School of Education Reorganized

By ANDREA E. BENT

Baruch College has established a newly organized School of Education and Educational Services by administratively grouping the Baruch College Library, the Department of Compensatory Programs, the Department of Student Personnel Services, the Continuing Education Program, and the Counseling and Testing Program. The move to incorporate these programs into the School of Education was first discussed in 1984, and Provost Paul LeClerc said the decision for the move was approved by the Board of Trustees in the spring of this year and that the respective departments knew about the change before the summer break.

According to LeClerc, the proposal to form the newly organized school was initiated by the Department of Education. The problem we faced was that Baruch had two giant schools and one tiny school. We wanted the Department of Education to be a real school. A department that has compatible missions and can share the same kind of concerns as the other schools.

Before the change, the Baruch College Library, the Department of Compensatory Program, and the Department of Student Personnel Services were administratively located in Baruch's School of Liberal Arts and Sciences. According to Martin Stevens, dean of the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the purpose of the change was twofold: "It will give the School of Education a larger constituency which is desirable and need if it is to be of equal weight as the other schools, and the School of Education should be involved with educational services such as the library and Student Personnel Services.

Stevens said it was conceivable that some people in the departments might have preferred to remain with the School of Liberal Arts. Some departments, he said, wanted to stay because they feel they are more directly related to the School of Liberal Arts and Sciences," he said.

Previously, the School of Education consisted of two departments and 28 faculty members. Now, there are five departments, 87 faculty members, and one unit.

Patricia M. Kay, who was appointed acting dean of the new School of Education and Educational Services in July, said that one of the factors influencing the change was the increasing attention on education across the country. "We will see in a few years more students developing interest in education as a course of study," she said. According to Kay, there has already been recruitment in conjunction with the Department of Education. She said that incoming freshmen who were given a form to fill out check off a box which indicated that they were interested in the School of Education.

"A committee has been put together to address transfer students about the benefits of the new School of Education and Educational Services," said Kay. She said the change would help serve students better and that the school would have more input into instructional programs.

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 1)
Give Us Some Competition

Better Safe than Sorry

To The Editor:

I am one of the many Baruch students who are fed up with the constant threat of violence on our campus. The 26th street attack, and all the other attacks that are so prevalent on our campus, are becoming a way of life. Baruch should not be a place where this is happening. I think it is important that we do something to make our campus safer.

I imagine that the woman who was assaulted must have walked into the women's bathroom, and saw the black fingernail dust all over the walls. They must have walked into the same bathroom twice or three times, finding the same thing. They must have walked into the same bathroom a few more times with other women. They must have been scared, and the next time they walked into the bathroom, they must have been more scared. They must have been scared until they were able to find a friend who was there. She, too, was alone.

The Reporter, the nation's oldest evening school newspaper will again attend student organizations during the semester. But because it's been two years since it was published fortnightly, its tentative publication schedule comes as no surprise. The real scoop is that The Reporter is only an evening newspaper in name. But it is our hope that The Reporter will grow and become stronger. Unfortunately, if the last two years are any indication, The Reporter has as much chance of succeeding as it does of failing.

Two possible solutions seem obvious to us. Either stop the circulate of The Reporter being an evening newspaper, thereby allowing recruit- ment of more daytime students, or, merge The Reporter with The Ticker (for precedent) so that it be set in the late seventeenth when The Sentry merged with The Ticker, thereby making The Ticker stronger. Either option would put an end to The Reporter's language existence, and provide the Baruch community, both day and evening, with better news coverage.

The Lasher Michael Lashinsky

Painting An Ugly Picture

The Ticker was recently awarded to the Editors of The Ticker and three high-backed chairs at Baruch College. It is to be expected that the editors would be happy to have such an award, and God knows how many others among the student body have also been honored. The Ticker is a publication of the student government, and it is understandable that the editors should have been pleased with their award. The Ticker is a publication of the student government, and it is understandable that the editors should have been pleased with their award.

The Ticker's chief purpose is to provide news and information to the Baruch student body. It is not the responsibility of the editors to decide what should and should not be printed. The editors are responsible for the content of their publication, and they should be permitted to make their own decisions about what should be printed.

The Ticker is a publication of the student government, and it is understandable that the editors should have been pleased with their award. The Ticker is a publication of the student government, and it is understandable that the editors should have been pleased with their award.

TICKER TAKES

NEWS

CAREER DAY FALL '86

Club members get hooked on the Fall Career Day previ- ous school year, the senior One of the most popular events is the career day. The scholarship award is given to the top three students who can answer the most questions correctly.

