CUNY Establishes Chancellor Search Committee

By RAFAEL MARTINEZ

A search committee for a new chancellor was established by James P. Murphy, Chairperson of the Board of Trustees of The City University of New York due to the planned resignation of the current Chancellor, Joseph S. Murphy.

The committee was established on Nov. 27 when the current Chancellor, Dr. Murphy announced his resignation. The Chancellor's letter is James Murphy dated Nov. 22 stated, "I've decided that it is time for me to do other things. I want to return to academic life, and this is an opportunity for me to do that, to return to academic life and to be closer to the people of this state."

Admissions advertisements have been placed in all the major newspapers and it reads that "the chancellor oversees all the chief administrative and academic officers of the University. He or she is the last word on the assignments of all faculty and staff." The Board of Education, restructured in 1980.

In 1980, the Board of Education was restructured. The Search Committee will be headed by Chancellor Murphy, and will include all the faculty members and the Board of Education.

The process of assigning days and time is done by a computer. The computer classifies students by class status.

The process begins well before students actually begin to register for classes. The process begins by the computer classifying all the students into classes and then go on to assigning the students to classes.

LAST WEEK, THE Day Session Student Council voted to grant itself stipends, in principal at least. In the atmosphere of criticism from some council members and a group of club officers present, the Council was unable to decide the next step and decide on an appropriate amount for themselves. The Council left itself "half-pregnant" and in limbo over whether to grant stipends.

Whoever brought the anonymous proposal for stipends to the Council's meeting that day should be commended for taking the initiative in this long-overdue development. But for now, they must also be chided for poor planning. Without seeking the ideas and consensus of fellow Council members, the majority of whom obviously wanted stipends anyway, the job was left only half-done and, in danger of being voted down, if enough blind but loud criticisms are mounted before the Council's next meeting.

The student leader, that student who puts in that extra hour and those late nights, is a rare breed at Baruch. Those women and men who make a difference in life at Baruch are working very hard, but not out any compensation for lost hours at work, family or studying. Student Council members are among student leaders who do work very hard. Beside the rather two-hour Council meetings, Club hours, they meet other times for committee meetings and hold hearings with club officers regarding the budget, hearing appeals and attending meetings. They also organize and hold several events during the year such as Lip Sync Contests, Talent Shows, Senior Bashes, etc. They now work as volunteers and would not doubt continue just as hard without receiving a minimal stipend. But in the name of fairness some compensation for the service they provide the entire day student community is warranted. The four Day Session Student Government executive officers receive stipends but without the Council these people could not do their jobs. The stipends do not come out of the club budget monies but instead from a separate stipend budget line.

Some club presidents have been vocal in opposition to stipends. Their arguments are justified because they do put in as much time and effort as Council members. However, stipends are awarded based on title not performance, and it would be impossible to determine which club presidents are truly active in their organization's efforts to obtain a stipend. Taking the argument to its logical end, a club could be chartered for the sole purpose of getting a stipend for the president, and there is no way for Council to force good faith upon these individuals. It would be obvious when a Council member performs his or her task because they are under the scrutiny of the public. Would it be fair for a club president to receive the same amount of money as a president who does his or her job.

The Ticker favors passage of a stipends package at the next Council meeting. We also favor a stipends package at the next Council meeting. We also favor 1. the Ticker's Editorial Staff. The Ticker accepts only original and signed opinion pieces for publication. The opinions on the OP-ED pages are those of the individual writers and do not necessarily represent the opinions of The Ticker Editorial Staff. The Ticker welcomes creative writers, and does not necessarily represent the opinions of The Ticker Editorial Staff. The Ticker accepts only original and signed opinion pieces for publication.

Robert A. Martinez head of the Student Council did not ask for a stipend, but the student body president, Kenneth E. Brown, did. Our office is published bi-weekly by Baruch undergraduates.

"If they have this kind of money to spend on stipends, then what about clubs who have been crying for more money for their budgets and appeals.

"...we will continue to expand our commitment to academic excellence and access to higher education."

