During intercession CUNY has taken a verbal beating from its ‘public servants.’ Mayor Beame proclaimed ‘we cannot afford the City University.’ Also Governor Carey wants serious consideration given to incorporating CUNY into SUNY, which would end free tuition.

CUNY is not the only target of the politicians. The MTA is proposing more cuts in transportation, public libraries are being closed, and plans are being made to close numerous public schools.

Mayor Beame finds he doesn't have enough money for essential services. Yet he has been able to find enough money to keep his political hacks on the payroll. Despite the severity of this crisis, Beame has refused to cut any political fat.

Starting with their January 16th issue, the Public Employee Press has decided to expose 35 political appointees a week. These hacks include William Giordano. A former state senator and assemblyman, he has been defeated in his bid for re-election to the State Assembly in 1972. He has since 'served' in a private airline for big-shot politicians, providing food and liquor along with free transportation. The chief benefitter of this service, to a tune of $300,000, is Treasury Secretary James Baker.

We have two other Deputy Mayors who, though they don't get paid quite as much as Zuccotti, do receive considerable salaries. An administration that considers Deputy Mayors more important than libraries has a distorted view of priorities. One may ask, what do Deputy Mayors do? I suspect one reads The Times, another reads The Post and the third reads The News, another reads The New York Times.

Mayor Beame by far does not hold a monopoly on wasteful spending. The State and Federal government are equally efficient at misspending our money. One major area of such misspending involving the Federal Government is the defense budget. While I fully realize the necessity of a strong military defense, the military also spends $67 million a year on ‘the 89th Military Aircraft Wing.’ This serves as a private service for big-shot politicians, providing food and liquor along with free transportation. The chief benefitter of this service, to a tune of $6.8 billion, is Treasury Secretary William Simon. If the name sounds familiar, he was very outspoken in his criticism of New York City's wasteful spending.

So far the budget crisis has not seriously affected the politicians. The only real concern is that the politicians will not be re-elected. The votes of CUNY students and supporters can be crucial in deciding whether or not these politicians get elected.

The Physical and Health Education Department of the School of Education has developed an extensive recreation program for the Spring 1976 semester. Baruch students, faculty, and staff are all welcome to participate in the program that has been made available.

Since the response to our Fall program has been overwhelming, we have once again made available all department facilities when appropriate supervision is available. Included in the facilities are the weight room and the gymnasium, which are located on the 6th floor of the 23rd St. building, the swimming pool, which is located in the basement of the 23rd St. building, and the armory, which is located on Lexington Avenue between 25th and 26th Streets. The equipment in the weight room includes two universal gym, exercise bicycles, rowing machines, running treadmills, and weights. In the adjoining room we offer table tennis. At the armory, tennis courts are available as scheduled for free activity play.

In addition, we have also made available the following programs through Baruch: squash, tennis, hydro fitness, water ski, water ski, and water ski. Dance Studio (social, modern, ballet, etc.), 50 Mile Swim Club, Men's and Women's Physical Conditioning. Baruch Club, many others.

Programs and facilities are open to all members of the Baruch College Community. For further information see the Physical and Health Education Department 'Recreation and Interfraternity Newsletter' that will be available on Thursday, Feb. 5th, 1976. Procedures for use of the facilities, detailed descriptions of the individual programs and schedules for facilities will be contained in the Newsletter. If there are any further questions feel free to contact Bonnie Kloc or Tom Crawford in their office, room 709, or telephone them at 725-3245.
Ticker Fiction: What Happen

By Howard Neiman

Tell me the truth, have you ever seen a good, as you would call it, a picture, as you would call it, in one of those big, expensive, high-quality magazines? I mean, really good pictures, with the kind of detail that you can see the texture of the fabric or the sheen of the glass or the reflectiveness of the water. Have you ever seen a picture that was as good as a picture in a magazine? No, you haven't. And you never will. The reason is that the pictures in those magazines are not pictures at all. They are computer-generated images, created by a process called 'computer graphics.' These images are so realistic that they can fool even the most experienced photographer. It is a process that uses a combination of mathematics and digital technology to create images that are almost indistinguishable from reality. It is a process that is used in a variety of fields, from advertising to entertainment to scientific research. It is a process that is changing the way we see and understand the world. And it is a process that is not going away anytime soon.
Music And Me

