DEAN OF STUDENTS RESIGNS

BY NEERAJ VOHRA

Baruch College students, faculty and staff members are now required to have identification cards "Visible at all times during the working day," according to a letter addressed to the Baruch community from Joel Segall, president of Baruch College.

"That was a decision by the president in response to the assault that took place in the 24th Street building," (see accompanying story) said Robert Georgia, acting dean of students.

Segall is on vacation and could not be reached for comment. According to Segall’s letter, anybody without a visible ID will be stopped by the security guards.

According to Joe Vicenti, assistant director of security at Baruch, "If a person can’t prove they have a right to be in the building, they will not be admitted." He added that students who, for any reason, do not have any reason will be allowed admittance if their identity can be proved. He said that after September 4th, all buildings should have a complete roster of registered students that security guards will have access to.

The sexual assault of Aug. 4 has also resulted in an increase in the number of guards patrolling Baruch buildings. According to David O. Green, vice president for administration, Baruch has contracted for 10 additional security guards. According to Vicenti, the total number of guards is now 49.

A Baruch College staff worker was sexually assaulted in the fifth floor staff bathroom at 155 E 24th St. on August 4th, according to Louis Llanes, a New York Police Department officer with the Public Information Division. The 39-year-old white female was "raped, robbed and sodomized" at knife-point, said Llanes. The crime took place at 5:30 in the afternoon.

Baruch Security and administration personnel, as well as Llanes, cited "the nature of the crime" as reason to withhold the identity of the victim.

According to Llanes, the assailant was "an unidentified black male in his 30's." The victim was "not hurt in any other way – she didn’t require hospitalization," said Stephen Wertheimer, Baruch College vice president for development.

"Investigations, to the best of my knowledge, are still under way, but there have been no arrests or suspects, and personally, I don’t think that they are going to arrest anybody," he added.

According to Wertheimer, the assailant left very few clues. Both Wertheimer and Paul LeClerc, the

Georgia On Our Minds

As reported in this issue of The Ticker, there's a new sheriff in town. More precisely, Dr. Robert Wester Georgia is the new acting dean of students replacing Dr. Henry Wilson Jr., who resigned as of June 30. This move can only be seen as a positive one for Baruch students.

In viewing the two men and how they treat and relate to students, it's obvious that there is a stark contrast. During his time as dean of students, Wilson often seemed as if he were the enemy of the students. Instead of being an advocate for students, he more often than not seemed to thwart their initiatives. The Ticker knows this from first-hand experience, as Wilson very rarely returned our calls. Obviously, Wilson owed some allegiance to the administration considering they had ultimate power over him, but unfortunately he took it to the extreme.

Georgia, however, is a different breed. In our dealings with him, Georgia seems to actually like talking to students and makes them feel welcome and comfortable. It appears that the students will have more of an advocate than they did with Wilson. Students will find that calling or visiting Georgia is not that difficult, while doing the same with Wilson was like pulling teeth.

It is obviously too early to predict how Georgia will fare this year, but we are hoping for the best and expect nothing less. Georgia's appointment is only for one year, until a permanent dean of students is found. Georgia has indicated that he will throw his hat in the ring for that search. For now, however, let's all be happy that Georgia's the man with the badge.

LETTERS

How Swede It Isn't

To The Editor: In an article published at Baruch College, the E.S.O.A. newsletter, which reports on both the symptomology of diabetes among students and also about the occurrences of various symptoms, no mention was made of the fact that a response would come in the form of a newsletter.

This is important to note since many people with diabetes are unaware of the symptoms that they may encounter. As a result, it is crucial that all individuals who have diabetes be aware of these symptoms so that they can take the necessary steps to manage their condition.

In this instance, the newsletter failed to provide this information. This is a clear example of how important it is to communicate with people who have diabetes and ensure that they are aware of the symptoms that may be present.

Letter From The President

The following letter was written by President Joel Segal and distributed to the Baruch community on behalf of the President.

There was a sexual assault in the red zone at our 24-hour building on Monday, August 4, which is disturbing. The administration is working closely with the police to ensure the safety of all students.

We are taking the following steps to protect the campus:

1. An increased number of security officers will be visible all over campus. Security guards will patrol in pairs.

2. Additional security officers will be added to the security of our buildings.

3. We will be reviewing our emergency procedures.

In addition, we suggest that all students keep their belongings safe and secure.

The Ticker would like to thank the police for their quick response and support.

TICKER CROSSWORD

Quotation of the Fortnight

"Investigations, to the best of my knowledge, are still underway, but there have been no arrests or suspects, and, personally, I don't think that they are going to arrest anyone."

Stephen Wertheimer, Baruch vice president for development and community relations, was quoted as saying that there was no evidence of a College staff worker.

