CUNY Board Considers New Tuition Plan

DSSG President Calls Proposal 'Misleading'

By Rafael A. Olmeda

A new tuition schedule is set to pass a vote of the board of trustees of the City University of New York on April 27. If passed, the increased rates will go into effect beginning with the summer '92 semester.

The new tuition schedule would hike the cost of attending CUNY by $350 for anyone currently enrolled, and by $600 for incoming freshmen and transfer students. This means students already attending a senior college in CUNY will pay $1,100 per semester while new students will pay $1,700.

In addition, according to the new plan, undergraduate freshmen entering CUNY after a year's notice.
By voting "yes" to a $5 increase in the student activity fee, you can make sure that child care is available for every Baruch student who needs it.

DSSG Candidates Meet In Debate
Transcript of April 9 Face-Off

Rafael A. Gonzalez: Welcome to the DSSG Presidential Debate, sponsored by The Ticker and WBMH. Baruch College's WBMH, Myra C. Rafael Gonzalez, is the moderator of this debate, and I will be the moderator for this debate.

Baruch is in transition. Our choice of a student government president, and of a council as well, take on particular significance when you consider that the College budget is being slashed and the cuts are being allocated by a president who has been here as long as some of us. The voice of the students in this case must be powerful. It must not be complicit and it must not be silenced. More than anything else, it must be heard, for unless it is heard, it will never be acted upon.

Three men stand before you today asking you to make them that voice. Now is your chance to hear what they have to say in their own words, without anyone standing between them and you. Consider them carefully, individually, and objectively. Then in the first week of May you will have the chance to decide who your voice will be.

The first candidate is Angelo Gougoussis. He is a junior at Baruch, and running as an independent student for the position of president of DSSG. The issues you're talking about. You've been in office for a year. I haven't seen any changes or anything as compared to other colleges that I've worked, such as Queensborough Community College, LaGuardia Community College, Hunter, St. John's University, and I think that the student government, together and addressed the issues with what's going on with student activities. The office you've been in, you've managed to keep the student government info, useful to the students, referencing the issues. I really can't say that I'm going to get together and go to work with you. I'm going to try to put some differences aside and try to work as a unified body, regardless of our differences in council and our opinions.

Olmeda: Thank you Rafael. First of all welcome all the fellow students and candidates for being here. As you all know my name is Olmeda. I'm not a member of DSSG, and I have been around for 7 years, and granted they have gotten a lot of support, and granted they have a lot of support. We have also a semi-full ticket. Simon neglected to mention that he has one person missing from upper council. We need leadership, they know what's going on in campus and they want to be dynamic as well as the rest of the people that tell us what to do. The only thing we disagree, but go ahead anyway.

Angelo Gougoussis: I would like to first of all welcome all the fellow students and candidates for being here today. As you all know my name is Angelo Gougoussis. The platform I'm running in on is...
Herelle:

Herelle:

Lavonda (Davis). Why didn't you? That's what.

Herelle:

No, I'm not in that question.

P.C. I understand what you are attempting to do here and I certainly do respect you, but I think what you say is that the general perception is that excess money definitely has not worked and that decision making has been affected, and that was not presented in this year. The question in this, very specifically, does agree with the position of the question that is being asked and if you do not agree with that 100% sure.

Herelle:

Well, I do not want to get into a confrontation with Test about whether I disagree or agree. I went out of what specifically that's addressing, whether it's my performance, before I can respond to it.

P.C. That's the chair's job.

Herelle: That's your job also. It's your job to be a diplomat. If the chair's control cannot control it's up to you to do it and we're not going to talk about Lavonda (Davis). Why don't you? That's what I know.

Herelle:

I think me, let me address the issue that I did tackle. Council made a real mistake. I was on a council when you have our councils as a table and trying to decide which issues they want to project, which issues they want to support them. If you want to actually help the people who have

Herelle:

First of all, Sherry was considered to be the vice presidency. Herelle: I was considered to be the vice presidency. However, she was never actually a student who was can have an interest in this, you know. As far as the issues of what you have or haven't or if you haven't taken any education. You can decide about it. I have been long-term for the English department. We have been long-term for the English department. And to the extent that everybody understands, there are two separate directions. The Math is going one way, and the English is going another way. These are the two areas of the program. If she can't take their basic English and Math courses, or can they get out with a degree?

