Baruch Neglects Health Codes

By Vanessa Witenko
News Editor

After three articles published in The Ticker regarding the unsanitary bathroom facilities at Baruch College, the issue was brought to the attention of Karl Schmid, assistant vice president of campus facilities and operations, and Bill Brunson, administration superintendent.

The two were introduced to the bathroom environment that most students deal with every day. A quick look into the women’s 14th floor bathroom in the 18th street building revealed a mess of paper towels on the floor, problems with hot water, missing door locks, and an odor emanating from the floor.

“This is unacceptable,” said Brunson. But a solution was not as easily forthcoming. “The 14th street and 360 PAS buildings are leased,” said Brunson. “It is the lessor’s responsibility to take care of the facilities.” Brunson agreed to speak to the lessor, but there is another aspect to the problem.

“There is only one janitor during the day at the 18th street building,” said Schmid. The school currently employs 54 custodians to take care of the 23rd street building and the Newman Library. Due to budget constraints and the lease agreement, hiring more custodians is unlikely.

Both the Board of Health and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration have recently been contacted, and a formal complaint has been filed. Section 1910.141(q)(2)(ii) of the OSHA code states: “Hand soap or similar cleansing agents shall be provided.” Section 1910.141(q)(2)(ii) says: “Each lavatory shall be provided with hot and cold running water, or rapid running water.”

Health Code states “A sufficient number of toilets shall be provided in the lavatories...toilets shall be properly flushed and trapped...they shall be adequately lighted and ventilated, kept in sanitary manner, and in good repair.”

Baruch College is violating these codes. The women’s bathroom on the 14th floor of 360 PAS does not have soap, and one of the toilets is out of order. The women’s bathroom on the 14th floor of the 18th street building does not have hot water and one of the sinks is completely unusable. These are only two specific examples of the OSHA and New York City Health Code violations.

“The conditions of the building and I think something should be done about it,” urged Vice President of Undergraduate Student Government Braulio Medina at last Tuesday’s USG general meeting. Medina and a female student conducted a sample survey of the school’s bathrooms in each building, and reported the dismal findings to the Senate. Baruch President Edward Regan, who happened to be unexpectedly sitting in on the meeting, stated that he had been unaware of the situation, but would now take immediate action to correct it.

See STUDENTS, Page 3

Students Receive Scholarships At Awards Dinner

By Weishi William Wang
Contribution Writer

On Sept. 21st, City College was host to the third annual CUNY University Student Senate Scholastic Merit Awards dinner. The USS, which oversees all CUNY college students governments, funded this scholarship awards. Two or three students were selected as award winners from each CUNY college. New York State Comptroller Carl McCall gave a speech to the award winners, which included two Baruch students: Moah Biswas and Rambil Cabelas, undergraduates and graduate students respectively.

Family members, college administrat­ive representatives—as well as officials from CUNY—came to observe the event.

To apply, the scholarship applicants had to include their transcript and three letters of recommendation from professors, administrators and/or employers. Extracurricular accomplishments as well as a 1,000 word essay were required. Half of the scholarship recipients had GPAs of at least 3.5 or higher, including some recipients who had perfect 4.0 GPAs. Mr. Shamsul Haque, Chair of the scholarships and USS Vice Chair of Fiscal Affairs, who read the appli­cants’ essays, declared that “it was a lot of reading...but I enjoyed it.” When asked whether he could recall a particularly notable student, Mr. Haque was unable to, except to say that all of them were exceptional students. “This is the best of CUNY.”

Mizanor R. Biswas, USS Chairman, agreed with Mr. Haque, who congratulated the students by saying “Along with the families, friends, peers, and administrators, I am very proud of your achievements in receiving the award.” Students were presented their awards and scholarship checks by Mizanor Biswas, Chairperson of USS, and see BARUCH, Page 3.

Health Center Focuses On Women’s Issues

By Iljana Matthew
Contributing Writer

During the month of October, the Baruch College Health Center will be doing its part to raise awareness among the student population for breast cancer and domestic violence.

The Health Center will also be working with the Counseling Center on the 17th floor of 300 PA to deal with issues of domestic violence, partic­ularly date and acquaintance rape. Both will be promoting discussion and awareness about this often highly sensitive crime.

According to the American Cancer Society, most women discover lumps in their breasts by conducting monthly breast self-examinations. It is also the best defense against the disease. Early symptoms are more often present and easier to detect.

Every three minutes a woman learns that she has breast cancer. In the United States, alone 182,800 will be diagnosed, and of those, 41,200 will die. These statistics (obtained from the American Cancer Society) are extremely alarming and there are some more astonishing statistics: The American Cancer Society has funded more than one billion dollars in breast cancer research over the last decade. Just last year the Breast Cancer Society (ACS) provided over sixteen million dollars for research grants in New York City alone. That is why the American Cancer Society is sponsoring the Making Strides Against Breast Cancer Walk on October 15th 2000. Baruch College and the Office of Student Life is urging the student population to get involved in the fight against this pro­fessional killer.

Baruch College has made a conscious effort for the breast cancer cause during the past three years. Carla LaSala of the Office of Student Life would like to continue to have 450 College students presence felt at the walk. The walk is a non-competitive five mile walk with the help to raise money for research.

