Gunman Wounds Baruch Student

By Erie Loyola

Baruch student Andrew G. Lazan, 22, who friends and acquaintances describe as "outgoing" and "amiable," was critically wounded in a shooting incident near his home in Little Neck, Queens, in the early morning hours of Sunday, Oct. 13.

Lazan was found at his neighbors' home on the kitchen floor, with three gunshot wounds to the neck and abdomen. Last night he was listed in critical but stable condition at Long Island Jewish Hospital.

Andrew Brooks Jr., who wounded Lazan and another man, was taken to a hospital. Eluardo G. Martinez, 21, who lived at 98-10好像 etc., killed himself later that day.

Lazan, who was a writer for The Ticker and currently serving as president for membership in the Baruch Chapter of the African American Student Federation, said, "I'm shocked. I can't believe that could happen to Andy." Another of his close friends, William Hudelmaier, requested the prayers of the students for Lazan's quick recovery.

Students Invite Jeffries to Baruch

Jewish Students Plan Protest

By Erie Loyola

At 6:00 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 17, in the Baruch College Auditorium at 17 Lexington Avenue, a forum on multicultural education will include Professor Leonard Jeffries as one of the panelists. The event, which is the work of eight clubs and associations, has sparked little controversy of itself. But it is the choice of Professor Leonard Jeffries as one of the panelists which has caused Jewish students on Baruch's campus to plan a protest.

The chairman of the African Studies Department at City College has drawn criticism and has been accused of making anti-Semitic remarks in a speech delivered at the Empire Black Arts and Cultural Festival in Albany on July 20.

"The purpose of the panel is to continue to explore multicultural education, what it's about, how it can improve our schools and colleges," said Michelle Payne, moderator of the forum. Payne asserted that a multicultural curriculum is long in being recognized as needed at the University at Queens College on Oct. 13.

At Queens College on Oct. 13, over Kim Ray, a delegate to the USS from Hunter College.

Baruch's Day Session Student Government president and day delegate to the USS, Lavonda Davis, was elected to the position of Vice Chair of Fiscal Affairs. This position was formerly held by Rafael "LaMarre," who recently released a "curriculum of inclusion" dates back to the sum of approximately $407,000. LaMarre said that the press had given him only to divide students further along racial lines.

Many times during the eight-hour plenary session, when LaMarre spoke, he was greeted with calls and heckling cries from the gallery. Shouts of "Where's our money?" and "high-five!" erupted in a frenzy of hugs and "high-five!"

A cloud of controversy has followed LaMarre since last month, after his expense record came under scrutiny by all local baruch colleges. LaMarre was accused of misallocation of USS funds.

"High-five!" which state that if no candidate received a majority of votes, LaMarre received 17 votes. Ray received 12 votes. LaMarre received 17 votes. Ray received 12 votes. LaMarre received 17 votes.

In a sign of solidarity, both Kirnon and Ray were joined hands and raised each others arms at the front of the desk where the votes had been counted. Ray hoped to receive all organized votes in the second ballot. If this had been continued on Page 5

President Matthew Goldstein, in his inaugural address on Oct. 2, dwelled on the faculty's high potential for the improvement of Baruch College.

The president stated, "We are, above everything, an educational institution. Our mission is to educate students and to reach out to the world in which they will live." He went on to say that the university's mission is to "maximize the potential of all students to become productive members of the community." He also emphasized the importance of creating a "universally accessible" curriculum that is "rooted in the realities of the world." He added, "Faculty members must be prepared to teach in the context of real-world needs." He also said, "We must be prepared to meet the challenges of the 21st century." He concluded his address by saying, "Let us continue to work together to fulfill our mission and to ensure that Baruch College remains a premier educational institution."

President Matthew Goldstein, who spoke about the reasons for Baruch College to sponsor a national recruit-ment program, delivered a speech at the Afro-centric aspect of the conference. He explained that the program would be a way for Baruch College to reach out to its African-American students, and that it would provide an opportunity for them to express their views and concerns. He also emphasized the importance of multicultural education and diversity in higher education.

