew that I had to make the most of my time here.

I decided to start by exploring some of the local streets. I found a group of people sitting on a bench in the park near the campus. They were having a good time, talking and laughing. I joined them and we started chatting. They were all so friendly and welcoming. I felt like I was part of a community.

As I continued to explore the city, I found more and more people who were just like me. They were all interested in the same things, and we all shared a common goal of success. It was amazing to see how much we had in common.

I realized that I was no longer just a student in the city. I was part of something bigger. I was part of a community, and I felt like I belonged.

Teaching Robot Built By Management Teacher

Bill Park, a teacher at Baruch College, has designed and built a teaching robot that can help students learn more efficiently. Park, who is a management teacher, created the robot to assist with his classes. He wanted a way to make his classes more interactive and engaging for his students. The robot is a small, wheeled device with a large screen on the front. It can be used to display images, text, and videos to help students better understand the material being taught. Park is excited about the potential of the robot, saying that it can be a valuable tool for educators. He hopes to use it in his classes to help students learn more effectively. Overall, the robot appears to be a positive addition to Baruch College's teaching tools.

Crime And The Poor Is History Lecture Topic

By BILL CARR

Prof. Edward Weber,/power of John Jay College of Criminal Justice, proposed the topic, "Crime and the Poor," for this week's History Society lecture. The lecture was conducted in the cafeteria, and Prof. Weber spoke on the topic.

The amount of crime in the United States is currently at an all-time high. There are around 3.6 million arrests per year, but the percentage of the population that escapes arrest is unknown. Of known crimes, Prof. Weber pointed out that 90% are committed by the middle and lower class.

Crime is basically the act of committing an illegal act. Sociologists consider crime to be a social benefito society. This is because crime really serves as a control mechanism for society. Crime is basically what the law defines it as, and therefore it is the state that decides what a crime is. Sociologists consider crime to be a socially harmful act.

In coping with crime, Prof. Weber stated that the police are a key actor. They must be efficient in their work, but on the other hand they must show that crime is rampant, making their job necessary.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

While many of our friends at other institutions are busy preparing for their spring semester, there is a state of confusion and stress at Baruch.
The usual registration for spring and summer classes will be next week from 8:16-5:00, and weekends (except Friday)! from 4:00-9:00.

If students are upset because there is a lack of faculty presence at registration, or that it is not mandatory for faculty to appear;
then by all means they should state-formal complaints to the Registrar's Office. It is not directly responsible.

The direct step is to speak to the instructors. If the instructors doesn't do it, then the student should have the facts and present them in a letter to the Dean's Office. It is not directly responsible.

Letters to the Editor should be submitted to the Editor of The Student, 200 East 118th Street, New York City 15.
