Middle States Renews Baruch's Accreditation

Minority Faculty Problem Being Remedied

By Edward Ascente

The Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools announced the reaccreditation of Baruch College at its meeting on June 26-27 after a year of review. Last semester the team deferred the reaccreditation of the College because of what it called "the lack of effectiveness in creating a positive teaching/learning environment for all students." In a document dated May 7, 1990, the team maintained that "Baruch has been and remains capable of being an excellent academic institution ... [but] college has emphasized the tradition academic values while neglecting equal concern for the values of social justice and equity critical to serving working people in a multicultural urban environment."

The issue of the lack of minority faculty members was one of the core complaints of the Middle States team. According to the report, only one of the 118 tenured faculty members is African American and none is Latino. In a previous report the team had refused to accept the College's defense of its hiring policies, saying that "there are not enough incentives for department heads to find qualified minorities and incentives for not for not doing so."

In a letter announcing the reaccreditation of the school however, former president Joel Segall said that "the college has record of minority recruitment and retention and a student attrition rate that compares favorably with other senior colleges." He went on to say that Baruch is one of the first colleges to be held to rigorous scrutiny on these issues. "The college, in responding to the Commission's concerns has provided a comprehensive plan that will seek to improve both the number of minority faculty and the graduation rate of all students," Segall said.

Baruch College holds accreditation for all its business programs from the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business and its programs in accounting, health care administration, and public administration are individually accredited by their respective professional associations. According to a news release, "These recognitions place Baruch College among a small handful of America's leading colleges focusing on business and holding all relevant accreditations."

CUNY Chooses Controversial New Chancellor

Board Picks Reynolds After National Search

By Rafael Olmeda

W. Ann Reynolds was designated president of the City University of New York at the executive session of the board of trustees on May 7, 1990.

"Dr. Reynolds is uniquely qualified to lead the City University of New York," said James M./application of the board of trustees, at a news conference on June 6. "She has an outstanding record of scholarship, extensive administrative experience, a commitment to academic excellence and an overall track record in developing and implementing programs of pluralism and diversity."

Reynolds has served as chancellor of the California State University System and the State University of New York, and has served as chancellor of the University of California, Berkeley. She received a B.A. in English from the University of California, Berkeley, and a Ph.D. in English from the University of California, Berkeley.

Reynolds received criticism last September when the board of trustees selected her as its new chancellor. Reynolds' appointment was controversial because of her lack of experience in public administration. Reynolds was chosen following the resignation of the previous chancellor, William C. Frey.

On the Outside Looking In

By R.C. Baier

The New York Times recently reported that seventeen students had been expelled from the University of Pennsylvania for drinking. I am a Penn graduate and I have some sense that this might be a singularly bad year for students.

The December 1979 issue of The New York Times reported that twenty-five percent of the sophomores, thirty percent of the junior class, and forty percent of the senior class at the University of Pennsylvania had been convicted of some form of cheating. And these are just the students who were caught.

In the winter of 1980, I took a class at the University of Pennsylvania. It was a thirty-student class and I was one of the few students who didn't have to study for the final exam. I didn't have to study for the final exam because the Professor didn't give one.

I think the University of Pennsylvania is a good school. But I also think that there are some problems that need to be adressed. And I don't think that these problems are going to be solved by expelling students who drink.

I think that the University of Pennsylvania needs to do some serious thinking about how to handle the problems of cheating and drinking. And I think that the University of Pennsylvania needs to do some serious thinking about how to handle the problems of cheating and drinking.

Summer Jobs: A Good Beginning

By Marilyn Street

Competition for jobs is almost every job seeker's nightmare today so be aware of every advantage you can give yourself: You are not alone. Many others are in the same situation. You'll have to sell yourself to a number of companies to get some results in this period, but by degrees of word processing and a good deal of prejudices, you can achieve the position of having several offers in one month. Distinguish yourself on your skills, put together a resume, get copies of your transcript, and make the companies aware of you. You must assess your skills, put together a resume, get copies of your transcript, and make the companies aware of you. This is the time to intern in companies, find a summer job in the field you especially spread-sheet software, and the sooner the better.