Multicultural Forum

Further, University's interest in multicultural education is evident in the activities of its various student orga-izations. For example, the Multicultural Association hosts events and activities that promote understanding and respect for different cultures.

On the whole, the Multicultural Forum was a success, providing a platform for diverse voices to be heard and for students to engage in meaningful dialogue. The forum highlighted the importance of multicultural education and the need for continued efforts to promote diversity and inclusion on campus.
Students Criticize Rape Forum

By Jonathan Loring
A forum entitled "The Sexual Assault and Rape on Campus" was held on Oct. 4 by the Day Session Student Government of Baruch to address the concerns of students that were put forth by the St. John's University rape case. But towards the end of the program a heated verbal exchange of views occurred, which all students and faculty involved may have been avoided.

According to a cartoon-illustrated handbook given to every member of record, Robert's Rules of Order is the basic handbook of procedure for most campus groups. Vector Lape, junior comment, "We are all included by Vector...it wouldn't be right if she didn't bother me..."

Issues that were put forth by Hernandez about the intoxicated condition of the woman in the St. John's case, which all students and faculty have in the student handbook of Roberts Rules of Order. "Baruch meant a lot to me. He was widely beloved in the Baruch community," said Todd. "He was a very shy man, a very genial man, with a sense of humor, a very gentle man. We used to talk." Todd added, "We used to talk about all kinds of literature, French literature, Russian literature. He was extremely well read."
The Day Session Student Government is having its annual meeting on Oct. 30. It is to be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Sullivan Union. The meeting is open to all students and the public is invited to attend.

The Day Session Student Government is host to an open forum on the topic of "Roberts Rules of Order." The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the rules and procedures that govern the operation of the organization.

The meeting will begin with an introduction to the rules and procedures followed by a discussion on how they are applied in practice. The discussion will be followed by a Q&A session where attendees can ask questions and share their experiences.

The meeting will conclude with a vote to approve the rules and procedures for the rest of the semester. The vote will be taken by a show of hands.

All members of the Day Session Student Government, as well as any interested individuals, are encouraged to attend this meeting. It will be held in the Sullivan Union, and refreshments will be provided.

The meeting will be moderated by the President of the Day Session Student Government, and the agenda will be posted on the organization's website prior to the meeting.

The meeting will begin at 11 a.m. and is expected to last for approximately two hours. Refreshments will be provided, and attendees are encouraged to bring their own lunches.

The Day Session Student Government looks forward to seeing everyone at the meeting.
Don't Lose Sight of the Vision

By Edward Pessen

Although the university is composed of various colleges and schools, the faculty and staff are responsible for the health and welfare of the students. The University is committed to providing a quality education that is equitable for all students. In this regard, I would like to express my concern about the treatment of Jewish students on the campus. It appears that some students are being discriminated against because of their religious beliefs.

The University has a policy of non-discrimination and all students should be treated equally. It is unfortunate that some students feel uncomfortable in certain situations. I believe that the University should take steps to ensure that all students feel safe and valued.

I am writing to express my concern about the way Jewish students are being treated on the campus. It seems that some students are being harassed and intimidated. I believe that the University should take immediate action to address this situation.

I urge the University to take steps to ensure that all students feel safe and valued. I am concerned about the treatment of Jewish students and I believe that the University should take action to address this issue.

I would like to hear from you about this matter. I am eager to learn more about the University's policies and procedures for addressing issues of discrimination.

Sincerely,
Edward Pessen

Just when you thought you've seen every type of "coming-of-age" movie there was, Just when you thought you'd seen every type of "coming-of-earth" movie there was, "The Man In The Moon" is a slow-paced, sensitive film about teenagers growing-up and falling in love in 1967 Lexington. The movie begins with fourteen year-old Elvis-loving, tomboy, Danielle "Danni" Trant family. Marie Foster, the girl's start to do a lot of things that are new to them. The very first thing they do is to bake cookies. They crawl into a pond in which they are told not to dive. The pond is surrounded by a fence. The dictionary has its own vocabulary and all of it is used to make this movie more believable. It is a movie that can be enjoyed by the whole family.

