Students Win Battle in Campaign To Extend Newman Library Hours

For Now, DSSG Will Pay Costs That College Can't Afford

By Jason S. Grant and D.J. Frieh

Day Session Student Government, with the Evening Session Student Assembly and other student run organizations, has struck a deal with the college that will keep the new William and Anita Newman Library open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Fridays throughout the month of December.

The deal, in which DSSG will fund the extra library hours, is a temporary maneuver which DSSG President Derrick Zhang hopes will lead to a permanent change in the operating hours of the new facility.

"Come exam time students want to study late in the library," Zhang said, adding that library extended hours are going to be a time to survey the extent to which students will want to use the library at night.

"DSSG started pushing for longer hours last year and this is the first time that the college has agreed to work with us," said Zhang, "and it is only after DSSG agreed to fund the additional hours.

"Student government made a gracious offer and we could not refuse," said Kristin McDonough, Chief Librarian.

Students To Be Surveyed

During the extended hours, a survey will be distributed to determine how long future extended hours should last as well as what services should be rendered during those hours.

McDonough feels that the December hours will be highly utilized but she emphasizes that she still does not know what services the students will want.

"Are they coming in to study, or are they coming in to use the library services?" asked Michael Calabria, assistant head of Reference at the Newman Library.

Calabria's question was asked at a November 16 meeting between administration personnel and student leaders to discuss the issue of library hours.

"It will give us a better sense of who uses the library," said McDonough, speaking of the survey.

Ascertaining what students will use the library for is critical to the development of a policy that will use the library primarily as a place to study, then it may prove less costly to open study rooms instead.

One possible option is the first floor lounge at the 25th Street building, but that room has been criticized as inadequate. The capacity of that room is extremely small," said ESSA President Aneela Rajaram. "Do you tell students sorry, there's no more room?"

As usual, there will be several large study areas open in the 24th Street building until midnight during exam periods, but this is only a temporary solution. After this semester, 24th Street will be closed.

Increased Library Hours Will Mean Budget Cuts Elsewhere

If, however, the survey determines that students use the library primarily to access library services, then the school will have to examine means of funding the library for additional hours—not an easy task in the current age of bare-bones budgets. Furthermore, several administrators expressed a belief that funding would face additional cuts once Governor-elect George E. Pataki assumes office, causing even more uncertainty.

Because funding is tight, opening the library for additional hours will impact the budget somewhere else.