James P. Murphy, Chairperson of the Board of Trustees of the City University of New York.

Do you know these men?

During Black History Month, the same old stories are told over and over again. However, the story of black heroes is never told the same way. And black women are so many stories that they have never been told before.

Oscar Micheaux (1884-1951)

Oscar Micheaux was born in Columbus, Georgia. He started his own publishing company to create his own stories. However, his money was not enough to support him.

Samuel Coleridge-Taylor (1875-1912)

Samuel Coleridge-Taylor was a composer and conductor. He was the first African-American composer to receive international recognition.

Harriet Ross Tubman (1820-1913)

Harriet Tubman was a conductor on the Underground Railroad. She was a fearless guide and helped many slaves escape to freedom.

AN HONOR SOCIETY BY BARBARA ERLICH

A scanned honor society has blossomed to cover this winter. The Golden Key Honor Society, nationally established in 1977, awards all students who have achieved a grade point average of 3.25. Candidates must have earned at least 40 credits.

Liberal arts students' saying cry for recognition inspired Dean Amor to create the respected society, "In other words, students can participate in the honor societies, which could give them some recognition and the ability to participate in a program that is not currently available," said Fear. An anthology of Golden Key alumni resumes collected by the Florida State University chapter via double-decker bus.

HENRY V: PARADISE LOST

WHERE'S THE PARTY PARADISE LOST

Where was I? Oh yeah, I remember. I told you all my big story about my experiences in the days of my youth, and now it's time for the main event. For those of you who were there, you know exactly what I'm talking about.

But for those who weren't, let me give you a brief overview.

In the late 1970s, I was a regular at a popular club in New York City called the Garage. It was the go-to spot for young people looking for a good time. The club was known for its amazing atmosphere and the incredible music that played there. But there was one thing that set it apart from all the others: the party at the end of the night.

I was one of the regulars at this party, and I usually stuck around until the very end. But one particular night, I decided to leave early because I had an important meeting the next day.

I went to the parking lot and got into my car, ready to head home. But as I was driving away,

I noticed something strange happening inside

the club. There were people dancing wildly, screaming, and having a great time. I couldn't believe what I was seeing.

I decided to pull over and see what was going on. As I got off the car, I saw a group of people running around,}

MEN'S HOOP SQUAD STILL INCONSISTENT

by STEVEN SCHEER

It is one of the facts of life: You learn from your mistakes. The Baruch Statesmen were making a lot of mistakes lately such as poor shot selection, inconsistent defense and terrible free shooting. But, in order to stay in the CUNY Conference race in which they were 2-6, they had to improve on their game.

The Statesmen seemed that they were going to against rival College of Staten Island on January 20. A couple weeks earlier, Baruch blew a 7 point lead with 1:20 left and lost at the buzzer. Once again, the Statesmen played the defending CUNY Champs tough and were in the game all the way. Baruch showed some inexperience when they were down 50-48. The Statesmen had numerous opportunities to tie and/or take the lead. But, they weren’t able to capitalize on their chances. Eventually, CSI won the game as Baruch was forced to foul. CSI hit their free throws down the stretch and won 75-65 in a game which closer than the score indicates.

J. Todd Varelas, who is becoming an offensive force in Tyrone Greaves’ absence, scored 30 points for the second consecutive game. Coach Ray Rankis wasn’t able to attend the game due to an illness so Assistant coach Rick Swilling handled the team “very well,” said Rankis.

With Baruch’s record a disappointing 5-11 overall and 2-7 in the conference, something had to give. Maybe a trip to Florida for a week. would help relax the players so they could regain their winning ways. Right? It would not be as simple because the two teams Baruch would play in Florida are not NCAA schools, which Baruch and most schools in the U.S. are apart of. Webber College and Florida Memorial are NAIA schools. They don’t have to, and usually don’t, follow NCAA regulations which deal with recruiting etc.

The first game on January 24 was not that close. The Statesmen lost to Webber 84-58.