“Last year there were about 200 members involved in the walk,” said LaSala of the Baruch students who participated on behalf of Team Baruch. She also mentions that some have returned to take part in the walk this year with the college. The ACS stresses that breast cancer is not solely a woman’s issue. It touches the See FOCUS, Page 3
Focus on Domestic Violence and Breast Cancer Awareness

Continued From Front

Students should not be afraid of taking this step," said Gaye Pasquale, a nurse. However, Pasquale said that the coordinator of SACC and coordinator of the workshops, "they already had the skills and this is a more formal opportunity to show CUNY what you've learned," she continued. SACC has prepared a series of workshops to help students get acclimated with the exam and give them an idea of what to look for when taking it. There were three workshops: half day and there will be three workshops scheduled for this weekend: Tuesday from 2pm to 4pm in the 16th floor of the 360 PAS building and Thursday from 12pm to 2pm.

The workshops are broken into three sections: the first section led by Pearson-Gay, and the second section led by the Coordinator of CPE. The second and third sections will focus on the writing and reading portions of the exam and will be led by staff from the Writing Center.

According to Pasquale, many students at the workshops have not been registered or encouraging, and students have taken 2 to 3 students in attendance over a period of two days in a room filled with about 100 people at any one time. The workshops are broken into three sections: the first section led by Pearson-Gay and the second section led by the Coordinator of CPE. The second and third sections will focus on the writing and reading portions of the exam and will be led by staff from the Writing Center.

Students' Complaints Fall on Deaf Ears

Continued From Front

Students may call Brown at (212) 802-2778 or 802-8203. The alternative is to write to the Baruch College Office of Students or Faculty wishing to make a complaint should fill out a request form found at the Baruch College website; address Brown. Students are two options for making a complaint.

Exam Workshops Taking Place This Week

Baruch Students Receive Scholarships

Continued from Front

One of the main benefits of this program is that students will be paid $3000, plus a chance to work in the community. The students who have been selected for this program are those who have shown a strong academic record and involvement in community service. The program will run from October 10 to 15.

Baruch Howard Student Advisory Board, Vice President of Student Affairs, is inviting applications for the 2001-2002 academic year. The Board, which is made up of 15 full-time students, meets once a month and advises the President on student issues. It is open to all students who are interested in participating in the Board's activities.

The Board is looking for students who are interested in helping with the planning and implementation of campus events. It is also seeking students who are interested in addressing issues such as academic standards, student life, and campus facilities.

The Board is particularly interested in students who are committed to improving the quality of student life on campus. It is open to all students, regardless of their major or background.

Baruch College students who are interested in applying should visit the Office of Student Affairs to obtain an application.

Women's bathroom on the 10th Floor of the 360 PAS building

Continued from front

Women's bathroom on the 10th Floor of the 360 PAS building located in the 16th floor building. These papers lack a vision for the future, and no vision for the current day. Women's bathroom on the 10th Floor of the 360 PAS building for the students.

Women's bathroom on the 10th Floor of the 360 PAS building located in the 16th floor building. These papers lack a vision for the future, and no vision for the current day. Women's bathroom on the 10th Floor of the 360 PAS building located in the 16th floor building. These papers lack a vision for the future, and no vision for the current day.
GLOBALIZATION: YOUR FUTURE AND AMERICA'S

Ambassador Thomas Niles
President
US Council for International Business

Professor Andreas Grein
Baruch College, Commentator

Tuesday, October 17th, 2000
12:15-4:00 PM
Room 1200 - 360 Park Avenue South (Sandwiches & Drinks Served)

Professor Andreas Grein

Whose picture is that?

Well, it is one of Baruch's delegates for the United Nations and the Office of the United Nations at the UN. He is a representative of the United Nations Office at Vienna and is involved in a number of issues.

What's his role at the UN?

He is a representative of the United Nations Office at Vienna and is involved in a number of issues, including international law, human rights, and the environment.

What's his background?

He has a degree in international relations and has worked for several organizations, including the United Nations, the International Court of Justice, and the International Labour Organization.

What's the significance of his role at the UN?

His role is significant because it allows him to represent the interests of his country and contribute to important global discussions on various issues.

What's the importance of globalization for our future?

Globalization is a complex and multifaceted phenomenon that has significant implications for our future. It involves the increasing interconnectedness of economies, societies, and cultures around the world, which can have both positive and negative consequences.

How can we adapt to the challenges of globalization?

Adapting to globalization requires a combination of skills, knowledge, and thinking. It involves understanding the complexities of global systems, developing the ability to manage uncertainty and change, and cultivating the mindset to embrace diversity and collaboration.

What's the role of education in preparing for a globalized world?

Education plays a crucial role in preparing individuals and societies for a globalized world. It involves not only imparting knowledge and skills but also fostering critical thinking, cultural awareness, and the ability to communicate and collaborate effectively across cultures.

What's the role of government in promoting globalization?

Governments play a critical role in promoting globalization by creating policies and frameworks that support international cooperation, economic development, and social progress. They also ensure that globalization benefits all members of society.

How can we ensure that globalization benefits everyone?

Ensuring that globalization benefits everyone requires a commitment to fairness, justice, and sustainable development. It involves addressing issues such as poverty, inequality, and environmental degradation, and creating policies that are inclusive and equitable.

What's the role of civil society in the process of globalization?

Civil society has a vital role in the process of globalization, as it provides a platform for dialogue, innovation, and action. It can facilitate the participation of marginalized groups and promote social justice.