"We expect this study to lead to a decision as to what permanent access changes will be made. "For so many years, when we lacked an attractive and adequate facility, in order to
Cuomo Authorizes CUNY
Task Force: Will Train
People To Work With Disabled
Will Consolidate Three Existing Programs
By Marlon Del-Valls
On October 13, Governor Cuomo signed an executive order to establish a public/health task force in City University of New York graduate schools, to develop new strategies for training workers who provide direct care to people with disabilities," according to a press release issued by the CUNY office of University Relations.
This program is a result of three other such programs in CUNY.
In 1990, the Governor's Cone-tinum for the Study of Disabilities and Developmental Disabilities (CSDDD) and the John F. Kennedy Fellows Program were created, the first university-wide disabilities educational programs in the nation. The New York State Office of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities were also involved in this program and occupied, it allowed mental health workers to participate. Presently, the Governor's Task Force in New York City is developing a task force in New York City.
Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds is making CUNY schools that the city has the measure of funding control."... the demand for college graduates.
"At the November 14 hearing, Reynolds addressed the City Council Finance Committee and the Education Committee on the manner of eroding city support for these community colleges.
Turning away great numbers of applicants will hurt the city and state tax bases in the future, according to Dr. David Lavin, whose research on open admissions is made public in a book Changing the Odds: Open Admissions and the Life Chances of the Disadvantaged, expected out in 1995.
According to Levin, a person with an associate's degree will earn an average of about $23,000 more over a forty year career than someone with only a high school education.
For someone with a bachelor's degree, the average figure climbs to approximately $90,000 more than a high school graduate.
Lavin estimates that, as a result of CUNY's original open admission policy during the seventies, students previously included in the odds of a city worker/students, of George E. Pataki as Governor program, which was set up by Dr.
G. Kennedy Jr., in 1990, to "outstanding workers, students, attending in the CUNY program,
and working in the field of mental retardation and development-disabilities, who are chosen for scholarship grants," which gives the program and the workers a hands-on perspective of the correct and most efficient way to care for disabled people.
"In 1990 the New York Department of Mental Retardation and Health expanded the CUNY program to include assistant teachers and para-professionals.
Last year, with the help of the New York State Office of Mental Health, the program expanded once again. This time, the program expanded to develop and train additional mental health workers to participate. Presently, the New York State Office of Mental Health's program is developing a program for home health care workers and personal care
assumptions.
Programs are to care for people with disabilities," according to a press release issued by the CUNY office of University Relations. This program is a result of three other such programs in CUNY. In 1990, the Governor's Consortium for the Study of Disabilities and Developmental Disabilities (CSDDD) and the John F. Kennedy Fellows Program were created, the first university-wide disabilities educational programs in the nation. The New York State Office of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities were also involved in this program and occupied, it allowed mental health workers to participate. Presently, the Governor's Task Force in New York City is developing a program for home health care workers and personal care assistants.
Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds is making CUNY schools that the city has the measure of funding control. "At the November 14 hearing, Reynolds addressed the City Council Finance Committee and the Education Committee on the manner of eroding city support for these community colleges. Turning away great numbers of applicants will hurt the city and state tax bases in the future, according to Dr. David Lavin, whose research on open admissions is made public in a book Changing the Odds: Open Admissions and the Life Chances of the Disadvantaged, expected out in 1995. According to Levin, a person with an associate's degree will earn an average of about $23,000 more over a forty year career than someone with only a high school education. For someone with a bachelor's degree, the average figure climbs to approximately $90,000 more than a high school graduate. Lavin estimates that, as a result of CUNY's original open admission policy during the seventies, students previously in-cluded in the odds of a city worker/students, of George E. Pataki as Governor program, which was set up by Dr. G. Kennedy Jr., in 1990, to "outstanding workers, students, attending in the CUNY program, and working in the field of mental retardation and development disabilities, who are chosen for scholarship grants," which gives the program and the workers a hands-on perspective of the correct and most efficient way to care for disabled people. "In 1990 the New York Department of Mental Retardation and Health expanded the CUNY program to include assistant teachers and para-professionals. Last year, with the help of the New York State Office of Mental Health, the program expanded once again. This time, the program expanded to develop and train additional mental health workers to participate. Presently, the New York State Office of Mental Health's program is developing a program for home health care workers and personal care assistants.
Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds is making CUNY schools that the city has the measure of funding control. "At the November 14 hearing, Reynolds addressed the City Council Finance Committee and the Education Committee on the manner of eroding city support for these community colleges. Turning away great numbers of applicants will hurt the city and state tax bases in the future, according to Dr. David Lavin, whose research on open admissions is made public in a book Changing the Odds: Open Admissions and the Life Chances of the Disadvantaged, expected out in 1995. According to Levin, a person with an associate's degree will earn an average of about $23,000 more over a forty year career than someone with only a high school education. For someone with a bachelor's degree, the average figure climbs to approximately $90,000 more than a high school graduate. Lavin estimates that, as a result of CUNY's original open admission policy during the seventies, students previously in-cluded in the odds of a city worker/students, of George E. Pataki as Governor program, which was set up by Dr. G. Kennedy Jr., in 1990, to "outstanding workers, students, attending in the CUNY program, and working in the field of mental retardation and development disabilities, who are chosen for scholarship grants," which gives the program and the workers a hands-on perspective of the correct and most efficient way to care for disabled people. "In 1990 the New York Department of Mental Retardation and Health expanded the CUNY program to include assistant teachers and para-professionals. Last year, with the help of the New York State Office of Mental Health, the program expanded once again. This time, the program expanded to develop and train additional mental health workers to participate. Presently, the New York State Office of Mental Health's program is developing a program for home health care workers and personal care assistants.
Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds is making CUNY schools that the city has the measure of funding control. "At the November 14 hearing, Reynolds addressed the City Council Finance Committee and the Education Committee on the manner of eroding city support for these community colleges. Turning away great numbers of applicants will hurt the city and state tax bases in the future, according to Dr. David Lavin, whose research on open admissions is made public in a book Changing the Odds: Open Admissions and the Life Chances of the Disadvantaged, expected out in 1995. According to Levin, a person with an associate's degree will earn an average of about $23,000 more over a forty year career than someone with only a high school education. For someone with a bachelor's degree, the average figure climbs to approximately $90,000 more than a high school graduate. Lavin estimates that, as a result of CUNY's original open admission policy during the seventies, students previously in-cluded in the odds of a city worker/students, of George E. Pataki as Governor program, which was set up by Dr. G. Kennedy Jr., in 1990, to "outstanding workers, students, attending in the CUNY program, and working in the field of mental retardation and development disabilities, who are chosen for scholarship grants," which gives the program and the workers a hands-on perspective of the correct and most efficient way to care for disabled people. "In 1990 the New York Department of Mental Retardation and Health expanded the CUNY program to include assistant teachers and para-professionals. Last year, with the help of the New York State Office of Mental Health, the program expanded once again. This time, the program expanded to develop and train additional mental health workers to participate. Presently, the New York State Office of Mental Health's program is developing a program for home health care workers and personal care assistants.
HELP FEED THE HOMELESS
Golden Key National Honor Society needs motivated volunteers to help feed New York City's homeless population on Saturday, December 17, 1994 from 8:15 to 11:00 a.m., at 153 E. 44th Street between Lexington of Energy of 3rd Avenue.
For additional information or to sign up, call Christine Davenport at (718) 494-0881 (home), or (212) 666-7275 (office; from 4 to 11 p.m.)