Summer Jobs include:

1. Researcher at the American Museum of Natural History.
2. Intern at the New York Public Library.
3. Volunteer at a local hospital.
4. Intern at a local newspaper.
5. Intern at a local television station.
6. Intern at a local radio station.

You must assess your skills, put together a resume, get copies of your transcript, and make the companies aware of you. This is the time to intern in companies, find a summer job in the field you especially spread-sheet software, and the sooner the better.

You're Invited to a Summer Jobs Workshop on Saturday, June 15, 1990, at 10:00 AM. The workshop will be held at the New York Public Library, 42nd Street and 5th Avenue. The workshop is free and open to the public.

Rockers Unite to Protect Rainforests

By Bill Canny

Without the forests—from the tropical rainforests in South America to the tundra of the U.S.—the life of the forest begins. In this earth, the forests are the home of the wild. They are the home of the animals. They are the home of the people. They are the home of the forest. They are the home of the forest.

If you are interested in protecting the rainforests, you can join the Rainforest Action Network. They are the home of the forest. They are the home of the forest.

"City Kids" Speak Out
'State of the Youth'

Youth desire bigger role in decision making process

Usually the State of the Youth is discussed without us. There are statistics that say how many kids get pregnant or drop out of school or how bad things are, but we are not there. So how much we care. But now, for the first time, the New York City Board of Education has asked the kids to be a part of the issues affecting our lives.

"Kid Congress," kids from all over New York City gathered together to explore the issues that affect our environment, our schools, our homes. As part of the arts and writing workshops, discussion groups and special research activities which surveyed kids and adults from all over New York City, we collected enough information to enable us to write what we feel is an accurate evaluation of the condition of youth in our City. What follows is a synthesis of this information. It represents the opinions and thoughts of youth on youth.

It always seems like kids are messed up. As young people, we are being taught in today's society to believe we are not responsible. We are not adults who are not asking us how we feel, or what we need. This makes us feel we are not valued members of society. We're trying to become kids in a world where it seems like the notions are poverty, disease, homelessness, pollution, violence, andfaim. families.

The youth of New York City are very much affected by their environment. We are confused because there are so many mixed signals. We hear all the time about the ignorant youth, the lazy youth, the violent youth, the pregnant youth, but what we see is ourselves. What do we think? "The future? Six?" There is a constant battle between the two.

We are writing this letter in order to represent our struggles, our feelings, our dreams. We are confused, we are angry, and often hopeless because we've inherited so much negativity. But among us are leaders who have the potential to become active participants in the decision making process. We have chosen to take a change by becoming problem solvers, powerful speakers, and initiators. We need to be the ones who are our voice to be heard.

Why would we be concerned? We have a vested interest. We are talking about our future. These issues are very personal to us. These will be our jobs, our families, our community, our education, our kids, of course we care. Now we the best time in our lives and we're celebrating it with our leadership. There will be workshops for youth with old people, so maybe we can learn with.

usually by going around and talking with a lot of people, or by shadowing someone all day. In either case, it is important that you ask for information. You needn't seek total enlightenment—not right away—but if you have a term need, an acronym, an abbreviation you don't know, ask what it means. It is the barometer of your workplace, your company's slang. To communicate effectively, you must know it. The other thing that happens when you ask lots of questions is that you needn't see it total away—but if you used, an acronym, an abbreviation, it is the barometer of... enlightenment, not right that you can do next.

In 1986, a study conducted by Professor Mark L. Bense, of the Radiation Department, revealed that Baruch College had an increasing amount of grade inflation, described as "the tendency to award higher grades to students who would have been given for the same work in the past." The study which examined the characteristics of the graduates from 1922-1979, revealed that in 1977-78 graduates from the school of Business and Public Administration had 67.9 percent grade point average, 4,080 students, whereas in the past, the percentage of students graduating with a grade point average of 60 percent was 26.77 percent.