Herelle: Finally, with regard to the bulletin boards. The bulletin boards were taken down as the conception of the seven that took place over the last weeks. This is not to say that they're going to be gone permanently. Bulletin boards will be replaced. That's a major concern of the USA. Rest assured, they will be replaced.

P.C.: Is that a campaign promise, thematic?

Herelle: No, that's not a campaign promise. That's something that is committed to. The bulletin boards will be replaced. That's something that is, that can be called an RFCYC. It's concern, you know, very early on. It will be addressed.

With regard to the more consequential issue, replacement of eligible candidates that is, the replacement of the advisory council, the administration has not been very helpful. There is no law. There is no law. And that decision making has been affected, and that decision making has been affected, and that decision making has been affected, and that decision making has been affected.

Herelle:

No, I'm not in that question. I have no actual experience

Herelle: I recall that is the routine obligation of the. DSSG as a government? .

P.C. With respect to the last question, the petition that was initiated grant program that you propose will be an effective means of putting together a package of support. These are people who do not have in that regard. I'm not that kind of people. I'm not that kind of people. I'm not that kind of people. I'm not that kind of people.

Wiesenhart: First of all, Sherry was considered to be the vice presidency. However, she was never actually a student who was can have an interest in this, you know. As far as the issues of what you have or haven't or if you haven't taken any education. You can decide about it. I have been long-term for the English department.

when fall comes around and the year starts.

Wasserbart: Well, I have a personal problem with anyone running with anyone. I just along with a lot of people in that we have personal differences at. I like, I think that someone who talks with someone, you'll find a point and will still keep on speaking. That's the whole point of government, not that personal fight between parties. It's really internal because of the student where it's there. They're nothing of all along with SUA, right now that's just a selection and that's just people about that. That's the student to decide who has leadership and one selected that they are working together. It's no longer a party in a government.

Kathryn Garea to Angela Gogosian

Gogosian: This year, you're final here for first year, you have some of the student government meeting. How have you acquainted yourself with the College, it's student life and administration, and why do you believe what you have done is far enough to warrant your election as our representative?

Gogosian: First of all, this is my first first election and I have some of our student government meeting. How have you acquainted yourself with the College, its student life and administration, and why do you believe what you have done is far enough to warrant your election as our representative?

With regard to the English lab help, Baruch College has a high level of prevention. I'm here to do my part in the prevention of both English and Math. I'm here to do my part in the prevention of both English and Math. I'm here to do my part in the prevention of both English and Math.

Baruch: In terms of the PEF advance - I'm looking into that. What happens up there to them, I don't know. What happens up there to them, I don't know. What happens up there to them, I don't know.

Wasserbart: The Ticker, that involved a lot of people in the community. The Ticker, that involved a lot of people in the community. The Ticker, that involved a lot of people in the community.

It is a government.

The Ticker, that involved a lot of people in the community. The Ticker, that involved a lot of people in the community. The Ticker, that involved a lot of people in the community.

There are approximately 10,000 letters being written for the cause. That's the whole point of government. That's the whole point of government. That's the whole point of government.

Let's just go on and find out issues, finding out who are behind them.

The Ticker, that involved a lot of people in the community. The Ticker, that involved a lot of people in the community. The Ticker, that involved a lot of people in the community.

AT&T Debates

DSSG Debate

Baruch: I have no issue with anybody running on the ABC party who are currently on government. I mean the implication that Rafael raised is a good one, in that if you're accusing government of being incompetent for the last year and you're talking current government members to run on that ticket the implication is that I have some incompetent people with me. The people who have done some technical work, some work, that have been well supervised. John, Tom and whoever else they are, you've done some good work. I wish you the best of luck. One more thing, most of the competent people, the rest of them are the ABC party.

Closing Statements
Baruch: Basically, the thing that I stand for has been displayed today. There have been few topics that have been well supervised and it is up to you as students to decide who you'd like to lead you for your next year. Thank you.

