Students to Vote on New DSSG Constitution

Florida Negron in white dress, being congratulated upon being elected the new USS chairperson.

A referendum to amend the Daily St. John Student Government constitution will be voted on in the upcoming DSSG May elections.

The proposed eight-page constitution, which was approved by the Student Election and Governance Committee on March 31st, is an abridged version of the present DSSG page constitution.

Michael Robinson, DSSG vice-president, said that the present constitution “is redundant and verbose.” He pointed out that the constitution contains such guidelines as how to fill out a voucher. Robinson claims that the referendum more accurately reflects the student government’s activities.

Council members unanimously approved the proposed constitution which was then given to the review committee. The committee scrutinized the proposal to ensure that it was consistent with the bylaws and the governance charter. According to Robert Georgia, assistant to the dean of students and committee member, it is up to the students to decide on the passage of the proposal.

Both Robinson and Devalle Walker, DSSG president, said that the major revisions involved the term of office. Article VII, Section 3, of the proposed constitution states that newly elected student leaders will take office “beginning the day after commencement in June until commencement day the following spring.”

According to Walker, this change will permit DSSG to be organized at the start of the school year. This will allow them to approve club budgets in September rather than in November.

Walker said that another major change involves the filling of vacancies. Under the proposed constitution, the runner up in an election will be chosen to fill a vacant seat. Should the person decline, DSSG will issue a public notice for two weeks and then receive open nominations to be approved by the council members.

According to Robinson, it costs between $6,000 and $9,000 to hold an election. “We can’t afford to spend that kind of money,” he said, “every time there is a vacancy.”

In addition, Walker pointed out other revisions:

- Senate running for office must submit a declaration for candidacy form along with a nominating petition containing the signatures of 50 student days.
- Titles of appointed vice presidents will be changed to vice president of Legislative Affairs, vice president of Campus Affairs, and vice president of Academic Affairs.
- An impeachment process will be outlined.

Walker acknowledged that a similar referendum was presented to students two years ago and failed to pass. However, Walker was confident that the proposal would win acceptance because it does not try to change the format—it doesn’t make the president chair of the council.

Negron Elected New Chair
By NEERAJ VOHIRA

Melvin Lowe, the chairman of the University Student Senate, resigned on March 18 during a trial in State Supreme Court in Manhattan, admitting that he was not a registered student.

The trial was a result of a lawsuit by some delegates of the USS who asserted that Lowe had illegally changed the USS bylaws thereby extending his term in office by months—from January to May 1986.

The trial date, March 18, was the same date that The Ticker came out with the story that Lowe was not a registered student at Hunter College, the school he had last attended. By not being a registered student, Lowe was in violation of Section 4.3. of the bylaws, and is subject to removal from office by way of action by the USS.

Since his resignation, Lowe said the USS’s financial activities for the past three years have been under scrutiny and there is currently an audit being done by the accounting firm Pest, Marwick & Mitchell. (See accompanying article).

"Day of Judgment"

In the first USS meeting held after Lowe’s resignation, Florida Negron, delegate from Hostos Community College and the USS Community College vice chair, was elected the interim chairperson until the elections that will be held in May.

"Today is a day of judgment," said Robert Hickson, the USS Graduate Affairs vice chair, as he began the USS meeting on March 23rd. "My most important and my most heartfelt desire is unity among the students of the City University of New York," continued Hickson who proclaimed himself to be the "interim chair.

The first action taken by Hickson was to call for a roll call of the Senate. However, before the roll call was completed, Hickson’s position was challenged by some of the delegates. Dec. asked Hickson, "Who appointed you, sir?" a full four times before his question was acknowledged by the interim chair. In response, Hickson read a letter by Melvin Lowe that said in part, "Because of personal reasons and the pressure of other commitments.

USS Finances During Lowe’s Reign Under Scrutiny
By ERIC J. FOX

A preliminary review of vouchers, memos and other documents left behind by the administration of Melvin Lowe, former chairperson of the University Student Senate, reveals enormous expenditures on travel, conferences, meetings and other items.

The USS is an organization that represents the 180,000 students in the City University system.