M.B.A. PROGRAM

The College of Education has introduced the M.B.A. program to meet the needs of students interested in obtaining a master's degree in business administration. The program is designed to provide a comprehensive understanding of business principles and practices.

School of Education

(Continued from Page 4)

(Continued from Page 6)

NEWS

CAMPUS CAPER

Witch Course Was That?

Practices and of Paganism: If the name of the course doesn't pique your curiosity, then perhaps the instructor will. Elizabeth Schacht, a professor of Religious Studies, will be teaching the course. The course will focus on the history and traditions of witchcraft and Paganism.

Exposure Delays

Teen-age girls who know the facts of life and have access to birth control are far less likely to get pregnant than girls who have no knowledge of these facts. This is because they are more likely to use contraceptives and are more likely to use them correctly.

B.A.'s

A survey of 1979's liberal arts grad found that 90% satisfied with their choice of major. The survey also found that 75% of the respondents were interested in a career in government.

Ultimate Field Trip

A weekend behind bars is being required of all undergraduates at the New York State University System. The prison will be open to students on a rotating basis, allowing each student to experience the daily life of an inmate.

Pay for An "A"

A former U. of Southern Californian, 60% of the students surveyed and practicing is a "specifi- cally problem." Only 48% of the students felt that the course was challenging enough to be considered successful.

Mr. Umit Herguener, SPECIAL COUNSEL TO REID AND PRIEST ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

WILL DELIVER AN INTERNATIONAL ADDRESS ON:

"U.S.-TURKEY BILATERAL AGREEMENTS ON TEXTILES AND STEEL"

THURSDAY OCT. 9TH, 1986 DURING CLUB HOURS

GLOBUS LOUNGE, 17TH FL. 26TH ST.

ALL WERE AWESOME
NEWS

The Reporter Faces Staffing Problems

By Michael Bigger

The Reporter, the nation's oldest evening school newspaper, will be published only three times this semester, according to Tim Guidera, editor-in-chief. The newspaper, which once was published daily, is entering its 100th year, has been on campus since 1916, and is "not our design," to default that "we're going to have to change," said Guidera.

Nearly a year ago, The Ticker reported (Dec. 13, 1985) that the ESSA board, under the leadership of President Murphy and with the advice of student Senate, had decided that the ESSA would have to cut the budget for each club between $2,500 and $4,000, and that students would have to make "a choice" of how to spend the money. Each club's interim budget was approved by the Finance and Budget Committee.

Since then, the ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.

The Reporter is a student-run newspaper that is funded by the ESSA. The ESSA provides funding for the newspaper, and the newspaper is responsible for managing the funds. The ESSA has seen a significant increase in membership, and the number of clubs has doubled. However, the ESSA has not seen any increase in funding. The ESSA has been "decimated" by the loss of funding, said Guidera, and the newspaper has been "bleeding." The ESSA has been "bleeding" because of insufficient funds and lack of student participation. The problem of insufficient funds has been created, however, through the cooperation of the board of education.
WE WANT YOU

We are your Student Government and we’re here to work for you. Come and see what it’s all about.

PLACE

Room 409
22nd St. Building (Student Center)

TIME:

12:45-2:15 every Thursday

ALL ARE WELCOME!!!

No experience necessary!!!

September 30, 1986

The Ticker

The Price is Right — isn’t it?

By JOHN GRECO

Every student in college knows there are courses one must take in order to graduate. In this country, too many people think in order to get a degree in business, all one must do is study business courses. As soon as you graduate, you become a business major. But is this true? Is there anything else? The answer is yes. There are many different business majors that you can choose from, and the one that is right for you depends on your interests.

For a student majoring in accounting, the job market is vast. From the big four accounting firms to small CPA firms, the accounting field offers a wide range of opportunities. At the upper level, you can work in public accounting, focusing on financial statements and tax law. At the lower level, you can work in corporate accounting, dealing with financial reporting and internal controls.

For a student majoring in finance, the job market is even more diverse. From investment banking to asset management, finance majors can work in a variety of roles. At the upper level, you can work in investment banking, focusing on mergers and acquisitions. At the lower level, you can work in corporate finance, focusing on budgeting and cash flow management.

For a student majoring in marketing, the job market is vast. From advertising to sales, marketing majors can work in a variety of roles. At the upper level, you can work in advertising, focusing on brand building. At the lower level, you can work in sales, focusing on customer relationships.

The key is to choose a major that aligns with your interests and provides a solid foundation for your career. Don’t settle for a major just because it’s popular or easy. Choose a major that you are passionate about and that will prepare you for success.

The Ticker

The Student Connection

‘What’s Your Beef’ With Baruch!