Suspects have been identified in the disappearance of two women. The women were last seen leaving a local restaurant on May 15. Police believe that they may have been abducted and are searching for them.

There are many people who are still in contact with the women. We encourage anyone who has information about their whereabouts to come forward.

The program has become a model for law enforcement agencies across the country. The success of the investigation can be attributed to the efforts of the police department and the local community. We commend them on their work.

That's because there are better than 2500 software packages available for them - more than for any other calculator. There's even a special plug-in software package (we call it the Advantage Module) that's designed to handle the specific problems an engineering student has to solve in his or her course work.

No wonder professionals in engineering and the physical sciences widely regard HP calculators as the best you can get. So check one out. Then, when your mother calls to ask if you're getting enough sleep, you won't have to lie.

There's A New Sheriff In Town

By John Greco

e June 30th, 1990, Dean Henry Wilson resigned from his position as Dean of Students. Taking the reins as Acting Dean of Students is Dr. Georgia.

Dr. Georgia is 40 years old, born on the west side of Manhattan and has been in Jersey City. He is married with children. He received his B.A. from Rutgers and went on to get his master's in Social Work from the New York School for Social Research. He married his Ph.D in religion education from NYU.

Dr. Georgia has plans for future services at Baruch.

He began working at Baruch in 1974 as the coordinator of Veteran's Affairs with such clients as administering the GI Bill for veterans and dependents, and counseling veterans at the college. Later he became the Assistant Director of the Veterans and Graduate Students Services and 1982.

Dr. Georgia left Public Service to be a trainer for the management of the NYC Human Resources Administration. In September 1985 he returned to Baruch as assistant director of student activities. In 1987 he became Baruch’s first director of student activities. At the end of April 1988, a new batch of students will arrive at Baruch and Dr. Georgia will be their new boss.

Dr. Georgia specializes in cooperative education. This explains his interest in cross cultural interaction. "Learning about people from different cultures, I say, "is a broadening experience . . ." Dr. Georgia, to intensify and broaden his understanding and to become a better leader.

He has many plans, ideas and hopes for the future. For one, he plans to continue his work with other college offices such as orientation program, financial aid, and counseling services, etc. He is looking for new interest and activities to show the students what the college can offer them.

Another service which holds a particular interest to Dr. Georgia because of its cross cultural involvement is the student activities program. This program serves as a forum for students, "Other cultures would give their experiences to the students.

Dr. Georgia has plans for future services at Baruch. A peer support program is services in the world "(wherebodybuilders)" would be arranged with other college offices such as orientation program, financial aid, and counseling services, etc. Dr. Georgia also plans to arrange" (wherebodybuilders) "the benefits of the program. It would be beneficial to the students to learn about different cultures and their experiences with other students.

"It is a broadening experience . . ." You learn to understand yourself and your own culture a lot better.

This service, as well as others, is in cooperation with other college offices such as orientation program, financial aid, and counseling services, etc. It is a way to introduce students to a different level of life and culture.

Charles Petrich, competitive bodybuilder, is entering the national Motor Racing Association (N.M.R.A.) on the 23rd and showed Baruch what muscle power in all areas. Baruch's drives, stretches, and poses will be the real deal. Start, stop, and start again. Muscle power and force is seen on the image of the barbell as opposed to barbell for quick results.

During May, an episode on Discovery, she demonstrated the proper way to exercise barbell cage. She positioned herself correctly. Your knees have to be in the proper position. Your back should be straight and firm. Your arms must be at your sides and your arms must be a straight line. Your knees must be in the proper position. Your hands must be in the proper position. Your body must be in the proper position. Your feet must be in the proper position.

The episode was co-sponsored by Puerto Rico, the government's bodybuilding company, its product or service, its goals, and forming that illusion of power. This company provides prize money.

"Always money, always power, always energy," said that Charles made the best of her words, "The best way to return to Baruch for a full performance."

When he goes to be the winner, Charles said the world will not take any money for the performance. She said she did it out of the world at the beginning. There were also doors that people received as they entered the auditorium. Such gifts were T-shirts, posters, and book promotions. The grand prize, a few days at the gym, was randomly awarded to Michael T. Georgia.

The name of the game of weight lifting is making your body according to what you want and forming that illusion of power. Lifting weights and building muscles is anything but a game to competitive bodybuilder Charles Petrich.

Charles works out at Better Bodies gym in the morning. He has a bad habit of working out his leg muscles.

He works out his thighs, arms, and back. He has an off season and an on season. Off season he works out four times a week and on season he works out five times a week.

On season she works out seven times a week twice a day.

She is a competitive bodybuilder between the world of competitive and non-competitive bodybuilders. When working out for a competition she has a trainer. On her "off season," she designs her own exercise. Shes been working out for 6 years. She has an off season and an on season.