- The USS has not paid its phone bill to CUNY for more than a year.
- Lowe’s personal auto rental bill, charged to the USS, was $3,619.62 for the months of May, July, August, October and November of 1985.
- Florida Negron, the newly elected chairperson of the USS, has formed a committee to look into the past finances of the USS. According to members of the committee, their investigation has been hindered by the refusal of CUNY officials to release financial records of the organization.

Lowe, vice chancellor for Student Affairs, has offered to give Negron summaries of USS expenditures, printed monthly by the Research Foundation. The Research Foundation oversees USS expenditures.

Who Was Minding The Store?

The King is dead. Melvis Louis, chairman of the university student senate, was forced to resign on March 18, the same day that The Ticket reported that he was no longer a student at Brooklyn College. Louis had been an integral part of the Student Government for years, but he left the college in 1985. Louis, who is currently in the Army, was scheduled to return to Brooklyn College in February to work towards his degree.

Louis's resignation was the result of a long-running controversy over the administration's handling of student affairs. The administration had refused to grant Louis a leave of absence, and he was forced to withdraw from the university in order to serve in the Army. Louis's supporters argued that the administration was acting unfairly by denying him the opportunity to continue his education, while his detractors accused him of being a troublemaker.

The resignation of Louis was a significant blow to the student government, which has been struggling to find a replacement for him. The administration has so far refused to grant Louis's request for a leave of absence, and he remains a student at Brooklyn College.

Voting Is Not the Same as Legislation

One of Baruch's well-kept secrets is that the Day Session Student Government has a Constitution. In this year's elections, a revised constitution will be one of the referendums on the ballot. The Ticket will be tabulating the student body to support it.

The proposed constitution is clumsy and barebones. It eliminates language which is expected to be used by the student government to influence student opinion or to operate effectively. Several of the words that would be filled into the proposed constitution is the replacement of council members who resign. In the current constitution, council vacancy is only filled by the president. In the new constitution, council vacancy would be filled by the candidates who had the next highest vote total. If this is the case, candidates would be nominated and elected by a majority of the council. A provision like this would have come as a welcome surprise to the students who think that the council members elected last May have already resigned.

Several advantageous amendments have been made in the past to have the current constitution annulled. They have failed largely because the proposed constitution gave the Day Session Student Government a better chance to win. Perhaps this year, the students will see that the proposed constitution does not do this, and, in all, it is definitely an Improvement. We urge students to vote for the new constitution.

Increase Will Improve Athletics

In The Editor:

The students of Baruch have the opportunity to see our teams develop for a third year running. The Baruch College Athletic department has received a $10,000 increase in the athletic budget for the coming year. The additional funding will allow for improvements in the athletic facilities and equipment. This will enable our teams to purchase much needed equipment to help maintain the current level of equipment. The increased budget will also allow for the replacement of worn-out equipment.

Baruch College has two very highly qualified coaches. Mr. Michael Laskinsky, head coach of the women's basketball team, and Mr. Arthur Slade, head coach of the men's basketball team, have both been very successful in their respective programs. They have led their teams to many victories and have brought great pride to Baruch College.

When they first told me I didn't quite believe it because I was an undergrad. I didn't want to believe it. I thought it was a prank. I didn't know what to think. I was, like, I can't believe this. It was so surprising. I was shocked. I was like, I can't believe this. I can't believe it. I can't believe it. It was just an incredible feeling. I was so happy. I was so excited. I was so happy.

Reagan Administration Vs. Nicaragua: The Conflict Continues

EUSTACE FRANCIS

Men rarely succeed; politicians rarely succeed; one reason is that they are both prone to take umbrage. The current conflict between the United States and Nicaragua is therefore not only an attempt to halt Soviet and communist expansion, but a clash between the principle of freedom and the principle of U.S. national security.

As with many political conflicts, the origins of this conflict date back to the mid-20th century, when the United States and the Soviet Union were locked in a Cold War struggle. The conflict between the United States and Nicaragua has its roots in the struggle between the two superpowers, and the way in which they sought to influence the outcomes of events in the Western Hemisphere.

The first conflict between the United States and Nicaragua was the Sandinista revolution in 1979, which overthrew the Sandista government and established a Marxist-Leninist regime in Nicaragua. The United States, concerned about the spread of communism in the Western Hemisphere, began to provide financial and military support to the Contras, a group of anti-Sandinista rebels. This support was seen as a way to undermine the Sandinista government and prevent the spread of communism in Central America.