What's the role of technology in globalization?

Technology plays a significant role in globalization by facilitating communication, transportation, and access to information, which can enable the rapid spread of ideas and innovations.

What's the role of empirical research in understanding globalization?

Empirical research is essential for understanding globalization, as it provides data-driven insights into the complex dynamics of the global system. It helps us identify trends, challenges, and opportunities, and inform policy and practice.

What's the role of education in promoting cultural understanding and tolerance?

Education is crucial in promoting cultural understanding and tolerance. By fostering an appreciation of diversity and encouraging open-mindedness, education can contribute to a more inclusive and harmonious society.

What's the role of international organizations in promoting globalization?

International organizations play a vital role in promoting globalization by facilitating cooperation, providing technical assistance, and mobilizing resources. They can help address global challenges and ensure that globalization is inclusive and sustainable.

What's the role of business in globalization?

Business plays a significant role in globalization, as it is a key driver of economic growth and innovation. It can contribute to positive outcomes when it operates ethically and sustainably.

What's the role of civil society in the process of globalization?

Civil society has a vital role in the process of globalization, as it provides a platform for dialogue, innovation, and action. It can facilitate the participation of marginalized groups and promote social justice.

What's the role of technology in globalization?

Technology plays a significant role in globalization by facilitating communication, transportation, and access to information, which can enable the rapid spread of ideas and innovations.

What's the role of empirical research in understanding globalization?

Empirical research is essential for understanding globalization, as it provides data-driven insights into the complex dynamics of the global system. It helps us identify trends, challenges, and opportunities, and inform policy and practice.

What's the role of education in promoting cultural understanding and tolerance?

Education is crucial in promoting cultural understanding and tolerance. By fostering an appreciation of diversity and encouraging open-mindedness, education can contribute to a more inclusive and harmonious society.

What's the role of international organizations in promoting globalization?

International organizations play a vital role in promoting globalization by facilitating cooperation, providing technical assistance, and mobilizing resources. They can help address global challenges and ensure that globalization is inclusive and sustainable.

What's the role of business in globalization?

Business plays a significant role in globalization, as it is a key driver of economic growth and innovation. It can contribute to positive outcomes when it operates ethically and sustainably.

What's the role of future leaders in shaping globalization?

Future leaders will play a critical role in shaping globalization, as they will be responsible for making decisions that impact the world's future. It is important that they are well-prepared and have a global mindset.

How can we ensure that globalization is sustainable and inclusive?

Ensuring that globalization is sustainable and inclusive requires a commitment to fairness, justice, and the long-term well-being of all members of society. It involves addressing issues such as poverty, inequality, and environmental degradation, and creating policies that are inclusive and equitable.

What's the role of education in promoting cultural understanding and tolerance?

Education is crucial in promoting cultural understanding and tolerance. By fostering an appreciation of diversity and encouraging open-mindedness, education can contribute to a more inclusive and harmonious society.

What's the role of international organizations in promoting globalization?

International organizations play a vital role in promoting globalization by facilitating cooperation, providing technical assistance, and mobilizing resources. They can help address global challenges and ensure that globalization is inclusive and sustainable.

What's the role of business in globalization?

Business plays a significant role in globalization, as it is a key driver of economic growth and innovation. It can contribute to positive outcomes when it operates ethically and sustainably.
I think a classifieds section would be useful. Also a listing of possible internships and jobs that would attract a lot of students. Include what's going on in the workforce, what jobs are around etc cuz a lot of people are seniors. How about the Board of Ed. and CUNY - what new ideas they have and are bringing forth. What's going on with different clubs, what programs they're working on etc. Overall I like it ...

It's always pick it up.

It is good but it has more ads than articles. It would be nice to see more entertainment, and perhaps a calendar of upcoming concerts ...

Overall it's good and I like it. The articles are well written.

I skimmed through the first issue ... I think it's pretty good.,., I would like to see more info on travel opportunities and study abroad programs. Some of the articles could be spell-checked a little better. There should be trays when you first come in so [the Ticker] would be a little more accessible. Also, some of the sexual problems are funny but some of them I don't really wanna hear about.

I read every issue. Jon Minners comments and articles are very interesting ... I'd like to see more than one page of the business section. Should the Ticker cover events outside of school? No, leave it as a campus newspaper. We need something that tells us what goes on in Baruch, nothing outside of Baruch unless it affects us.

I read it once in a while. I don't think there are enough articles, and not enough details. It's mostly ads. The writing is of a high school level. And I don't think it's interesting enough.

I read it on occasion. I think a lot of the articles are not thought provoking enough. I understand there's no faculty advisor. I also understand that there is a very good journalism dept here. So why isn't the ticker a project of the journalism dept? Better writers and current events is something that the paper really lacks. Ths. Baruch college community is New York City, so you have a lot that's going on here. I would profile a professor or club every issue...profile students.

I get it every week. I like it, I enjoy it. Some of the articles focus too much on racial issues. It would be cool if there would be different races different weeks and not the same thing over, the same complaining over and over. It's boring to read. I wish it were more on the positive things than the negative things. The thing with the Bursar's Office I thought it was really awesome. I loved that ... they did change a little bit.

I'm a student at Baruch College and I think the Ticker is a great newspaper. It is well-written and covers a lot of important topics. I wish there were more articles on campus events and activities. Overall, I think the Ticker is a valuable resource for students and faculty alike.
Undergrads, Test to Death?