RABBI TO SPEAK AT BARUCH
Rabbi Adin Steinsaltz, an internationally renowned scholar, will speak on the topic "Can there be honesty in government?" The event, to be held on Thursday, December 8, 1994 at 6 p.m., will be at the Baruch College Conference Center, on the 7th floor of 151 E.22nd Street. The event is free and open to the public, for reservations call (212) 387-1099.

DSBG FORMS NEW COMMITTEE
The Day Student Government has formed a new committee, the DSBG Ad Hoc Committee, to gather information from clubs in order to help DSBG arrive at informed and equitable decisions in matters regarding clubs. The committee will be sending packets of information to all clubs, and requests that the enclosed questionnaires be filled out and returned as soon as possible, in order to help the committee fulfill its mission.

END OF SEMESTER PARTY!
The Ticker invites you to our annual end of semester holiday party. Come one, come all and be in the presence of GREATNESS (our staff!!!)

The Place: Pizzeria Uno's, 3rd Ave. between 10th and 11th Ave.
The Date: Wednesday, December 14
The Time: 6:00 p.m. until...

If You Want To Be A Smart Player In The Business Field, You Have To Wear The Right Uniform.
Wearing The Right Suit Is Your Key To Success On Any Job Interview.

We at Cambridge Members, the manufacturer/retailers of fine menswear at manufacturers' prices, are offering 20% off to all students who bring this coupon for all your professional wardrobe needs.

Continued from page three
In the same period, community college enrollment has increased from 57,181 to 78,833 students. The results of such cuts in class sizes and over 5,000 on waiting lists to get into certain programs.

Reynolds noted that the 56% of the student body come from households with per capita incomes of less than $6,000 per year and 16% from households receiving public assistance. As a direct result of attending college, nearly eight out of ten students who were receiving welfare left the welfare rolls. A CURY survey indicated that at least half of students attending CURY schools would not be financially able to attend other schools if turned away.

McDonough addresses a joint session of the City Council Finance Committee, chaired by Herbert Berman, and the Education Committee, chaired by Priscilla Wooten.

The six CUNY community colleges are Borough of Manhattan Community College, Bronx Community College, Kingsborough Community College, LaGuardia Community College, Queensborough Community College, and Queens College.

CUNY, as a whole, is comprised of seven community colleges, ten senior colleges, and affiliated graduate programs.
For Every $10 You Sell Us, $1 Bonus Buck Store Credit

More Cash And Bonus Bucks. Only At

BARUCH COLLEGE BOOKSTORE
360 Park Avenue South

What's Up With DSSG?

The Day Session Student Government's Way Of Keeping Baruch Students Informed

Welcome to the December 7, 1994 issue of Day Session Student Government's news column What's Up With DSSG. As the semester comes to an end, the students of Baruch are studying hard for their papers and final exams. Even under the tremendous pressure of finals, Day Session Student Government is continuing to serve you, the students. This column was designed to inform the Baruch student body on what Day Session Student Government is doing for you!!

Thank you for reading the column and good luck on your exams!!

Upcoming Events

Comedy Showcase
Want a good laugh? Need to relieve the pressures of school? Come check out Day Session Student Government's Comedy Showcase this Thursday, December 8. The Comedy Showcase will feature comedians Rajen and Billy Wade performing live in person. In addition, a half hour student competition for those who are brave enough will take place. The event will be held in the 23rd St. auditorium during club hours, 1:00-3:00 p.m. Take a break and chill out at DSSG's Comedy Showcase live this Thursday at 1:00 p.m.!!

Christmas Party
There will be a Christmas party this Friday, December 9 in room 1422 360 Park Ave. from 6 p.m.-10 p.m. Day Session Student Government, along with NABA, PRIDE, AMA, Phi Beta Sigma, RASS, and The Reporter is sponsoring the party. Come and have fun and please bring a toy. Music and refreshments will be available.