By JOHN GRECO

Students always have complaints, whether it’s about the food or the way the system is run. Students often vent their frustration by passing around their “beef.”

We asked a few students what they thought about Baruch and here’s what they had to say:

“Baruch? What’s your beef?”

“Baruch is a great school, but it’s too big. The buildings are so far away from each other. There is no campus.”

“What’s your beef?”

“Baruch is a great school, but it’s too big. The buildings are so far away from each other. There is no campus.”

“Baruch is a great school, but it’s too big. The buildings are so far away from each other. There is no campus.”

“Baruch is a great school, but it’s too big. The buildings are so far away from each other. There is no campus.”
Excursion

a students story

By Joyce Cohen

A

I approached the EL AL office on Sep­­tember 5th, 1984. I needed to make the reserva­­tions for my flight to Tel Aviv. My flight was scheduled for September 30, 1984. I was planning to spend a month in Israel, and I wanted to make sure that all the arrangements were made in advance.

I arrived at the EL AL office and was greeted by the staff. They were very helpful, and they made the process of making the reservations very easy.

I needed to provide them with my passport information, and they gave me a ticket with all the necessary details. I also made sure to take a copy of the ticket and keep it with me at all times.

I felt like I was far away from civiliza­tion, New York, when I arrived in Israel. However, I found the people very friendly and hospitable. I was impressed by the level of service and the attention to detail.

I was staying with friends who lived in Jerusalem, and they took me around the city. I visited the old city and the Western Wall, which are two of the most important sites in Jerusalem.

I was also able to visit several museums and art galleries. I was impressed by the quality of the exhibits and the level of preservation.

I took part in several cultural events and activities, such as the Jerusalem Festival, which is held every year. I enjoyed the music, dance, and drama performances, which were very entertaining.

I learned a lot about the history and culture of Israel during my stay. I was able to witness the ongoing conflict between Israel and its neighbors, which is a very sensitive issue.

I also had the opportunity to visit the Occupied Territories, which is a very controversial issue. I was able to see the impact of the occupation on the people and the land.

I felt like I had an unforgettable experi­ence. I would recommend this trip to anyone who is interested in history, culture, and politics. I would certainly go back to Israel in the future.
If you like challenges, Irving Trust is where your ambitions may become reality.

It's people that set Irving Trust apart in the highly competitive banking world today. We serve the diverse financial needs of the largest corporations, governments, emerging companies and successful individuals worldwide.

And to meet tomorrow's even bigger challenges, we're looking for talented people who will learn to manage both traditional and innovative credit and noncredit services by merging creativity and spirit with professionalism and teamwork. While we're one of the largest banks in the U.S., we recognize and reward individual achievement.

We'll be on campus:

Thursday, October 23

See your career planning office for details.

An Equal Opportunity Employer m/f / h/v.
A lecture with a largish Humor in a "jugular vein"

By EVELYN LYN GELCH

Queen's students in the Freshman Forum Series, "From a Freshman's Viewpoint," heard Dr. Olan's presentation on "Music and Humor: The Comic Element in Classical Music." The event was held in the Great Hall of the newly constructed Student Center.

Dr. Olan discussed the relationship between music and humor, explaining that humor is a powerful tool for connecting with audiences and that classical music often incorporates elements of humor to engage listeners. He highlighted examples from various composers, such as Beethoven and Mozart, and discussed how their works contain humorous elements that add depth and interest to the music.

During the lecture, Dr. Olan shared personal anecdotes and stories about the composers he discussed, making the presentation engaging and accessible to the audience. He encouraged students to listen to classical music with a fresh perspective and to look for the humor within the compositions.

The lecture was well-received, with many students expressing their appreciation for the speaker's wit and the insights provided into the world of classical music. The event concluded with a lively Q&A session, where students had the opportunity to ask questions and engage in further discussion with Dr. Olan.

(Continued from page 11)
Frying Freud: Fifty Years Later

By STEVEN BAUM

Not for Kids Only!

By John Ricard

BARUCH COLLEGE SPEECH DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES AUDITIONS FOR ITS FALL PRODUCTION "THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST" - A COMEDY BY OSCAR WILDE

DATE: OCT. 1 AND 2
TIME: 5:30 - 7:30 PM
PLACE: ROOM 913 BLDG 233 WANTED: ACTORS, CREW FOR INFORMATION CALL 212-725-3184
Macan's Follies

By YICKI DRAKE

The Accidental Tourist, who LAST. WARNt.300 pages are exhausted.

Wants... WANTS to leave us curious when they are not more

NOT WANTS to leave us curious when they are not more

Muriel.3 -...:., •.

York, Berkeley Alfred A.