"The CUNY Proficiency Examination requires students to demonstrate their competence in aspects of academic literacy that the CUNY faculty considers important for success in upper-division courses."

So it is written in an informative handout made by the Office of Academic Affairs at CUNY and given to students after they have registered to take this exam that has been unexpectedly dumped into their laps.

Once again students are asked to prove their writing, reading and interpretive skills after having done so through 45 credits worth of classes. Perhaps they have already proved "their competence in aspects of academic literacy." If they had, then wouldn't they have made this far into their academic careers?

The need to prove themselves once more can be a bit intimidating to those who felt that their last proficiency exam was the SAT. Could CUNY be any redundant? Taking another exam after you have already taken the CUNY entrance exam does not make sense.

If a student has already proven that they can make it into Baruch or any other senior college, why is it necessary to once again to put the spot and ask them to demonstrate their skills?

It has been said this is an effort by CUNY to raise the standards even further and perhaps it can be seen this way, but why wait to cut the fat after it has already been let into the system?

If anything, the filtering should begin at the start. The CUNY entrance exam should serve as the mesh that would separate those that belong in senior colleges and those that do not, instead of just being the preliminary hurdle that students would jump.

It is understandable that students need to be kept on their toes, but setting up this situation. Baruch College has taken a very clever practice! Suicide, the taking of one's own life... "Most people aren't particularly anxious to talk about suicide. I think that's normal." I heard that before, and before that, and before that.

"It is written in an informative handout made by the Office of Academic Affairs..."
Hello,

I appreciate any responses to the questions posted on Oct 10, 2000. I am trying to find my dream job on the web. I have a B.S. in Finance from the University of Maryland and have worked for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Latin America, where I was a success in the international and domestic markets. I am currently working as a financial analyst for a large multinational corporation. I am particularly interested in international business and finance. I am also fluent in Spanish and have a good understanding of Latin American culture. My objective is to use my background and experience to contribute to a dynamic and innovative organization. I am flexible and can relocate if necessary. Please feel free to email me at your convenience.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

---

Dear [Recipient],

Welcome back to...

BARUCH TOASTMASTERS INTERNATIONAL

"Developing Leadership Skills" in the "Art of Communication"

Meeting Dates

September 5, 2000
September 19, 2000
October 3, 2000
October 20, 2000
November 3, 2000
November 20, 2000
December 4, 2000
December 18, 2000

1st MEETING—September 8, 2000

Jena Optical
50 Lexington Ave, New York, NY 10017

212-477-4250

---

NEW GASSES?

Why Pay The High Cost Of Retail?

At Jena Optical, We Carry Designer Frames & Sunglasses

Personalized Attention

Over 50 Years!

For Over 95 Years!

For Services:

• Day Service (in most cases)

• For Prescriptions

• Eye Exam By Appointment

• Prescriptions Filled

---

Dear Hillary,

I am writing to you because I saw your campaign on the news last night. I am a political science major at Baruch College and I am十分 concerned about the direction your campaign is taking. I believe your platform is too vague and lacks substance. I am particularly concerned about your position on trade policy. You have stated that you support free trade, but I believe this is not enough. I think we need a more balanced approach that takes into account the impact of trade on American workers.

I appreciate your attention to this matter.

Yours sincerely,

[Signature]

---

By: Africa Is Beautiful

Baruch's Student Friendly Policies

It was the last week of September and suddenly I felt sad and helpless. Armed with the latest copy of the Ticker, I searched through the paper hoping to find a piece written by a student who had taken some risks in the past few weeks.

As I turned through the pages and read the articles published, I realized how much I liked this college. It's atmosphere and it's philosophy both the students and the faculty seemed to be enjoying. The last thing that I wanted was an essay on "The Problem of the Student Friendly Policies." I was not sure that I wanted to write about this issue, but I was sure that I needed to.

My concern was to take that first step forward. I had paid the tuition and decided to pay the balance of my fees once I had a job. The day before school officially began I was give only one chance to make this payment. I decided to write a letter to the student services department and to find out what the process was.

On September 26th, two days before I had paid the balance of my fees, I received a call from the financial aid office. They had a problem with my application. They had not received all the information they needed. I was given an extension so that I could complete the application. I was told that I would have to meet with them the next week to discuss my options. I was given a deadline of October 1st to complete the application.

I was disappointed that I had to do this. I didn't want to have to take this extra step. I was thinking about the money that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to pay it again. I was thinking about the time that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to give it back.

I was thinking about the money that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to give it back. I was thinking about the time that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to give it back. I was thinking about the money that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to give it back. I was thinking about the time that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to give it back.

I was thinking about the money that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to give it back. I was thinking about the time that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to give it back. I was thinking about the money that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to give it back. I was thinking about the time that I had already spent on this college. I didn't want to have to give it back.
Meet Kelley from MTV's "The Real World" and hear about her experience in Africa.

October 13 4pm - 6pm
NYU - 3rd North Dorm
75 3rd Avenue

Call the Hillie Office at (212) 802-6808 to get more information.

The experience is free!
Consoligates Growing at Peak Rate

Diversification: Is It Important?

By Donald Martin

The race for the best video game console is on! Sony, Sega, Nintendo, and Microsoft have all announced plans for their next-generation systems, each promising to revolutionize the gaming industry. In fact, the next generation will see Console Wars heat up just as it did during the 1990s. With major players like Sony, Nintendo, and Microsoft vying for market share, the industry is expected to grow significantly in the coming years.