Special Notes

Senior Bash
As the spring semester approaches, the graduating seniors become more and more anxious, waiting out their last days at Baruch. When walking down a hall, or standing in an elevator, you might hear: “I can’t believe it, I’m finally getting out of here!” In about 10 years from now, you might be saying the same thing. But before graduation, it’s nice to have one last party—a grand event before you take off for the “real world.” Thanks to Day Session Student Government, Baruch has such an event: The Senior Bash!! Day Session Student Government is ready to begin preparing for the Senior Bash. We’re looking for five determined students to help organize this event. If you are in good standing and would like to help out in the Senior Bash, please contact Vice-President Carlos Capellan at (212) 692-6790 by December 14 (tentative). Our office is located at room 1531, 14th floor in the 360 Park Ave. building.

Library Hours Extended
As the fall semester closes, the nightmare of finals is slowly becoming reality. This means more students will want more study time and extended library hours. What has Day Session Student Government done about this? Exactly what you want!! During the month of December, the Newman Library will be open from 9 a.m.-8 p.m. on Fridays. In addition, the 24th St. building will be open until midnight as a study area. As you study for your exams long into the night, take a break and remember...Day Session Student Government is working hard for you, always.

Multi-Cultural Dinner A Success

DSSG would like to thank everyone who attended our Multi-

Special Notes

PRID~.AMA, 'PR~i With DSSG •

As the fall semester closes, the nightmare of finals is slowly becoming reality. This means more students will want more study time and extended library hours. What has Day Session Student Government done about this? Exactly what you want!! During the month of December, the Newman Library will be open from 9 a.m.-8 p.m. on Fridays. In addition, the 24th St. building will be open until midnight as a study area. As you study for your exams long into the night, take a break and remember...Day Session Student Government is working hard for you, always.

DO YOU MAKE AN EFFORT TO STUDY HARD? IF SO, YOU DESERVE THE BEST TUTORING YOUR TUITION DOLLARS CAN BUY.

In order to improve the overall tutoring program, the Academic Affairs Committee of D.S.S.G. has established a complaint book.

For each tutoring session, you will have an opportunity to:

• Make any suggestions on how tutoring could be improved
• Evaluate your tutor
• Provide or suggest solutions
• Address any problems
• Make any suggestions on how tutoring could be improved

With your input, we can identify problems and together we can work towards satisfying your tutoring needs.

To file a complaint, you can pick up a form at the D.S.S.G. office at 360 Park Ave on the 15th floor in the 1531.

ALL INFORMATION WILL BE HELD CONFIDENTIAL.

From the students... We brought you the BOOK WORM.
Giuliani's Plan To Save $7 Million Now Will Be Costly In Long Run

By now, most people have probably heard about New York City Mayor Rudolph W. Giuliani's proposal to cut $7 million from the CUNY budget. This proposal could be catastrophic, not only for the community colleges that will be directly affected, but also for New York City in general.

The Mayor's cut would force community colleges to cut back on enrollment, which would cost CUNY thousands in federal aid per student turned away—a huge blow to the university.

This comes at a time when the demand for college graduates is expected to rise in the New York area, and the demand for blue collar workers is expected to diminish, following a trend that started in the 1960s.

To students from less advantageous households, college can make the difference between poverty and success. Workers who have finished college tend to earn substantially greater income than workers with only a high school diploma. This does not only affect the individual—in the aggregate, a lot of taxable income is added to the tax base. According to one estimate, students who instituted a four-year college in the seventies gradually earned an income now only to lose many times that in the next decades.

"It seems to me that Baruch, rated the number one commuter school recently, could get more money from somewhere"

-Rory Dunn, of the West Indian Culture Club, speaking of Baruch's financial inability to increase the Newman Library's hours of operation.

"...It's time for relentless masturbation."

By Benett Maurer

All givers are identifying characteristics. The statistics have seen, drugs, alcohol, and pop culture harm children and young people. New is the nineteen- nine percent, and from the lack of funding for drug abuse is in the air. The most "big thing" on the state is that this generation is characterized as "Generation X." They should get excited. I guess with the mess Reagan left, no one must be stuck in limbo. Well, I came up with the perfect slogan for the description of our generation, an arc where fun is prohibited. An era where fun doesn't exist anyplace. This is the time when TV isn't any good for us, the tremendous violence and sex is hurting us, music is awful, smoking has been banned and is being blamed for sickness nationwide, eating meat is unhealthy and most importantly, the greatest feeling at the place were we came is now killing many people as a result of the AIDS virus. What is happening is no sex is the biggest factor to the decline here generation. Since the best sex we can get is in magazines. So pull out those magazines, it may not be the most fantasized magazine but it seems to be about the only one we can do without worrying about the harm. However I am certain that one day there will be a scientific study done and its results will say that it is bad as well.