The second conflict between the United States and Nicaragua was the Sandinista government's support for a civil war in El Salvador. The Sandinistas provided weapons and training to the FMLN, a guerrilla group fighting against the government of El Salvador. This support was seen as a way to destabilize the government of El Salvador and extend the reach of the Sandinista government in the region.

The third conflict between the United States and Nicaragua was the Sandinista government's strategy of support for terrorism in the region. The Sandinistas provided financial and logistical support to terrorist groups in Central America, including the PFLP, a group dedicated to the destruction of Israel. This support was seen as a way to sow fear and confusion in the region and weaken the resolve of the United States and its allies.

The fourth conflict between the United States and Nicaragua was the Sandinista government's support for the Sandinista National Liberation Army (SNLA), a paramilitary group that carried out attacks against the United States and its allies. This support was seen as a way to undermine the United States and its allies in the region and strengthen the Sandinista government's hold on power.

The fifth conflict between the United States and Nicaragua was the Sandinista government's strategy of support for global communism. The Sandinistas supported communist movements around the world, including the Chinese and Vietnamese communists. This support was seen as a way to spread communism and weaken the United States and its allies.

The sixth conflict between the United States and Nicaragua was the Sandinista government's strategy of support for terrorism in the region. The Sandinistas provided financial and logistical support to terrorist groups in Central America, including the PFLP, a group dedicated to the destruction of Israel. This support was seen as a way to sow fear and confusion in the region and weaken the resolve of the United States and its allies.

The seventh conflict between the United States and Nicaragua was the Sandinista government's strategy of support for the Sandinista National Liberation Army (SNLA), a paramilitary group that carried out attacks against the United States and its allies. This support was seen as a way to undermine the United States and its allies in the region and strengthen the Sandinista government's hold on power.

The eighth conflict between the United States and Nicaragua was the Sandinista government's strategy of support for global communism. The Sandinistas supported communist movements around the world, including the Chinese and Vietnamese communists. This support was seen as a way to spread communism and weaken the United States and its allies.

Alumni Over $120,000

By JOSE GREGO

Phoenicia, N.Y. - Pledges from the Class of 1978-1982 exceeded $120,000 for the Baruch College Alumni Pledge Drive. The alumni goal was set at $100,000.

The money raised subsidizes financial aid for students and helps develop new programs. The college recently received a $25,000 grant for a new computer science program and a $10,000 grant for a new business program.

Believe It or Not!

To the dismay of executives of CIBA-GEIGY, two men were arrested for making a drug company in Switzerland. The men were arrested after producing a counterfeit version of the drug Aminophyllin, which is used to treat asthma.

Two and two women bring to the world's population of 5 billion, a side effect of taking the drug. Aminophyllin is a respiratory depressant, and if taken at high doses, can be fatal.

The reaction of the alumni to the news was mixed. "I'm not surprised," said one alumni, "it's the same story every year." "I'm shocked," said another alumni, "I never thought it would happen to our college."
Relax . . . Don’t Do It

By Karen Shareky

Imagine, if you are a smoker, awak­ening in the middle of the night to find your pack of cigarettes gone. Feeling the urge to smoke your first butt of the day, you reach for your pack, realizing it is empty. You quickly light up and inhale, finding relief and comfort in the familiar taste.

The experimental group will get a new type of smoke-reduction technique. “The idea is to teach them something how to relax very effectively,” Albright said. “Part of the relaxation training is to get them to see very great images.” He used the example that if you imagine your hands are warm, they’ll eventually get warmer. “The idea is to get them to feel something physically or to be able to imagine. We will have them imagine all of the steps involved in smoking a cigarette,” he said, opening a pack of cigarettes to smoking the smoke from their lungs.

“The idea is to help them to reduce their smoking. If you imagine something vividly, you have biochemical events that are related to it. So, why not be able to imagine yourself smoking a cigarette vividly enough so that you don’t want to do it. Why not be able to imagine something that you really want to do? Why not be able to imagine something that you really want to do?”

Albright and his associates will also show the negative consequences which result from smoking the cigarette.

A POST HYPNOTIC SUGGESTION

By JONIE GRECO

Two people Who participated in stage had been hypnotized. The hypnotist, a man, began with a small audience and moved on to the induction of hypnosis. He said, "The art of hypnosis is not mysterious. I am your friend."