The New Wave of Game Consoles

Subotnick Center Opens

Continued From Page 13

The Baruch College Entrepreneurship Competition

You may qualify for as much as $50,000 to help start your business.

Register Now

Visit the Baruch College Web site:

www.baruch.cuny.edu/bcec/index.html

If you still have questions after viewing the web site, Email: bcec@baruch.cuny.edu
Those interested should bring proper attire to work out in, i.e. sweat pants, t-shirt and sneakers. The orientation is scheduled for Thursday October 12 during club hours (12:30) in the 26th street building, room 1436. The actual practices for the team will begin the following day, Friday October 13, at 6:00 pm in the 23rd street building on the 6th floor.

For additional info, including game times and schedules, call (212) 387-1274.

CHEERLEADING AND DANCE ORIENTATION

The Baruch cheerleaders are holding a cheerleading and dance orientation. This will allow those interested to learn more about the team and its history. Practice is held in a CUNY competition in recent years. Practice can involve current cheerleaders and the assistant coaches. The cheerleaders stress that no experience is necessary!

Tennis

The women's tennis team opened its season two weeks ago. The team is off to a fast start, despite a lack of depth. The team has been able to maintain a six-girl roster. The team is now 1-1 and 3-3 on the season. The team won its first two matches against Wagner College, 6-0 and 5-3 against Hofstra. The team is now 3-0 and 3-0 on the season.

The team's next match is against Brooklyn College on October 13. The team has won the last two matches against Brooklyn, 6-0 and 6-0. The team is now 3-0 and 3-0 on the season.

Volleyball

The women's volleyball team is on a tear after losing their opener to Mt. St. Vincent. The Stateswomen went on a five-game winning streak, defeating N.Y. Tech (15-2, 15-7, 15-10), Emerson (15-2, 15-12), Medgar Evers (15-2), and Mt. St. Vincent (15-2, 15-12, 15-10). The team is now 5-1 and 5-1 on the season.

The Stateswomen are currently on a five-game winning streak, defeating Medgar Evers (15-2), Mt. St. Vincent (15-2), and Mt. St. Vincent (15-2). The team is now 5-1 and 5-1 on the season.

The Stateswomen are currently on a five-game winning streak, defeating Medgar Evers (15-2), Mt. St. Vincent (15-2), and Mt. St. Vincent (15-2). The team is now 5-1 and 5-1 on the season.

The Stateswomen are currently on a five-game winning streak, defeating Medgar Evers (15-2), Mt. St. Vincent (15-2), and Mt. St. Vincent (15-2). The team is now 5-1 and 5-1 on the season.

Editor’s Speak-up

The men's soccer team has won three of their last four matches, winning by an aggregate score of 14-0. The team is now 4-2 and 4-2 on the season.

The team's next match is against Brooklyn College on October 13. The team has won the last two matches against Brooklyn, 6-0 and 6-0. The team is now 3-0 and 3-0 on the season.

Soccer

The men's soccer team has lost three of their last four matches, winning by an aggregate score of 14-0. The team is now 1-3 and 1-3 on the season. The Statesmen lost to Wagner College, 6-0 and 5-3 against Hofstra. The team is now 3-0 and 3-0 on the season.

The Statesmen lost to Wagner College, 6-0 and 5-3 against Hofstra. The team is now 3-0 and 3-0 on the season.

The Statesmen lost to Wagner College, 6-0 and 5-3 against Hofstra. The team is now 3-0 and 3-0 on the season.
Inside includes

CD reviews 6 & 7 12 & 13 14 & 15

Poetry 10 & 11

Features

street smarts for republicans

life in hell

CD Music

Dj Muggs - Master of Sound by Robert Holder

CD Ticker

from the mind of Muggs

Tickers Aspectum

oCTober 10, 2000

an exclusive interview with the reknown beatmaker of Cypress Hill and the mansteam behind the new cd Soul Assassins Vol. II

By Dave Martinez

Ed. Note

There are very few in the hip-hop industry who have stood the test of time. Many come out as a doppelegg, just playing the image, but a few stay true to their roots and ideals. This is the case with Muggs, the mastermind behind Cypress Hill, and the mansteam behind the new CD Soul Assassins Vol. II.

Muggs is a true hip-hop artist who has been in the game for nearly ten years. He has been able to maintain his integrity and stay true to his ideals, which is something that is rare in today's hip-hop industry.

Muggs was born in Los Angeles in 1968. He started his career as a DJ at the age of 16. He quickly gained a reputation for his technical skills and his ability to spin a storm. In the late 80s, he met his partner in rhyme, Prince Ital Joe, and they formed the duo of Army of the Pharaohs. They quickly gained a following and became known for their unique sound and their aggressive style.

In the early 90s, Muggs and Joe decided to take their sound in a new direction. They formed Cypress Hill and released their debut album, "Temples of Boom," in 1992. The album was a huge success and earned them a lot of attention. They followed up with their second album, "IV," in 1994, which was even more successful.

Since then, Muggs and Cypress Hill have continued to be a force in the hip-hop industry. They have released several more albums and have maintained a loyal fan base. Muggs has also been involved in other projects, such as his solo album, "Soul Assassins," which was released in 2000.