The lack of fun is everywhere. Movie movie so fast that we don't have a chance to hear any real dialogue and if you need to be on speed to see everything in one scene. In books, we see the same lack of fun. There aren't many books that make us want to read. Some of these books are done by Baruch undergraduates, and they aren't good for students. All types and aged people can find the books at Baruch, they just need to be added to the address above for E-mail reading.

Our office is open during every hour. Any questions or need more information, just ask your advertising manager or visiting editors at the above address.

"About that article"

I left my heart in San Francisco

By Susan White

People who live outside of New York often stereotype New Yorkers as cold-hearted, mean, and snide. Isn't it ironic then, that a Mr. Stanley, before you judge all Baruch students and their schools for my criticism, ignore the fact that many of them have student who are working students, like writing for a student newspaper. A newspaper should be comprised of diversified levels, not limited. It should appeal to the general student body, not just to certain individuals such as Mr. Stanley. Mr. Stanley should know better and realize that this type of publication is respected, well-known ones, contains articles that simply do not please everyone, but that doesn't mean they are not good and wouldn't appeal to others. Current examples of this are some newspapers which also carry a second-rate magazine and a business magazine. Do you have to wage your time explaining the differences? Now is a chance to be with the students when they are not readers, but when they are writers. Third, Mr. Stanley praised the Business Section of The Ticker, the only section that he spared in his narrow minded criticism. Last but not least, Mr. Stanley also writes for the Business Section, therefore he classified the section and its staff as intellectuals with "bright futures" (including himself).

Mr. Stanley did get some validity in his argument. However, he presented his article in a presentations and opinion way for a "second-rate college" paper. The Ticker should improve its technical errors such as spelling and graphical, and even the staff is trying hard to correct its mistakes. However, no one, I think, can be made it for Mr. Stanley to charge against our students when he himself is one also.

"About that article"

I left my heart in San Francisco

By Susan White

People who live outside of New York often stereotype New Yorkers as cold-hearted, mean, and snide. Isn't it ironic then, that a Mr. Stanley, before you judge all Baruch students and their schools for my criticism, ignore the fact that many of them have student who are working students, like writing for a student newspaper. A newspaper should be comprised of diversified levels, not limited. It should appeal to the general student body, not just to certain individuals such as Mr. Stanley. Mr. Stanley should know better and realize that this type of publication is respected, well-known ones, contains articles that simply do not please everyone, but that doesn't mean they are not good and wouldn't appeal to others. Current examples of this are some newspapers which also carry a second-rate magazine and a business magazine. Do you have to wage your time explaining the differences? Now is a chance to be with the students when they are not readers, but when they are writers. Third, Mr. Stanley praised the Business Section of The Ticker, the only section that he spared in his narrow minded criticism. Last but not least, Mr. Stanley also writes for the Business Section, therefore he classified the section and its staff as intellectuals with "bright futures" (including himself).

Mr. Stanley did get some validity in his argument. However, he presented his article in a presentations and opinion way for a "second-rate college" paper. The Ticker should improve its technical errors such as spelling and graphical, and even the staff is trying hard to correct its mistakes. However, no one, I think, can be made it for Mr. Stanley to charge against our students when he himself is one also.

"About that article"

I left my heart in San Francisco

By Susan White

People who live outside of New York often stereotype New Yorkers as cold-hearted, mean, and snide. Isn't it ironic then, that a Mr. Stanley, before you judge all Baruch students and their schools for my criticism, ignore the fact that many of them have student who are working students, like writing for a student newspaper. A newspaper should be comprised of diversified levels, not limited. It should appeal to the general student body, not just to certain individuals such as Mr. Stanley. Mr. Stanley should know better and realize that this type of publication is respected, well-known ones, contains articles that simply do not please everyone, but that doesn't mean they are not good and wouldn't appeal to others. Current examples of this are some newspapers which also carry a second-rate magazine and a business magazine. Do you have to wage your time explaining the differences? Now is a chance to be with the students when they are not readers, but when they are writers. Third, Mr. Stanley praised the Business Section of The Ticker, the only section that he spared in his narrow minded criticism. Last but not least, Mr. Stanley also writes for the Business Section, therefore he classified the section and its staff as intellectuals with "bright futures" (including himself).