OCTOBER 19, 1998
"Little Man Tate" by Lenny Vigliotti

The recent explosion in the comic book industry has stimulated a new audience for collectors of proper grading systems. The purpose of this particular column is to let you know what I think are the best ways to store your comic books. Although there may be others collectors, I'm a lifetime collector of comic books.

A comic book is in good condition in a book that has been damaged and can be sold regardless of age. A collector looking to sell his comics should expect to get about 30% of the current respective guide prices from a dealer, so you should expect yourself at least 25 to 30% of its worth. This is the most any seller will give you for your comic, especially if it is in good condition. The dealer may ask for a small fee and he or she may ask for anywhere from 0.5 to 1% of the current guide price.

The first being that the dealer must make a profit and the second is that the seller is selling the book for the best price that the dealer can get. Some sellers even receive a bonus for selling more books. If you're seeking the top price for the book, you'll have to have a comic book in very good condition.

Comic books have a strict grading system. There are six levels of condition in a comic book in good condition. In the lower, the amount of money the collector can expect to receive is guaranteed. The six grades of comic books are: very fine, fine, very good, good, fine, and near mint. There are many factors that affect the grade of a comic book in any of these categories. A comic book that has sharp edges, pages that are clean, a cover that has been taped, and is perfectly centered with no signs of aging is a Mint book and a comic book can earn as much as 100% of the book's worth. However, there are a few factors that contribute to the condition of a comic book.

A comic book in fine condition is grading 5.0. The comic book is in good condition and can be sold regardless of age. A comic book in very good condition is grading 4.0. There are no markings or any signs of wear but has obviously been read and thumbed. A book in this condition can garner about 85% of the current guide price and 75% in very fine condition. A comic book in very good condition is considered to be a wall-read comic. There are no markings, and the condition is equal to a 90% grade in any of these categories. A comic book that has sharp edges, pages that are clean, a cover that has been taped, and is perfectly centered with no signs of aging is a Mint book and a comic book can earn as much as 100% of the book's worth. Remember When: Miles Davis

Fifty years ago was when Miles Davis found his own mantle and identity. Davis felt the melodies, sweeps through his music.

His chart-topping albums put him on the national map. For more information contact-provided number.

Miles Davis' music defies the limitations of his band leaders. His tenor saxophone solos are reminiscent of his own. The album is a two disk set, featuring some of the greatest saxophonists. Davis recorded as a band leader with such others as Parker, Herbie Hancock, as well as many other great Jazz musicians.

Mon. Oct. 25

The name implies it all. It is a loser of points on high and low trumpet sounds, accidental soloistic experimentation and of course Davis doing what he does best. The album is a two disk set, featuring some of the greatest saxophonists. Davis recorded as a band leader with such others as Parker, Herbie Hancock, as well as many other great Jazz musicians.

Davis' music defies the limitations of his band leaders. His tenor saxophone solos are reminiscent of his own. The album is a two disk set, featuring some of the greatest saxophonists. Davis recorded as a band leader with such others as Parker, Herbie Hancock, as well as many other great Jazz musicians.

Baseball Team Gets Ready For Winter Workouts

By David A. Amir

As the Baruch baseball team heads into their winter workout out to improve their talent, other teams will have to find a way to best this new team. Baruch is no longer a spiritless team lacking in ability. They are a team that practices and finds a way to win their games.

The team finished their fall season by sweeping New York University in a two game series. On Saturday September 28 four pitchers for Baruch combined to win a 6-0. NYU was held off to 5 hits and 2 walks.

On the following day the off day the team met a 13-7 win. There were no runovers but a lot of contact.

The team was supposed to play Queens College during the fall finals but the game was rained out.