"Jazz King" Lionel Hampton, performed in concert at Baruch on Saturday, February 21st, in the auditorium. His reputation extends from the great jazz age and he remains active in the music world. One of the foremost exponents of this art form (just was a new era in American music known as "Swing," the expansion of the jazz age and a beat that people found accessible.

Spring registration of '81 was, student said, "the best registration in the student history." Registration, which began on January 15th and ended January 28th, was destined successful by students mainly because of the efficiency with which registration was run. Some of the factors included short lines, minimal crowds, and registration in advance for all students.

1972

On Thursday, November 9, the Public Relations Society sponsored Mr. Mark Marc, the public relations director of Harper's Fashion PR, who supplied Frankfurters for all participants in the rally. The trouble at the Southern University in which two students, involved in the struggle for human rights within the educational institutions, were murdered. A cartoon, which was printed along with the article on the front page of the ‘Tick," captured the essence of the rally...you do nothing and you'll get to know the real world...you get together and it's caused a ruckus.

Baruch students, although small in number, played an important part in the rally. They helped to organize the effort and delivered speeches.

Days of Yore

Compiled By Susan Past

Prompted by the rape of a Baruch Student during the summer, the student center board sponsored a lecture on rape entitled, "Hope Prevention." The guest speaker was Detective Ellis King, a twelve-year veteran of the N.Y.P.D. sex crime unit, and she offered these safety tips for both men and women:

- avoid deserted hallways, alleys, and ask who is in the bathroom
- carry a loud whistle between your lips when walking at night or in lonely areas. (Whistles are not recommended because often the suspect is taken and used against the victim)
- trust your intuition about strangers.

A new constitution which allowed the Day Student Government to advertise vacancies for council was approved by the student election, due to the loss of more than half the council members because of resignations and personal reasons.

The information desk at the 17 Lexington Avenue building was established for the first time, for the students to answer questions about the flow of traffic going to admission.

Barbecuing Battles Stress

Theories about barbecuing the human psyche may be going out of fashion. According to a recent survey of what's cooking in the backyard barbecue this summer, it appears that grilling may be the fiber that holds home together.

Bracing for a Recession

The American Economy is headed for trouble this very moment. Full time employees do not refuse to acknowledge that we are in a recession now, almost all economists believe that unless something happens quickly, trouble will be the norm midway of next year. For the past four quarters, economic growth has averaged a steady 1.5%. Even though a recession is officially defined as two consecutive quarters of negative growth, a few prominent economists say the country is already in a recession. Reports indicate that in at least one area, New England, there is already a full blown recession.

In fact according to a recent poll of top economists conducted by the New York Journal only 10 out of 34 economists say that the country will avoid a recession next year without a recession. To business, households and people in the financial market, it certainly feels like we are in a recession, a First Boston economist said.

Just what is it that makes these forecasts so gloomy?

First the unemployment rate is already over 7%, much more than the 5% rate of January last year. Secondly unemployment is up from 4% only a year ago and the seasonally adjusted picture shows slowdowns of more than 5% in the manufacturing and construction industries. Even the service industry, a key indicator of economic health. The current unemployment rate, which stands at 7.9%, reflecting a loss of more than 400,000 in the highest rates in two years. The Bush administration acknowledges that this is the result of the elimination of 16,000 temporary positions. But theforEach problem is that the number of jobs in private industry alone fell by another 5,000, as growth in government workers has slowed.

"Reports indicate that in at least one area... there is already a full blown recession."
Women's Tennis Team Bids To "Threepeat" As CUNY Champions

"With this large turnover of experienced players ... It will be a very tough coaching year." - Coach Bill Eng

By Mickey Kramer

It ain't gonna be easy.

Baruch's women's tennis team will be out to "Threepeat" as CUNY and Hudson Valley Tournament Champions this season. The loss of the top four players from last year will make it quite a difficult task.

Coach Bill Eng, entering his seventh campaign, is concerned. "With this large turnover of experienced players who were very competitive, it will be a very tough coaching year."