Mr. Stanley did get some validity in his argument. However, he presented his article in a presentations and opinion way for a "second-rate college" paper. The Ticker should improve its technical errors such as spelling and graphical, and even the staff is trying hard to correct its mistakes. However, no one, I think, can be made it for Mr. Stanley to charge against our students when he himself is one also.
The Bottom Line

Heaven Can Wait

By Candida Dollar-Kortwright

For a moment, imagine the wake of a young man whose family has grown in recent years. Victor was a single father who worked long hours to support his family. He was a loving father to his young daughter, but the weight of his responsibilities sometimes felt overwhelming. During the Carter years, these same people (in 1990 dollars) were earning less than half of what they had in real adjusted gross national product; 40% was from Reaganomics. Instead of taxes, the government turned to the private sector to fund its operations. In 1992, taxes were down 20%, and the deficit was down to $141 billion. As a percentage of GDP, it was 5.2%. In 1988, the percentage was down to 2.9. Only after the so-called "recovery" did the deficit reach its previous high of 4% of GDP. Every one of Reagan's proposed budgets was dead on arrival as the Democratic Congress continued to resist his efforts to reduce spending. He did achieve a couple of things by lowering the deficit through "deficit reduction" tax increases, one of which was the largest tax cut in American history. But the cuts did not affect the rich; they lowered their incomes like the Carter administration. During the 1992 campaign for president, Clinton spread many untruths about Reaganomics like, "Our nation has escaped the worse economic record in fifty years." During the 1980s, our government borrowed the resources that make America great, providing opportunity, seeking responsibility, rewarding work. The corrupt-down values of the 1980s must never return to snip. These quotations are from Putting People First, by Bill Clinton.

Let's get back to reality. As we know, President Ford, Vice President Bob Dole, editor of the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.

Many people believe that the rich got richer and the poor got poorer. But, according to Paul Roberts in the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.

Many people believe that the rich got richer and the poor got poorer. But, according to Paul Roberts in the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.

Many people believe that the rich got richer and the poor got poorer. But, according to Paul Roberts in the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.

Many people believe that the rich got richer and the poor got poorer. But, according to Paul Roberts in the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.

Many people believe that the rich got richer and the poor got poorer. But, according to Paul Roberts in the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.

Many people believe that the rich got richer and the poor got poorer. But, according to Paul Roberts in the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.

Many people believe that the rich got richer and the poor got poorer. But, according to Paul Roberts in the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.

Many people believe that the rich got richer and the poor got poorer. But, according to Paul Roberts in the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.

Many people believe that the rich got richer and the poor got poorer. But, according to Paul Roberts in the Wall Street Journal, there was a 31% increase in economic growth in the real inflation-adjusted national product, 15 million jobs in civilian employment were created, a 10.4% increase; there is a 45% increase in manufacturing output; there was a 12.4% increase in productivity per hour of labor. Almost 150% increase in exports of goods, a 9% increase in gross private investment, a 5% increase in personal disposable income, a 10.5% increase in real disposable income per capita, and the interest rate paid on living in about 40% above that in Japan and most of Europe.
You Can't Stay Poor

By Robert Samuel

The great British statesman Benjamin Disraeli said, "It is much easier to give than to receive." Ms. Mendez finds this to be heresy in her work as a private citizen. As far as the "wise" men and women who have the solution to all our economic problems are concerned, the only way to correct the mistakes of the past is to make the same mistakes. As for the "small brain" comment, one cannot help but wonder if the government is not simply trying to cover up the failures of its policies.

The way that Ross Limbaugh is classifying the poor is quite a bit more accurate. It is clear that there are too many people living in poverty. However, the poverty rate of the poor people will always be lower than the rate of the poor people because of the government does what the government does to what the government does to what the government does... Some people are even convicted for things they don't do. We don't know where that comes from. However, the article of October 19, was about how people have grown dependent on government.

I wanted the poor to stay poor...

In our society, the desire to make is so great that having people supplied aide by aide to them to make ends meet. This allows for very little larger income. We will have so much more fun and don't try to create or destroy anything. We live in a society that is based on the lack of the ability to make a living. I, therefore, must ask that you name me as my opinion based on facts, and not some by John F. Kennedy was a democratic idol. Every time a president has lowered taxes, the economy has grown at a great rate. Even the democratic idol, John Kennedy was a liberal. The fact of the matter is that if Kennedy had lowered taxes, the economy would have grown even more.

The mental agency will turn you down and advise you to write your opinions based on facts, and not some

The next generation...
The Nation Of The Rising Sun Has Left Its Mark
Just In-Time Manufacturing Is Right-On Target

By Wendel Hinds

The concept of Just-In-Time (JIT) inventory management has been gaining ground since its introduction by the Toyota Motor Company of Japan in the 1970s. JIT is a lean production system that emphasizes the continuous flow of material and information from one stage of production to the next, minimizing waste and reducing the need for inventory. This approach has been adopted by many companies worldwide as a way to improve efficiency and reduce costs. The concept has been extended to other areas of business, such as service industries, where it is called Just-In-Time Service (JITS).