The next day Baruch played Florida Memorial. Preceding the game was a reception given by the Florida Chapter of Baruch Alumni. Vice President John McGarraghy was there as well as 50 people of the Baruch Florida Chapter. It is one of the facts of life: You learn from your mistakes. The practices really helped quite a bit and Baruch learned from the mistakes they were making earlier in the season. They landed in New York on Friday night and they were back on the hardwood the next afternoon to play Pratt Institute. The Statesmen took out all of their frustrations on Pratt demolishing them 90-53. “We moved the ball well, played unselfishly and played good defense,” said Rankis. Victor Mihlakas was the big story of the game registering 10 of the team’s 28 assists. Mihlakas also had 10 rebounds but didn’t get the triple double because, as Rankis says, “he doesn’t shoot that much.”

Back to CUNY games on January 30. Baruch’s opponent, CCNY, Greaves returned action after missing seven games due to “personal reasons.” He made an impact scoring 19 points in a 80-73 home win, in a game which was incorrectly reported in the local dailies as a CCNY win 83-80. Baruch won 80-73. Got 67. Mike Reid was Baruch’s high man with 25 points.

Baruch took their modest two game winning streak into a February 1 contest with Lehman College. The Statesmen took a page out of many professional teams with “cap day.” All fans received a Baruch Basketball 1990 painter’s cap.

The loyal fans who showed up were not disappointed as Reid sparked the Statesmen to a 53-42 win with 12 points, 15 rebounds, 4 blocks and 3 steals.

BUMP...SET...SPIKE

The 1989 Volleyball Team: This year’s squad is off to a fast 4-0 start. Led by Billy Sappia’s spikes and Chris Demers’ spirit, this year’s team has high hopes. The men’s volleyball team will be featured in the next issue of The Ticker.

WOMEN'S B-BALL TEAM WINS TWO IN A ROW

by MICKEY KRAMER

The set-saw season continues for the Baruch Stateswomen.

On Feb. 5, at York College, the Stateswomen had an easy blowout victory. The final was 73-38.

The outcome was never in doubt as CUNY star, Hillary Williams scored 41 points, added five steals and added an amazing 23 rebounds. Williams had help. Forward Maria Epp picked up 14 points and dished off eight assists. Point Guard Stephanie Varcados ran the show as she passed off for 10 assists.

The Stateswomen now had an 8-12 record.

A look back at some prior games:

On Jan. 26 and 27, Baruch traveled to Maryland for two games. The first game was played against Catholic University. It was called “an excellent game,” by coach Penny Weiner. “It was an up and down game, but they (Catholic U) hit a clutch three-pointer and converted their free throws. We played outstanding.”

It ended in a 71-64 defeat.

Williams scored 29, Epp added 15 and center Wilda Colon scored 12.

The next day was a different kind of loss. Playing without Epp and Sakina Parker, the Stateswomen were beaten badly. 55-36. This was the team’s worst defeat of their season.

On Jan. 30, Baruch suffered their toughest defeat of the season. Baruch led 67-66 with 11 seconds left; and they had possession under their basket.

A bad inbound pass led to a turnover. City College now had the ball with five seconds left in the game.

A defensive deflection by Parker knocked two seconds off the clock. Of so they thought.

The referee was about to take over the game. First he added a second to the clock. Now, with four seconds left, he told the timekeeper to turn off the clock and he would count down the remaining seconds by himself.

City inbounded the ball, found the open player...

And whist. City-68, Baruch 67.

Although Weiner would not blame the official, she did say, “They had the ball forever.” “We lost the game on the bad inbound pass.”

The Stateswomen bounced back the following day against Vassar. Although Baruch led by only three at halftime (34-31) they finished with a flurry. “We blew ’em out,” said the coach.

Williams scored a career-high 48 points, added 25 rebounds and with 10 steals managed to attain her sixth career triple-double.

Williams scored a career-high 48 points, added 25 rebounds and with 10 steals, managed to attain her sixth career triple-double.

Two consecutive victories and the controversial loss to City means three straight strong games played. With the CUNY Tournament one week away, Baruch might be peaking just at the right time.