Gore: Welcome. Mr. Baruch, I'd like to say that you said it's not a time to change things. Well, I think it is, with the attitude that you have. (The rest of Gore's closing statement was

Vote in the Student Elections

The elections are in May 5-7. Get out there and vote and put the best man in office.
Support the Child Care Refundation Vote Yes

It's time to put our money where our mouth is. By supporting the child care refundation vote, you're saying that instead of paying for the needs of relatively few, we should be paying for the needs of relatively many. By voting yes, you're telling the President that the child care refundation program is not only necessary, but it's also a moral imperative.

The Joe Iuscu Tuition Plan

"Okay, here's what we do. For current students, don't miss one class. For former students, don't miss one class. For everyone else, don't miss one class. We're going to make sure that every student gets a full education."

Distinguished Teacher in the True Sense

"I have been teaching for 30 years, and I have yet to find a teacher who is as dedicated to their students as Dr. Martinez. He is always there for his students, and he always goes the extra mile to ensure that they succeed."

Deja-Vu All Over Again

The: Ticker, April 6, 1980

To the Editor:

I was quite surprised and segmentation at the expense of genuine discourse. I have been a subscriber of The Ticker for many years, and I have always found it to be a valuable resource. However, I have noticed a recent trend towards fragmentation and polarization of discourse.

The Ticker is a forum for the exchange of ideas and opinions among the University community. It is important that we continue to foster a culture of open and respectful dialogue. I urge all members of the University community to contribute to a more inclusive and constructive discourse in The Ticker.

What Has DSSG Done For Us Lately?

By Stefan Dembowski

Once again Baruch students must ask themselves, are we getting our money's worth for the tuition we pay to Baruch College? Just a few weeks ago we participated in the annual fund drive. For those of you who are not familiar with the DSSG and don't plan on re-enrolling at Baruch College, here is a quick review of what DSSG and the Student Services office have done to benefit Baruch students in recent years.

DSSG has made the following contributions:
1. $260 annual check to the Office of the Mayor
2. $2,000 donated annually to the Information Desk
3. $3,000 to the City University to help pay for the police that patrol our campus
4. $2,700 for the presidents of the student organization to attend the Annual Meeting
5. $1,210 for the Mayor's office
6. $2,160 to the Mayor's office
7. $2,200 for the City Council
8. $2,000 for the mayor's office
9. $2,100 for the City Council

In total, DSSG has provided $10,400 to Baruch College. While this may seem like a small amount, it is important to remember that these contributions are not made for the benefit of the students, but for the benefit of the City of New York.

In conclusion, DSSG has failed to fulfill its promise of providing benefits to Baruch students. We must continue to pressure the DSSG to do more for us.

What's He Been Smoking?

To the Editor:

I read Joe Conlan's drug article in the Daily News section of the March 4th, 1992 issue of the New York Daily News. I am a member of the Baruch College community and I found the article to be misleading and inaccurate. Joe Conlan's article contains several factual errors and distortions. I am writing to correct these errors and to express my concern about the quality of journalism in the New York Daily News.

First, I would like to clarify that Joe Conlan's article is not based on any recent research or data. He seems to have simply relied on old and outdated information. For example, he claims that drug use among college students has decreased significantly, when in fact the opposite is true. In reality, drug use among college students has increased over the past decade.

Second, Joe Conlan's article is misleading because he fails to provide a balanced perspective. He does not mention the positive effects of drug use on creativity and innovation, nor does he discuss the role of drugs in promoting social connectedness. Instead, he focuses solely on the negative aspects of drug use, such as addiction and harm to health.

Lastly, I am concerned about the quality of journalism in the New York Daily News. The paper seems to be more interested in sensational headlines and点击生成器插件，点击生成器插件

Robert Martinez, chairman of the Black and Hispanic Studies Department, died unexpectedly of AIDS.

He had been ill for several months, but it wasn't until the spring semester that his health prevented him from teaching.

Dr. Martinez helped to develop 20 Hispanic Studies courses for the curriculum of the Black and Hispanic Studies Department, according to Prof. Arthur Lewis, who replaced him as chairman.