The Stateswomen began last season slowly, with a record of 1-3, but finished with a regular season record of 8-6.

Baruch then cruised through the Hudson and CUNY Tournaments with Manhattan and John Jay finishing as runners-up, respectively.

With the loss of three starters and Ophrim Loevishvili's inability to play on a regular basis, three returning players are expected to step in and improve their games. Elizabeth Lejtman is entering her third season on the team. Eng calls her, "A steady baseline player, with a strong forehand." Lejtman, on her increased role, says, "I'm really excited about playing. I practiced all summer."

Also penciled into the starting rotation is second year player, Linda Cho. Eng says, "She has solid strokes and I'm counting on her to improve."

Eng has labeled Felicia Harper with the "P" word: potential. He also says, "She is the strongest hitter on the team, even her backhand. She needs to be a little inconsistent, though."

So far, there is one newcomer expected to fill a key role. Ophrim Loevishvili played varsity at Midwood H.S. Eng says, "She moves well on the court and I expect her to move into the rotation."

As far as repeating as champions, Lejtman apprehensively says, "This season is tough because we lost a few players. It depends on how the other teams do."

Eng has set high goals for his team. "I'm looking to duplicate last year's record." But he knows there is a tough road ahead. "We're a lot weaker (than last year), there's no question. Unless we get some top players it will be tough to repeat. That's CUNY athletics... Up and down years."

This year's team might be troubled by its lack of a leader. When asked if his team had one, Eng replied, "Not at this point, no."

Eng, the coach, is excited about having to teach the game, "It's a good challenge for me. I have to work harder to get them to a higher level."

The highest level, if possible.

Notes: The team opens its season Sept. 11 against Molloy.

It opens its home schedule on Sept. 18 versus big rival Mt. St. Vincent. The Stateswomen's next home games are on Sept. 25 and 27 against Marymount and College of New Rochelle.

Soccer Team Has High Hopes

For Another CUNY Crown

By Mickey Kramer

As David Bowie might say, "Oh ch ch ch changes."

Baruch's soccer team won the CUNY Conference Championship last season with a record of 8-5-1. This year, though, both goalies (Alex Fares and Gary St. Joy) will be moved to defense and forward, respectively.

The addition of rookie goalie Mark Lambare made the changes possible. Fares will serve as the back-up.

Leading the defense this year will be returnees Edward Brown, Rassen Fares (Alex's brother) and Ernest Cendaud. Also, Miguel Burnet, a newcomer will play centerback.

Coach Anthony Henry says, "I expect a lot from him. I would like him to fill the shoes of four-time CUNY All-Star, Pierre Louis."

Next up are the midfielders.

Henry says, "I believe that the strength of our team is our midfield because they are mostly returning players."

Returning player, indeed.

Sevev Tezmenidis is the team captain. He was a first-team All-Star and was voted the CUNY M.V.P. He also led the team in scoring with nine goals and seven assists.

Others anchoring the midfield include Jeff Rainey, Aziz Laghrovri (who was last season's team Rookie of the Year), Carlos Almeida, who is the most promising player, who Henry calls "an all-around performer."

Junior Cooper also plays midfield, but fills in on defense.

While Devin Thornhill does double-duty by helping out the forward position.

The forward core is led by Andrew Sewell, who led the team last year with 10 goals. He also chipped in with four assists. Noel Shelley is a new player. Henry says, "He will add a lot to the offense." Others expected to score are Guy Celestin, Herman Ordendien and Sherris Emera.

In order to defend the CUNY crown, the Statesmen will have to play in a playoff at the end of the season. The first four teams will battle as one plays four and two plays three. The winners will meet to decide the new CUNY Champion.

Henry says, "We are looking forward to it again, even with the loss of three key members."

Due to the many changes, the defense is going to need to do the most work. "We have a lot of work to do, especially on defense. The coordination of defense needs help and also the transition from defense to offense," Henry says.

"I need help from the offense." Coach Henry is hoping Bowie will be singing, "Oh ch ch ch Champions."