The Department of Physical Fitness and Recreation Programs has various physical fitness and health education programs. There are intramural programs as well. Says lecturer of physical fitness Howard Engel, "We offer the students a varied program. There are intramural programs that supplement the classwork." Engel adds, "It's always amazing to me...so many students don't know the pool or weight room or tennis court." These recreation programs are open to all students.

The transition from high school to college can sometimes be difficult. Baruch has a large student body that could seem overwhelming to an entering freshman. Making friends, knowing what classes to take, and adjusting to the general way of college life might be frustrating to some. But don't fret, Baruch offers many various programs. Some programs are:

- a peer counseling service, medical office, physical fitness and recreation programs, counseling and testing programs, veterans affairs office, and many, many student clubs and organizations. A list of student clubs can be obtained at the Student Center, 137 E. 22nd St.
- a tutoring service specialized in seeing freshmen towards career goals. Freshmen as well as any other may speak to a staff member about any problem or question they have. All services are free and confidential. Room 1735, PAS, 725-4458.
- Helpline is a peer counseling service composed of Baruch students. In addition to peer counseling, a housing service is open to all students who want an apartment or a roommate. Although there is no official tutoring program, Helpline's trained staff is there to lend a helping hand. Room 516, 46 E. 26th Street, 725-4177.

A medical office is open to all students. Whether it's first aid or a routine examination, services are offered free of charge. The office performs examinations for individual needs or for entrance to athletic teams. Medical forms, first aid, small fractures, incision and drainage of infections, treatment of lacerations, plastic surgery consultations, and breast examinations are some of the services provided. A student will be taken to Cabrini Medical Center in a serious emergency. Room 308, 17 Lexington Ave., 725-3943.

Veterans and children of veterans should be interested in the Veteran's Affairs Office. The office can arrange funding for tutoring, assist veterans in school enrollment, and aid in the completion of paperwork. Short-term loans to purchase textbooks can be arranged. Tuition deferrals can be provided until benefit checks are received and any student who is the child of a veteran who was disabled or killed in the line of duty might be entitled to free tuition. Room 1701, PAS, 725-7282.

The office of Counseling and Testing specializes in seeing freshmen towards career goals. Freshmen as well as any other may speak to a staff member about any problem or question they have. All services are free and confidential. Room 1735, PAS, 725-4458.

ART NEWS

A Guide to Art in New York City

by Deborah L. Rolston

Way back at the turn of the century, a group of artists including Berenson and Walck made efforts to bring the field of art to the public. This was a revolutionary thought at the time. Today, we see an increasing number of people interested in art, and it is becoming more and more popular. The growth of art in New York City is not only due to the artists themselves, but also to the galleries and institutions that support them. The goal is to create a place where everyone can enjoy and appreciate art.

New York City has been home to many famous artists, including Monet, Van Gogh, and Picasso. The city is known for its diverse art scene, with everything from contemporary art to classical art. There are also many museums dedicated to showcasing art from around the world. These museums are a great place to learn about the history of art and explore different styles and cultures.

The Museum of Modern Art (MoMA) is one of the most popular museums in New York City. It is located in the Flatiron District and features exhibits on modern and contemporary art. The museum is known for its extensive collection of paintings, sculptures, and photographs. The museum also hosts changing exhibitions and events throughout the year.

Another popular museum is the Metropolitan Museum of Art (Met). The Met is located in Central Park and is one of the most visited art museums in the world. The museum is known for its large collection of artworks from all over the world, including paintings, sculptures, and decorative arts.

If you are interested in learning more about the history of art, then you should visit the Museum of the City of New York. The museum is located in Midtown Manhattan and features exhibits on the history of New York City, from its early days as a colonial settlement to its modern status as a global city.

New York City is home to many other great museums, including the Guggenheim Museum, the Whitney Museum of American Art, and the Jewish Museum. Each of these museums offers a unique perspective on the art and culture of New York City.

In conclusion, New York City is a great place to explore art and culture. From the famous museums to the galleries and street art, there is something for everyone in this vibrant city. Whether you are an art lover or just someone who is interested in learning more about the history of art, New York City is the perfect destination for you.
The dog days of summer lend themselves to the usual endless days of sun and fun. The latter activity is what I did often this summer and luckily it enabled me to be entertained by some very fine motion pictures. In the following pages I shall related some of the best films of 1986. This became possible because most moviegoers got used to the fact that the classics are still around. I, for one, appreciate the ability to walk into a theater and see a film that is worth seeing. It is a great way to relax and enjoy the many laughs. The chemistry between Redford and Winger is electrifying and anyone who saw this film had to be impressed. Redford and Winger are two of the best actors in the business.