JIT challenges traditional inventory management practices by eliminating the need for large inventories of raw materials, work in process, and finished goods. Instead, JIT relies on just-in-time delivery of materials and components, and continuous monitoring of production processes to ensure that the system is always operating at peak efficiency. This approach has been shown to reduce waste, improve quality, and increase customer satisfaction.

In addition to the benefits of JIT, there are also challenges that must be addressed. One of the biggest challenges is the need for a committed workforce that is willing to work together to achieve the goals of the system. Another challenge is the need for a strong supply chain, with suppliers who are willing to work together to ensure that materials are delivered on time.

Despite these challenges, JIT has become an important part of many companies' strategies for improving efficiency and reducing costs. As companies continue to explore new ways to improve their operations, JIT will likely continue to play a key role in many industries.

The Business of Self-Defense

Charlie Nelson on how to survive in New York City

By Eric Therman

Charlie Nelson is a black belt in the Chinese Mongolian Wrestling school run by his mentor, Capt. Nelson. He began training in 1952. Nelson was born in the United States and grew up boxing at an early age. Along with 14 years of martial arts training, Nelson has taught himself to cope with increased total capital investment. Since line work-in-process (WIP) manufacturing is a concern, Nelson has developed a system of techniques that he believes can help individuals protect themselves. This system, which Nelson has called the "Charlie Nelson Concept," has been used by thousands of people to defend themselves against attackers.

Nelson's system focuses on understanding the dynamics of a fight and using that knowledge to anticipate and counter the moves of an attacker. Nelson's system also teaches the importance of staying calm and focused, even in the heat of a physical confrontation.

In Nelson's view, the key to surviving a physical attack is to be prepared. Nelson believes that every person should be aware of their surroundings and have a plan for what to do if they find themselves in a dangerous situation. Nelson's system helps people to develop a sense of situational awareness and to respond to threats in a way that minimizes the risk of injury.

For example, Nelson's system teaches people to look for weaknesses in an attacker's position and to use those weaknesses to gain an advantage. Nelson's system also teaches people to use their surroundings to their advantage, such as using a chair or a desk to block an attacker's view or to create a barrier between themselves and the attacker.

Nelson's system has been tested in many real-world situations, and Nelson has helped many people to survive physical attacks. Nelson's system has been used by law enforcement officers, military personnel, and civilians to protect themselves against a variety of threats.

Nelson's system is not a replacement for traditional self-defense techniques, but rather an addition to them. Nelson's system helps people to develop a deeper understanding of the dynamics of a physical fight and to use that understanding to respond more effectively to threats.

The success of Nelson's system is based on the idea that everyone is capable of defending themselves if they are prepared and willing to learn. Nelson believes that anyone can learn his techniques if they are willing to put in the time and effort to learn them. Nelson has helped thousands of people to develop the skills they need to protect themselves from physical threats.
Bone Marrow Donors Needed!

By Joanne Guo

People usually don't know much about bone marrow donation; therefore, they tend to assume that it is a painful and uncomfortable procedure. True, the sight of your bone marrow may be more frightening than your blood, and having your bone marrow taken out of your bone is not a pleasant thought. However, the truth is that it is not a torturous experience at all.

For your information, marrow makes blood cells and looks like blood, except thicker. Marrow is produced inside larger bones. Removing marrow will not affect your health because marrow replenishes itself within a few weeks. Anesthesia is used when you take your marrow, so you will feel no pain. However, you may feel some soreness for a week.

Bone marrow transplant is the most effective and painless way for treating leukemia. Leukemia is any of several cancers of the bone marrow characterized by an abnormal increase of white blood cells in the blood or tissues causing anemia, increasing susceptibility to infection, and impairing blood clotting.

There are numerous people with leukemia waiting for a matching bone marrow to be donated to them by kind strangers. You will have a chance to be one of those kind and giving strangers if you drop by room 142, 260 Pack Avenue building on Thursday, December 8, from 1:30-8 p.m.

Bone marrow matches a patient who are a lot of potential marrow donors will not affect your marrow, your bone, and from that day on until your 80th birthday, you will be contacted if your bone marrow matches a patient who needs a transplant.

The organization which provides these services is the Bone Marrow Donors Needed! An organization which the year 1994 will mark the 25th anniversary of the establishment of Baruch Chapter of the American Marketing Association (BCCAMA). The American Marketing Association (AMA) is one of the world's largest associations of marketing professionals with over 300 collegiate chapters and over 16,000 students across North America. According to Aubrey Dasque, the president of BCCAMA, one of the main goals of the association is to help students maximize their experience and take advantage of the given opportunities. "I have seen a lot of people graduating and have no idea what they are going to do," Dasque explained.