Muggs is known for his technical skills as a DJ and his ability to spin a storm. He is also known for his lyrical ability and his ability to spit bars that are thought-provoking and meaningful. He is a true hip-hop artist who has been able to stay true to his ideals and stay true to his fans.

As a DJ, Muggs is known for his technical skills and his ability to spin a storm. He is known for his ability to mix different genres of music and his ability to keep the crowd moving. He is a true hip-hop artist who has been able to stay true to his ideals and stay true to his fans.

As a producer, Muggs is known for his ability to create unique beats and his ability to mix different genres of music. He is a true hip-hop artist who has been able to stay true to his ideals and stay true to his fans.

As a singer, Muggs is known for his ability to spit bars that are thought-provoking and meaningful. He is a true hip-hop artist who has been able to stay true to his ideals and stay true to his fans.

Muggs is a true hip-hop artist who has been able to stay true to his ideals and stay true to his fans. He is a force to be reckoned with in the hip-hop industry and is sure to continue to be a force in the future.
By David Martines

The most frightening movie of all time returns with new heart stopping scenes

When I was a child, I distinctively remember hiding beneath the covers of my bed, peaking out every now and then to see the greenish, gnarled figure of Regan MacNeil. Her face a ghastly blue, slabs of blood trailing down her cheeks, the controllable voices of demons in the background, and the "spider walk" scene. Stabbing me at my pillow, I squeezed my eyes shut and tried to feel comfort beneath my sheet. It was all in vain. The noises from the television just kept calling me curiously back. I just had to keep watching to see what would happen next. And the nightmares haunted me for years.

That was roughly sixteen years ago. Since then, no movie has been able to produce that same fear. "Nightmares on Film Street" almost hit that same chord. "Friday the 13th" was a little bit closer. But now, after watching the re-mastered version of "The Exorcist," I am reminded why it is considered the scariest movie of all time, and why no horror film can match or surpass its greatness.

"The Exorcist," based on the novel by William Peter Blatty and inspired by a reporting of an actual exorcism in the Washington D.C. area in 1949, has continuously terrified audiences throughout the world with its eerie battle of good versus evil. No horror film has ever matched the success "The Exorcist" comes back to the movie theatres to induce the same nightmares in its audience that it has presently seen at the movie theatres today.

What other movie has had such classic lines in it either? I mean, the actual dialogue of the film compared to today's summer mind boggling. It was a time when the words that the actors had to say mattered something, a time when the words themselves were used to shock and produce fear and astonishment. Hearing a little girl possess a scream out for someone to "Touch my pussy" or just seeing this possessed child scream "Let loose, fa--" while apparently violating herself with a cross, that is where the astonishment and fear is produced. What did Hollywood forget the shock value of imagery and words? Where else in the world of film today will so many lines be as fear so they were from this movie? Where else can you find such a sickening ending that is equally as impacting on the viewer as it is quick. Before you know it, and before you can make out truly what happened, the climax ending had taken place and left you dumbfounded. Maybe the reassuring of this great movie will be able to remind us how to make a proper horror film today. It had all the elements of a bad movie but that was what a true horror film is made of. It has a feel from the inside, a connection to the state of mind of the mother who emotionally grabs you and pulls you into the movie. It helps to make the viewer not to question why the addition of the scene would have represented and so on. Still, in my opinion, they add a lot more to the tale and its overall feel, especially the "spider walk" scene. You’ll see what I mean. It’s a goose bump filled scream. Once again, we have the opportunity to witness a historical masterpiece of a film. With defining performances from Linda Blair as the possessed Regan, Max von Sydow as the demon hunter, and Ellen Burstyn as Regan’s mother Chris MacNeil, and Pulitzer Prize winning playwright Jason Miller as Father Karras, "The Exorcist" comes back to the screen with a vengeance.

From what I can gather, the movie has had all the elements of a box office smash – action, drama, comedy, and a great cast. I finally found myself either laughing, crying, or ending all the way through. The movie had this "fast good" quality to it that everyone walked out of the theater in a great mood, saying how great it was. Overall, the movie was extremely well written, directed, and crafted. The audience reactions were overwhelmingly positive. I would definitely recommend it to anyone and everyone. Furthermore, I wouldn’t be surprised if Daniel Washington named himself another Academy Award for his amazing performance, or if the movie itself was an Oscar winner!

Think about it. You get to see movies for free before anyone else gets to see ‘em. All you have to do is warrant such a privilege is to come down to 360 PAS rm 1522 or contact Dave at asylumdave@hotmail.com, and ask about being a movie reviewer! It’s that simple! Contact us now!
Arts Editor

“Shimmer” and “Jesus Or A Gun.” On this new away, and leave me "l," The opening riff of "Prove" is very bunched under all that t, urnous on "VOICCS," the album opener. Many songs have catchy chorus, deal with girl­

By Robert Hellige

The Magnificient Tree does not get an: better expect to see is a cover of "The Magnificent Tree," which just doesn't belong on the album. I thought this was supposed to be a music wonder the band

By Jeffery Bickis

One track that may fall a bit is the radio. In a few songs, they interpolate a place of eternal peace that is Hooverphonic.

By Jeffery Bickis

"Dinosaurs" featuring -such mindless--lyrics as "boss to justify the punishment of having to hang around as long.