A drumbeat silence covered the audience. The hypnotist was said to be able to hypnotize anyone seared by Weber. "Close your eyes and think of your home, and you will be on your way."

The relaxation spread upward, from knees to feet. The hypnotist told the participants to open their eyes and continue through the next four layers of relaxation. The hypnotist said they could actually feel the blood go to their various parts of the body. He asked the audience to relax their bodies and let them go.

"There is nothing mystical or magical about hypnosis."

The hypnotist continued by saying, "Hypnosis is a state of heightened suggestibility. It is not a state of altered consciousness. It is a state of heightened awareness and control."

The hypnotist led the audience through a series of suggestions. The participants were instructed to picture the ocean, the mountains, and the desert. They were told to imagine themselves in a peaceful setting, and to hear the sound of the waves, the rustling of the leaves, and the gentle breeze. The hypnotist instructed the audience to imagine themselves in a place of their choice, and to feel the warmth of the sun on their skin.

The hypnotist then asked the audience to open their eyes and return to reality. He said, "You are nowwidth your eyes and think of your home, and you will be on your way."

College is more than buildings and books. It's really all about your goals and dreams. Come to The New School Senior College where our educational advisers will help you explore your options. Together you can create your Bachelor's degree program that recognizes who you are and what you love to do.

If you need to diversify your major, or to expand your career options, we offer more than 700 courses through The New School Radio. If you want to concentrate and succeed in your studies, we offer combined Bachelor's/Master's degrees.

In 1999, The New School was founded America's first university for adults. The Senior College was established in 1994. Our first undergraduate program, the Bachelor of Arts, quickly became a popular choice for students who were looking to complete their degrees. In 1996, the Bachelor of Arts was launched through the New School for Social Research.

The New School for Social Research is an educational institution that offers a wide range of courses and degree programs. We have a diverse student body with students from all over the world. Our courses are designed to meet the needs of students who are looking for change, who don't want to fit into a traditional mold, and who are interested in exploring new ideas.

At The New School, we are dedicated to providing a unique educational experience. Our focus is on creating a stimulating and supportive learning environment where students are encouraged to think critically, to explore new ideas, and to engage with the world around them.

The New School is a community of learners who are committed to making a difference in the world. Our students are leaders in their fields, and our faculty are experts in their respective disciplines. Together, we work to create a world that is more just, more equitable, and more sustainable.

SOME PHONATHON '86 FACTS:

-A total of 70 people worked at the Phonathon.
-The areas phoned ranged from Puerto Rico to Hawaii.
-Of the 70 alumni called, 30,000 alumni were called, some of whom graduated as late as 1910.
-Last year the Phonathon raised $120,000.
-According to Rowland, "We expect Phonathon '86 to exceed this amount."
-Some single pledges were as high as $1,000 and as low as $0.00.
-One Phonathoner tried to obtain a pledge from the city morgue.
-One Phonathoner was asked out to dinner three times and was offered a job.

The purpose of the Baruch College Phonathon is to raise money to support such school activities and programs as scholarships, sporting events, exhibits, concerts and Dollars and Sense. For twelve nights each year, Baruch students, faculty, staff and alumni join forces to call on alumni to raise pledges. In addition to manning the phones, there are several other jobs performed including mailing out pledge cards, tallying the incoming pledges and making provisions for dinner. Besides raising funds for the school, the Phonathon serves as an opportunity for students and faculty to become acquainted with each other and to familiarize themselves further with Baruch. The Phonathon is considered a community service and those who work at least eight nights receive $4.00 per hour. Above all, the Phonathon is a lot of fun!

Although the true tally will not be known until all the pledges are in, according to Rowland, "people are responding well."

The success of Phonathon '86 is also due to many people who worked behind the scenes on the administration of this annual event. Notably, every evening, a member of the Office of College Relations staff helped with the work involved and provided much support for the event. Particular thanks must go to Ms. Shirley Curtis who arranged the meals for all twelve evenings. Each evening's meal was accompanied by soda, juice and assorted cookies, fruits and candies. Ms. Sheryl Miller was responsible for supplying these important energy food items. Throughout the event, faculty, staff, Baruch College Trustees, Officers of the Alumni Association and Ms. Barbara Kent, worked hard to help us reach our goals.