In conclusion: First, we will start with the outfield. The outfield will be led by center fielder Washington Zurita. His bat and ability to catch up to well hit balls will help the pitching staff. In left you will find the speedy Mark Eckroth. Eckroth must use his speed to help him get out baserunners. He must hust and put the ball in play. If he does, he will have a high base percentage. Eckroth also has the power to hit balls into the alley, that which will turn a stand up double into a triple. In right, you will find rookie Bobby Lawton. Lawton is another good offensive player. Just because he's a rookie doesn't expect him to make those rookie mistakes. He is not your typical outfielder. He doesn't hit many homeruns, he doesn't strikeout very often, he won't throw out runners at the plate on the fly. But, he does the little things perfectly. He hits the ball off the mound, when batting he works the pitcher and he has a nice stride to the plate.

Now we move on to the infield. We start with the consistent and good playing second baseman Sean Barrows. Barrows has the ability to make the infield look incredible. If they make bad throws, Barrows will smother it. In the fall he batted in the number four slot and he raise to the occasion. Eckroth is the man that has the power to be there. At the hot corner there is rookie Frank Pefia. He is a sure handed third baseman. He will not make an error on the routine plays and he will come up with the diving catch. Against Drew, he does twice to his left, get up and put the ball in play. Now in the middle of the infield we have the two captains. At shortstop, Jose Rivera is great. He has a rocket for an arm and a great bat. He is a two time all-star and that speaks for itself. At second we find our man, Frank Pefia is a good defensive catcher. In time he will learn to call a good game. Once that happens, look out. Offensive wise he is not a threat but that too with him just a field,great defensive catcher. This year he has a good chance to lead the team in hitting. During the fall he batted over .400 and will challenge Rivera for the batting title.

Behind the plate only one player comes to mind. John Peta. Peta is a good defensive catcher. In time he will learn to call a good game. Once that happens, look out. Offensive wise he is not a threat but that too with him just a field,great defensive catcher. This year he has a good chance to lead the team in hitting. During the fall he batted over .400 and will challenge Rivera for the batting title.

Baruch has 5 goals so far. Ahmed Pefia adds. Baruch got both goals he needed for the next game. "We can go into the playoffs and if we stay healthy we can go far," says Coach Henry. Mike Witt. I just can't remember which one was supposed to be washed up.

Quite often after a defeat you'll hear football players say, "we just didn't get up for the game." Someone should remind them, they only play one game a week.

Jet coaches wanted to try the run and shoot offense, but it failed because Ken O'Brien runs like he got shot.

Don't cry, Ishany "sky" Walker was passed up by the Olympic committee and he isn't posting. Trading Mo Cheeks doesn't mean the Knicks are giving Mark Jackson a vote of confidence. It means nobody wanted Jackson. The Rangers have just run out reasons for not winning a championship. Mark Messier is awesome.

Riddle of the week: What do you get when you cross M.C. Hammer with Lenny Dykstra and George Steinbrenner? A hammer, nails and a nut.

Who did Vince Coleman play for this season? Howard Johnson for MVP?

Don't make me laugh. Hojo had a superb offensive season, but his impersonation of Edward Scissorhands on the field really hurt the Mets. Thirty plus errors don't win you awards.

Did Eric Plunk and Charlie O'Brien really get paid? Do you think K-Rash now wishes the phone would have been busy when he called up to the Twins? "With or without Jimmey, I'm going back to the North with Jimmy Crespo, who had a good 1991 season and Alfeiro Post who got off the start­ing pitchers. Baruch also found a stopper in Rivers. That will definitely help cut when the pitchers get the wig tired in the last inning. As good as he is, he gets even more men in the last inning. The reason is to keep his arm strong and ready for the last out."

The strength on the team is definitely the pitching. Pitching coach Kevin "skip" McDermott says, "pitching is not a weakness of the team. Baruch is lacking some muscle in offense. Head coach Dan Sheehan says, "if we score four to five runs per game we will be running more games than we lose."