By Michael Ferrarola

There are no two tracks that deal with love and friendship, but this group can no longer be a band without the female vocalist SMACKO's lyrics to the song. I thought this was supposed to be a remix CD, but she is featured on this album.

By Michael Ferrarola

The Noveau is a unit that deals with the female vocalist SMACKO's lyrics to the song. I thought this was supposed to be a remix CD, but she is featured on this album.

By Michael Ferrarola

Slick Rick. Unfortunately for Erick Whatever, I can’t say that I was disappointed over something that I actually enjoyed. For Erick Whatever, the only thing that I can come up with was the joint with Erick Whatever on the album, but I am thinking that Erick Whatever is a little closer.

By Michael Ferrarola

The Ticke and Artisne Entertainment invite you to pick up a complimentary tshirt or poster from the movie Requiem. Stop by the Ticker's office (360 PWS Rm 1522) to receive your gift. Hurry, supplies are limited.
DreamWorks Pictures and The Ticker invite you and a guest to a complimentary screening of The Contender on October 12th. Stop by The Ticker office (360 PAS Rm 1522) to pick up your pass good for you and a guest. One pass per person. No purchase necessary. Hurry while supplies last!
Skateboarding a Smash
By David Martinez

Andy MacDonald, the overall seed and some points away for skateboarding from 1995 Game, is the gold medal winner in this competition. MacDonald, who has never entered a competition, just won the gold medal this year. The skateboarding competition was held on the same day as the Super Bowl, but MacDonald was able to make the trip to the Super Bowl and win the medal.

The competition was held on a halfpipe,
which was the only place where MacDonald
was not able to compete. The competition
was held on a halfpipe, which was the only place where MacDonald was not able to make the trip to the Super Bowl and win the medal.

MacDonald, who has never entered a competition, just won the gold medal this year. The skateboarding competition was held on a halfpipe, which was the only place where MacDonald was not able to compete.
The competition was held on a halfpipe,
which was the only place where MacDonald
was not able to make the trip to the Super Bowl and win the medal.

The competition was held on a halfpipe,
which was the only place where MacDonald
was not able to compete. The competition
was held on a halfpipe, which was the only place where MacDonald was not able to make the trip to the Super Bowl and win the medal.

The competition was held on a halfpipe,
which was the only place where MacDonald
was not able to compete. The competition
was held on a halfpipe, which was the only place where MacDonald was not able to make the trip to the Super Bowl and win the medal.
Love Me?
By Tribulation

Why do I crave this?
Your have such soft lips and warm thighs
These are the catalyst for my yearnings
It is so comforting
I know that your pain is my pleasure
I am not at ease
I’d rather feast off of your innocence
Or is it your ignorance?
I suppose both features attract me
And exactly why, inside
The beauty that you’ve become
Will never cease to exist
I only have one question for you
Do you love me?

Our Moment
By Tribulation

This untouched land filled with thoughts
The massacred carcasses are bright
The illuminated red covers my eyes
Seize the moment!
For it is upon us
Embrace your dead brother
And kiss your sister’s, still body
I am cut off from the approval
There is no need for markings
Walking is the Non-feast that is stalking
It creeps where you least expect
It measures you right this moment

Hating
By PJA0220@aol.com

I don’t want to live this way
I hate the turns my life has made
I have lost so much so quickly
I hate everything
I hate the imperfection that happens
I hate feeling
I hate crying
I hate waking in the morning
Because this is not a dream
I hate this emptiness
I hate this anger,
which is building strongly in my heart
I hate that I can’t smile
I hate that I have lost my inner peace
I hate that I don’t have hope
I hate that I don’t like sunny days
I hate that I have to just deal with it
I hate feeling such desperation
That I feel sick
I hate that I want to be alone
I hate the way I feel
Living is hard
Dying is easy

Without You
by Shawn Hayden Ramsingh

Who needs you when your words have no meaning?
When your thoughts are blinded?
Is all this pain so necessary?
I dream of being something, I am not,
I watch the stars and count the days till I am on that spot.
Place me on that big sky.
Look down at me with your smiling eyes.
Show me the way to live my life.
Give me strength and courage to step into the light.
Take away my rage.
Pun me free of anger and hatred.
This could of been much worse,
I might have never loved;
Or Known what love is.
You said you didn’t want me,
Did that mean you didn’t want to see me?
You sent me away...
And now who needs you,
Although I can’t have you,
You will always be my Sanctuary.

In Time’s Due
by Shawn Ramsingh

You gave me a life to live,
You gave me breath to breathe.
You gave me a hug in times of despair.
You gave me love, to say you care.
The guidance you gave me through the bad times,
I will never again receive.
Your love that felt like the rain drops,
I shall never again feel.
For today I stand at your grave and see,
You’re gone.
A life not lived complete,
Yet a life that’s done.
You had so much ahead for you,
So much plans, so much dreams to come true.
Why this all happened?
Remains in time’s due.
Copyright ©2000 Shawn Ramsingh

DISTANCE
By: Robert Hidalgo

O’ to smell the sweet delights
The thoughts, and long nights
What’s that sound? It’s so amazing
Your laughter inside me, charm so engaging
You seem so far, yet so close indeed
Troying with thoughts and feelings I need
Your touch is a want, your voice a blessing
Your calming stare is endless carrying
Your words are comfort, those lips so soft
Time-stopping chatters, and in a flash its off
An eddy of thoughts as it races in my mind
True love is so damn hard to find
Although it may seem that we are so far apart
The distance between us is close enough,
So as that I can hear the beat of your heart