Today, there is a new generation of young people who seem to lack direction. Many of them are lost and don't know where to go. Today's world is so fast-paced and overwhelming that it can be difficult to keep up with everything happening. Parents can be a great source of support for their children, but sometimes they can also be a source of conflict. It's important to listen to your parents and try to understand their perspective. It can be helpful to have conversations with them about your feelings and concerns. This can help you to feel more connected to your family and reduce any tension that may be present. It's also important to remember that everyone has their own unique experiences and perspectives, so it's important to be open-minded and try to see things from different angles. This can help you to develop a more well-rounded worldview and make better decisions in the future.
Biochemistry Rejected

By Aric Sadowitz

In the beginning of the Fall '76 semester, the Pre-Medical students of Baruch College requested the Chemistry Department to offer an introductory course in biochemistry. This was due to the importance of the field of biochemistry in recognizing the importance of the biological sciences to the study of chemistry and Pre-Medical courses. The Chemistry Department responded to the request by establishing a committee of staff members to form the administration.

About 150 students were eager to register for Biochemistry in the Spring '77 term and pre-registration was open. Many of these students had requested to be eligible to take the course as a co-requisite of General Chemistry. Additionally, students who had transferred to Baruch College from other institutions were also eager to take the course. As a result, the Chemistry Department decided to offer Biochemistry not only for Pre-Medical students, but also for all laboratory students. The course would be offered in the morning and afternoon sessions, and would have a total of 40 students.

Now, the students who were willing to take the course are disappointed, for an introductory Biochemistry course cannot accommodate everyone. Thus, the Chemistry Department has decided to offer the course as a co-requisite of General Chemistry. The students will be required to attend the course during the morning and afternoon sessions. The course will be taught by a team of experienced instructors. The course will consist of lecture and laboratory sessions.

The Professional Staff Congress announced that the university faculty and staff—Dr. Polishook, President of the Professional Staff Congress, demanded that the Board of Higher Education and the city unions, including the American Federation of Teachers, to release $60-million in State windfall money resulting from the colleges' new formula for funding CUNY.

This month the Board mailed notices to CUNY applicants suggesting that 17,000 students in the spring semester. The PSC has instructed its members to withdraw services equivalent to salary withheld through payroll furloughs. The four-week furloughs, starting last week, were met with anger by the union's Delegate at large, calling the PSC's actions in imposing the furloughs "illegal, immoral and anti-labor." The courts have thus far deposed the PSC actions. They are in the process of learning about what legal rights the employees have and whatever they do result from a $14.6-million reduction in college budgets effective next semester.

Other features of the action program which will be conducted this month by unions, include:

- An all-day CUNY Teach-ins in lieu of regular classes through the making of the university community at all CUNY colleges on a rotating schedule every semester, to be initiated by the University Student Federation and others challenging the curtailment of academic freedom, and to effect student enrollment at City University.

- An all-day CUNY Teach-ins in the schools, to be conducted by the PSC to raise the issue of the salaries and working conditions of the students of the university in a last ditch attempt to save the university.

- A Board of Higher Education as adopted by the Delegate Assembly, 641 will be presented to the City University Professor's Assembly, to be presented to the City University Professor's Assembly, to be presented to the City University President's Assembly, and its staffs; and the entire labor community in the State.

- A Board of Higher Education as adopted by the Delegate Assembly, 641 will be presented to the City University Professor's Assembly, and its staffs; and the entire labor community in the State.

I'm going to have to make twenty thousand dollars a year just to pay off my loans for college!

By Jim Hedges

I was thinking about the process of taking out a loan for college. My parents would have provided for my education if they could have afforded it, but they couldn't. So, I took out a loan to pay for college. When I graduated, I had a mountain of debt. Now, I'm making twenty thousand dollars a year just to pay off my loans for college. It's not fair. The government should provide free education for everyone.

A Time To Die

During his administration, Bronx Community College's enrollment grew from 3,000 to 12,000 students. A successful leader with a strong commitment to education, he was a strong advocate for higher education and was instrumental in the college's growth.