Moneypenny, have been kid-

We listen to her cannot-have children due to...
"I'm no chicken!"

"I'm gonna do it on October 28, 29, 30!"

The Foreign Trade Society

APPLICATIIONS INVITED FOR PROPOSED PROGRAM

The Foreign Trade Society is currently seeking students to participate in a proposed Practicum International Trade which would be offered in the Spring of 1987.

Students accepted into the Program would work under supervision either in private industry, cooperating agencies, trade associations, or research organizations. Students would be placed on a part-time basis as Interns in positions which would afford them opportunities to apply knowledge gained from their coursework in international business.

Applicants would be selected on the strength of their success in a balanced sequence of courses and aptitude for analytical work. Each intern would be required to prepare a term paper addressing a problem or other area of interest to the organization in which he or she is placed. This analysis, as well as demonstrated job accomplishment and attitude, would form the basis for evaluating the student. Interns would also meet once a week at the College for lectures and group discussions.

The Program, once approved, would be open to seniors and upper juniors majoring in International Marketing. However, consideration would also be given to students minoring in International Business. All applicants would have to obtain permission from the Department of Marketing before entering the Program.

Upon successful completion of the Practicum the Intern would receive 3 credits. These credits would not be counted as part of the student's 24 credit major (or 12 credit minor).

Interested students are encouraged to submit their applications as soon as possible. For application forms go directly to the Foreign Trade Society — Rm. 839, 26th Street — or to the Department of Marketing.
Travel to Vienna; Circa 1900

by deborah l. boland

Vienna, Austria, was the center of a particular artistic and architectural movement. Known as the Wiener Werkstätte (Vienna Workshop) founded in 1903, this group consisted of artists, designers, and architects. The movement was characterized by its emphasis on craftsmanship, functionalism, and the integration of art into everyday life. The Wiener Werkstätte's work reflected the influence of Art Nouveau, which emphasized natural forms and lines. Their designs were often inspired by the work of Gustav Klimt, who was a prominent member of the group. The exhibition includes a wide range of objects, from furniture and textiles to jewelry and metalwork, all of which demonstrate the aesthetic and technical achievements of this influential movement.

The exhibition is on view in seven different sections. You are first exposed to a comprehensive study of art, history, and society during the years between 1890 and 1914, which is the period of the Viennese Werkstätte's existence. The exhibition begins with an introduction to the Wiener Werkstätte and its impact on the arts and society. The first section examines the work of several artists and art groups that were important to the development of the Werkstätte. The second section focuses on the work of Gustav Klimt, who was a significant figure in the movement. The third section explores the work of Otto Wagner, who was a prominent architect and designer. The fourth section examines the work of Josef Hoffmann, who was another important member of the group. The fifth section looks at the work of Olga Polizzi and her husband, who were significant patrons of the Werkstätte. The sixth section examines the work of the Werkstätte's female artists and designers. The seventh and final section brings together the different work that characterized the Werkstätte, and includes a comprehensive study of the Werkstätte's impact on the arts and society.

Josef Hoffmann (1870-1956) was an architect and designer who was a central figure in the Werkstätte. His work was characterized by a focus on function and simplicity, and he used a variety of materials, including metal, glass, and wood. Hoffmann's work often included geometric shapes and patterns, and he was known for his use of the Arts and Crafts movement. Hoffmann's work had a significant influence on the Werkstätte, and he was a member of the group from its founding until his death in 1956.

The exhibition concludes with a look at the Werkstätte's impact on the arts and society. The Werkstätte had a significant influence on the development of modernism, and its work continues to inspire artists and designers today. The exhibition is a testament to the Werkstätte's legacy, and it provides a unique opportunity to explore the work of this influential movement.
Networking is the answer to not working.

Career Day
October 9, 1986
Administrative Center Lounge
135 East 22 Street
12:30 p.m. - 3:30 p.m.

Presentations:
“Careers in Finance”
Richard Abramson
Shareholder and Director, Pension Assets Advisors
Sanford C. Bernstein & Co., Inc.
1:00 p.m.

“Packaging Yourself for Success”
Judith Fishman
Manager, Recruiting and Development
Macy’s
1:30 p.m. and 3:00 p.m.

Fortune 500 Contest
Win 3 Great Prizes!
First Prize: Fortune Watch
Second Prize: Fortune Toy
Third Prize: Fortune Magazine (one copy, not a subscription!)
Bonus: Career Fortune Cookies and Beverages

Business Attire Required
Baruch College / CUNY
Sponsored by Career Planning and Placement
School of Business and Public Administration
360 Park Avenue South / Room 1711
212 / 725-3062