For the last time
by PJA0220@aol.com

They didn’t do a good job
None of the colors were the right tones
You would never put pink lipstick on
I just stared at you
I knew I had to make it right for you.
You always looked so beautiful in my eyes
I wanted to fix you like the way I used to
Remember those days when you couldn’t lift your hand
You asked me to do your makeup?
As I started applying your eyeshadow
I was wishing you would open your eyes
Even if I knew you were dead for a few days
Your cheek was so cold
So I tried to put some warmth into you
By my kiss, it didn’t help.
I found that favorite lipstick of yours
The one that would make you feel gorgeous
It looked great on you, as usual
I tried to wipe my tears off my face
Before they fell on you
But I couldn’t catch all them
Could you feel my tears mommy?
I promised you I would never let you look bad
I promised to make you look beautiful
Remember I whispered that into your ear?
I said I would take care of you
The night before your funeral,
I kept my promise
You looked so beautiful mommy
I just sat there and stared at you
I never want to forget your beauty
Mommy I don’t think I would ever see what I did again,
I saw an angel sleeping
You looked so beautiful mommy at your funeral

Empty
by PJA0220@aol.com

You looked so beautiful mommy at your funeral
The night before your funeral,
I saw an angel sleeping
Mommy I don’t think I would ever see what I did again,
I just sat
Remember I whispered that into your ear?
I promised to make you look beautiful
I promised you I would never let you look bad
Did you feel my tears mommy?
But I couldn’t catch all them
It looked great on you, as usual
As I started applying your eyeshadow
They didn’t do a good job
I wanted to fix you like the way I used to
Remember those days when you couldn’t lift your hand
You always looked so beautiful in my eyes
You never put pink lipstick on
I just stared at you
I knew I had to make it right for you.
You always looked so beautiful in my eyes
I wanted to fix you like the way I used to
Remember those days when you couldn’t lift your hand
You asked me to do your makeup?
As I started applying your eyeshadow
I was wishing you would open your eyes
Even if I knew you were dead for a few days
Your cheek was so cold
So I tried to put some warmth into you
By my kiss, it didn’t help.
I found that favorite lipstick of yours
The one that would make you feel gorgeous
It looked great on you, as usual
I tried to wipe my tears off my face
Before they fell on you
But I couldn’t catch all them
Could you feel my tears mommy?
I promised you I would never let you look bad
I promised to make you look beautiful
Remember I whispered that into your ear?
I said I would take care of you
The night before your funeral,
I kept my promise
You looked so beautiful mommy
I just sat there and stared at you
I never want to forget your beauty
Mommy I don’t think I would ever see what I did again,
I saw an angel sleeping
You looked so beautiful mommy at your funeral

Empty
by PJA0220@aol.com

Have you ever looked in the mirror
And not see anyone?
Have you ever held your hands
And not even feel fingerprints?
Each day I find that I have lost a little more
Of the girl I used to be
I ask myself when will the tears end?
When can I smile again?
When can I wake and be happy to see light?
I want to go back home,
Where I used to feel safe
I want to be kissed for the first time again
I’m so afraid
Im so scared
That one day someone will see how empty, hollow, lonely, dying
That one day someone will see how empty, hollow, lonely, dying
That one day someone will see how empty, hollow, lonely, dying
Well it is not too difficult to start this section off by stating that I severely disapproved of no one conversing for our last section. The logical reason why I probably was not consented is because the intelligent people here at the asylum did not make up my e-mail address. Trs_a}@hotmail.com. The saying always holds true. If you want your idea right, you have to make it in the hands of buckling soap. Wipe. I was just at the subject of the last issue, I couldn't help mention a few interesting things. There are not enough written, because the tremendous ones are kept peeping up. I also noticed that one of the poets had a beautiful design that overshadowed the other two writers, especially the brilliance that I blessed you all with. The Hodags, in their own way, has a beautiful design that overwhelmed the other two (even though the brilliance that I blessed you all with. The Hodags, in their own way, has a beautiful design that overwhelmed the other two (even though the brilliance that I blessed you all with.)

Dave and Rob Suck!

By: May Ling Tianga

If you don't know me, you're probably over my egoistical mania of a friend Dave. Dave is the Spanish freak with the acne who's always holding his thin Fred Durst black cap. You can't miss the tall, goofy freak. Now his name blessed the Baruch community as the new Arts Editor for our very own Asylum.

I just have one question. Why? Dave is like the Lake Fred Durst who bring with Rob. Jeffrey, Dave. Rob, Jeffrey, Dave, Rob, and Dave. I mean I catch myself asking for his CD's and the lame excuse is, "Hey, I don't have one." Now I'm sure can find some answers for me in this next column. Wishing with the next column is answering or something. So, maybe I'm asking for this in the same topic, but it's just like the name Ben. An anonymous wants to remain just that.

MARIJUANA REGULATION: Is this the most effective way for us to go? Anonymous has the facts to support that claim.

Send any and all comments to asylumsavem@hotmail.com. We want as much feedback as possible and we will print the best responses in next week's issue! So keep in touch with us and see your name in print!
Twentieth Century Fox and The Ticker invite you and a guest to a complimentary screening of Bedazzled on October 19. Stop by The Ticker office (360 PAS) to pick up your pass. Hurry while supplies last!