Falco - Falco (1981 & New Records)

Remember the hit "The Flame of Love" done a couple of years ago by the band After The Fox? Well, just one of the sidemen of that group is now working as an independent duo called "The Flamingo" and has now come up with an interesting follow-up to his earlier success. "The Flame of Love" was a commercial hit, and the follow-up "The Flame of Love: Part Two" is even more so.

The new album is produced by the legendary Paul Hardcastle and features a more mature sound for the group. The album opens with a strong lead single for "The Flame of Love: Part Two," which features a catchy melody and a hard-driving rhythm. The album continues with a series of songs that showcase the band's versatility and range.

"The Flame of Love: Part Two" is available now at your local record store. Don't miss out on this exciting new release by the indie duo "The Flamingo".

Like Father, Like Son

Various Artists - Bad Boy Soundtrack (Columbia)

I'm not a real big fan of soundtracks, but here we go. "Bad Boy," was the original soundtrack to the hit movie "Bad Boys." The movie was a huge commercial success and the soundtrack, which featured a mix of hip-hop and R&B tracks, was also a huge hit.

The album opens with a strong lead single for "Bad Boys," which features a club-friendly beat and catchy hooks. The rest of the album features a mix of tracks that are more laid-back and soulful, with artists like Mary J. Blige, P. Diddy, and 2Pac contributing their talents.

Despite being a soundtrack, "Bad Boys" is a solid album in its own right. If you're a fan of hip-hop or R&B, this is definitely an album you should check out.

Sunsplash '86

By JOHN RICHARDS

In recent years, reggae's popularity in the United States has soared to new heights, and this trend is now spreading to Europe. Over the course of just a decade, reggae has evolved from a niche music of largely Caribbean and African American communities to a global phenomenon that has captured the imaginations of people worldwide. In this context, the annual Sunsplash festival in Jamaica has become a key event for reggae enthusiasts, offering a glimpse into the vibrant world of this beloved genre.

The Cocteau Rep Welcomes the Uninvited Guests

By VICKI BORRELL

Due to an overzealous managing director, a scheduled rehearsal of Pirandello's play, L'Antimateria, at the Brooklin Studio was turned into an open rehearsal. The actors were not impressed. The next day, the director was suspended and the managing director was fired. However, the actors and director responded with a creative and innovative approach to the production. Pirandello's play, set in a world where reality and illusion are blurred, provides a unique opportunity for the actors and director to explore the boundaries of theatre.

Dandelions Are Yellow

By NEERAJ KALRA

In a press conference held after the screening of *Henry", Neeraj Kalra, the co-director of the film, said that the movie is "a slice of life that is very close to my heart, and I think it will touch many people the world over." The film, which explores the relationship between a middle-class couple, has received mixed reviews, with some critics praising its low-key, understated storytelling and others criticizing its lack of emotional depth. Nevertheless, the movie has sparked a renewed interest in the genre of romantic comedy.

Fierceness.

As a result of spending endless hours in their studio, King Flux has become an extremely tight band. Their performance intensity is such that one can literally feel the heat off the stage. The music is rich with a lead guitar that booms and a bass that pulses. The rhythm section is tight, and the vocals are powerful. The group's sound is a perfect blend of raw energy and technical skill.

King Flux members have been on the road for about two years now. They have played at numerous venues, including Studio 54 and L'Amour's. Since their February 1985 debut, they have built a strong following.

Their intro is textbook Stotts. And that is the essence of King Flux—fierceness, and the killer cut is at the end of the side.

ANGRY AS HE'S EVER BEEN

The Cat - Rave Review (Eire Record)

The Cat, a British hard rock band from the early 1970s, has just released a new album. The Cat is best known for their hit single "Rock on," which was released in 1977.

The new album, "Angry As He's Ever Been," features guest performers including Peter Gabriel and Genesis. The album was produced by Jim Kerr, who is also a member of the group.

The Cat's lead singer, Jim Kerr, said of the new album, "We wanted to make something that sounds like a love song. But you know what? There's still all that rock in us."

The Cat's music has been described as a mix of rock and roll, punk, and new wave. The album features guest appearances by Peter Gabriel and Genesis.

The Cat's next tour will take them to Europe, Asia, and South America. The group has also announced plans to release a new single in the near future.
