Engineers Hit By Employer Cutbacks

Discipline has dropped 6% for bachelor's candidates and 7% for baccalaureates. The OTC cutoff, now at 114, is down from 116 in 1973. More than 17000 applications were received in the spring. Of the total, 3% were for the master's degree, which had been 5% the previous year. A few thousand years ago, there has been a significant drop in the number of bachelor's candidates, but the master's candidates have held steady at about the same level, with some increases. The master's degree candidates have been up 5% for the past two years, but this year's total has been down 5%.

Students are getting fed up with the philosophy of the administration. In recent years, the administration has been characterized by the following actions:

1. Disciplining students without cause.
2. Implementing policies that are not in the best interest of the students.
3. Taking actions that are discriminatory.
4. Ignoring student concerns.

The administration is currently discussing the possibility of implementing these actions in the near future.

Cinematographically Speaking

By Steven Kon

The treatment of women as a source of sexual excitement is a subject that has been given scant attention by the film industry. The male perspective is typically portrayed as the dominant one, while women are often depicted as passive figures. This can lead to a narrow and one-dimensional view of women's experiences and perspectives. However, there are films that challenge these stereotypes and offer a more nuanced portrayal of women's lives.

As the New York Times has noted, "Filmmakers have long been reluctant to tackle the subject of women's experiences, especially if it involves issues like sexuality, relationships, and personal growth. But with the rise of female directors and the growing audience for women's stories, we are seeing a shift in the way women are portrayed on screen. Women are no longer just objects of desire, but complex, multi-dimensional characters with their own desires and aspirations."

Chuck's Hotline has changed its name to Hebrew Union College's Hotline. The Hotline has been a valuable resource for Jewish students and community members seeking support and guidance. The new name reflects the expanding reach and impact of the Hotline, which now offers assistance to anyone seeking help with Jewish-related issues.

Baruch Helpline

For those seeking assistance with Jewish-related issues, the Hotline remains a valuable resource. Whether you need help finding a rabbi or seeking guidance on Jewish law and ethics, the Hotline can provide the support you need. It is available to anyone seeking assistance, regardless of their background or affiliation.

Engineering

When it comes to the design and construction of buildings and infrastructure, engineers play a critical role in ensuring that structures are safe, functional, and sustainable. The field of engineering encompasses a wide range of disciplines, including civil, mechanical, electrical, and environmental engineering, each with its own unique challenges and opportunities.

Dean of Transportation

The New York Times recently featured an article on transportation issues in New York City. The article highlighted the challenges faced by the city's transportation system, including outdated infrastructure, congestion, and lack of investment in public transit. The article also noted the importance of addressing these issues in order to ensure a sustainable future for the city.

Administration

The administration of a university plays a critical role in shaping the academic and cultural environment on campus. The Office of the President is responsible for overseeing the university's strategic planning, finance, and operations, as well as ensuring that the university's values and priorities are reflected in its policies and actions. The Office of the Provost oversees the academic affairs of the university, including the development of academic programs, faculty recruitment, and student support services.

When you think Kodak is just pretty pictures, you ought to have your chest examined.

When a chest x-ray shows that you have a potential killer like TB or cancer, it's not a pretty picture. But it is an important picture because it can help the doctor detect and catch the killer in time.

When doctors are out to catch these potential killers, they want the sharpest, cleanest x-ray films they can get. And that's why people at Kodak spend so many hours creating new and better x-ray film equipment. Already, the results include convenience for the patient, economy for the hospital, and an even more useful tool for the radiologist—and, most important, reduced radiation exposure.

Researching and creating better x-ray films is good for our business, which is why we want our patients to be healthy. But it does our society good, too—which is just a side benefit. After all, our business depends on our society—so we care what happens to it.
The Ticker Issue:

Student Governments Viewpoint

By Yvonne Staln

As you should be aware by now there is a controversy over the new Ticker Association. The events leading up to this controversy are as follows:

The Ticker Association is to be composed of six students—elected by the Student Government and five by the student body, one faculty consultant. The editor-in-chief is selected each semester by the Association. Any student can run for a position in the Association. The existing Student Government, according to Mr. Harry Gibbs, Student Government Vice Chairman for Business, in the absence of the previous Day Session Student Government's term was from September 1974 to September 1975. It is the time of some candidates for the new Ticker Association have been interviewed by Dean Senour for the creation of a new Association. The appointments have not been made public. Since the time that Fishbein's editorship expired, January 14 until January 31, candidates have been interviewed by Dean Senour for the creation of a new Association. The appointments have not been made public. Why? On January 31, 1975, Nancy Bowker sent a resignation letter to Student Government, which Harry Gibbs acknowledged receiving, stating that she wished her name be withdrawn as a candidate. The administration-appointed Ticker Association last week chose Miss Bowker to be the new Editor-in-Chief. This sequence of events might be construed as a violation of the Day Session Student Government Constitution which states that, in a general election if less than 30 percent take part, then the president of the college shall be responsible for carrying out the duties described in this article—Article XV, section 15.2, until such percentage is achieved and until such duly-elected body has established regulations in conformity with the general requirements of this article. Thus, since the previous Government, according to Gibbs, failed to have the Ticker Association appear in the last election, there was no general vote percentage tabulated for the association.

The Student Government has temporarily suspended the charter of the Ticker Association, according to Mr. Gibbs, pending the outcome of the new general election that is to take place in the future. It remains to be seen whether this new association will remain for the rest of this semester or temporarily until the results of the new election are known.