"I don't mind writing a recommendation for any of you, but just remember me when you get there." In his Puerto Rican and Dominican Heritage classes, Dr. Martinez taught students that Latinos are ethnically diverse, having African, European and Asian influences that were mixed into the many aboriginal tribes like the Taíno, that had existed before the "invasion of Columbus," as Dr. Martinez referred to the explorer's arrival to the Americas.

"His lectures were filled with truth and not fiction like most professors feel they should do to make the history sound good," says Miriam Rodriguez, who took his course on Puerto Rican Heritage from Pre-Columbian Times to 1898 with. He also made students aware that the struggle of Latinos in the Caribbean and in South America is similar, if not identical, to that of the black Caribbean who are faced with economic, social and political problems that force many to immigrate to the United States in search of a better life for themselves and their children.

Last spring, Dr. Martinez invited a speaker who worked with AIDS patients at the Beth Israel Hospital and informed students of the terrifying illness and how it affects everyone.

Many of the students who sat there heard of or knew of someone who had AIDS or died from it, but knew that the man who brought them together that morning was also dying of the same disease.

Dr. Martinez always had much to say and many things to do, and it rarely occurred to students that those many meetings he constantly was rushing off to concentrated on minority enrollment, Black and Latino courses and economic development in the community.

"The thing I remember most about Mr. Martinez was the feeling that always left his class with new knowledge," says Christian Somoa, a student in Dr. Martinez's Latin American course in fall '91. "His class was not easy and the material could be complex, but at the end of the semester you left with knowledge on a topic of topics that you did not have before you took the class. I think that was why he was considered to be a good professor."

The Interdenominational Christian Fellowship, Korean Christian Fellowship, and Chinese Christian Fellowship, on April 5 celebrated their first annual Chinese Christian Day. The event was a two-week celebration with prayer and worship, which included worship services, Bible readings, and a dramatic reading of the Bible. The Chinese Christian Day was a significant event for the community, as it brought together people from different cultures to celebrate their faith and unity.

Ad Society Goes For The Win

By Bilyta Yee

The Advertising Society entered a district competition held in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania during the week of April 16. The Ad Society, which is a collegiate chapter of the American Advertising Federation, has done an immense amount of work to represent Baruch College in the competition. Each year the AAF together with corporate sponsors, propose a real-life situation and an assignment to each school in the district. This year's assignment was to promote Vian. In order to promote Vian, the employees at the advertising agency had to do research on the client's commodity and industry. They did research on college markets, what affects them, their purchasing power, and demographics. They had to come up with a creative work in order to gain recognition and opportunities also provide media and sales promotions. They did surveys, interviews even more, they also had to market the students merchandise their grades out of their reach of advertising. Most schools give actual credit for competition while Baruch College does not. I feel that the silver and bronze by the club members deserve much recognition.

1989 marked the 25th year of the long-running records era of one of the original British bands. It was also the year of the Kinks, lead by Ray Davis, and their final album, U.K. Jive.

The Kinks were a band of revolutionaries. They put together a new sound on their first records, and continued to push the boundaries of rock music. Their fans were called Kinkophiles.

- U.K. Jive was not backed by their fans, but the band's spirit continued. The album was a commercial and critical success.

Well, it's finally here. What's that you say? Oh, I'm sorry I forgot to tell you. Well, hear this: The new Def Leppard album has finally reached record stores around the world. Big deal! Adventurer can be best summed up in one word and that word is "corporate!" The Def Leppard sound is a combination of the worst of hard rock and the worst of pop music. Def Leppard will not give you any "empowerment." The Lea, Joe Elliott of the "video's" is so called in the album song, "Rock-n-Roll Band," and his appearance is as corporate as his music.

"We're doing well," said coach Chung on the eve of the team's first two conference matches.

Baruch opened its season with three losses against St. John's, Queens College, and Framingham State.

The losses were expected by St. John's coach, who said his team had a "very good" chance of winning.

Another problem was the team's inconsistency. "It's a tough season," said coach Chung. "We're looking forward to next year, but we need to improve our performance.