One of the ways BCCAMA is helping marketing students prepare for life after college is by giving out information about different aspects of marketing and implementing activities designed to give students opportunities. These activities include workshops in Resume and Interviewing Planning, Networking and Communication skills, and to obtain more Asian and Pacific Islander donors because out of one million volunteers, only 4% are Asian/Pacific Islander. Donors belonging to these races are in desperate need because only the match of certain tissue types of a donor with a patient can the transplant be performed. And the tissue will match most likely if the donor and the receiver are in the same race.

Several Baruch Asian club organizations are aware of this problem and are helping to promote this bone marrow donation event Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about.

Donating your marrow is giving someone a chance to fight this fatal disease," Dasque said. "Many people are afraid of donating your marrow, that these people will come for a reward for donating your marrow, and the body will regenerate the marrow they lost, " said Anais Chan, the Vice President of Cuba said.

Orlana Young, the president of CSI, felt that although leukemia is not a disease, it is still a major disease in the United States and it is important for people to know more about it.

There is no monetary reward for donating your marrow, knowing that you've saved a person's life is a feeling that will last longer than any reward.

American Marketing Association

By Wendell Ikeda

The year 1994 will mark the 25th anniversary of the establishment of Baruch Chapter of the American Marketing Association (BCCAMA). The American Marketing Association (AMA) is one of the world's largest associations of marketing professionals with over 300 collegiate chapters and over 16,000 students across North America. According to Aubrey Dasque, the president of BCCAMA, one of the main goals of the association is to help students maximize their experience and take advantage of the given opportunities. "I have seen a lot of people graduating and have no idea what they are going to do," Dasque explained.

One of the ways BCCAMA is helping marketing students prepare for life after college is by giving out information about different aspects of marketing and implementing activities designed to give students opportunities. These activities include workshops in Resume and Interviewing Planning, Networking and Communication skills, and to obtain more Asian and Pacific Islander donors because out of one million volunteers, only 4% are Asian/Pacific Islander. Donors belonging to these races are in desperate need because only the match of certain tissue types of a donor with a patient can the transplant be performed. And the tissue will match most likely if the donor and the receiver are in the same race.

Several Baruch Asian club organizations are aware of this problem and are helping to promote this bone marrow donation event Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about. This event includes Aubrey Dasque is excited about.

Donating your marrow is giving someone a chance to fight this fatal disease," Dasque said. "Many people are afraid of donating your marrow, that these people will come for a reward for donating your marrow, and the body will regenerate the marrow they lost, " said Anais Chan, the Vice President of Cuba said.

Orlana Young, the president of CSI, felt that although leukemia is not a disease, it is still a major disease in the United States and it is important for people to know more about it.

There is no monetary reward for donating your marrow, knowing that you've saved a person's life is a feeling that will last longer than any reward.
Experienced American lady teacher will help you learn or improve your English. Private lessons in her Manhattan apartment. All levels of English. Pronunciation, conversation, comprehension, vocabulary, grammar, writing, TOEFL preparation. Very patient. Female student only. $30/hr. FREE consultation and evaluation. Call 212-679-4700

A Hungry Man Is An Angry Man

By Harry Valek

In case you are one of those people who did not go to the Multi-Cultural Thanksgiving Dinner, which was held on November 23rd in the Student Center, I don’t want you to feel left out. I was there, and it turned out, there were too many people there to begin with.

The event, which was funded mostly by DSSG and a few other student clubs, was approached differently this year than in the past. This year, rather than the extraordinary. Thanksgiving dinner, DSSG and the other student clubs felt that it would be a good opportunity to get a large diversity of students together in one place and share a meal. Hence, taking the time to give thanks for the many blessings most of us have, and simply take for granted.

It seemed that more students turned out than the organizers expected. There were approximately 200 students at the event, and unfortunately, not enough food for all of them. Perhaps because the students who were club members, and who happened to participate in organizing the event, were taking an average of two plates

each.

To give those of us who did not get a chance to assist in an idea of how many people went and were not fed, all the food was gone within a half hour. Although the event was supposed to begin at 5:00 p.m., they did not begin serving anyone until 6:40 p.m. By 6:45 p.m., there were no forks, plates, or food left.
p c

Nadya Santiago, a jun-or, left the event after waiting in a half hour because she finally got inside the food area, there were only pork and salad left, and she wasn’t even the last person on the line. When asked to comment on the situation, Andrew Haller, who handles public relations for DSSG, felt that the remains present were sufficient and that it would be unfair to say that all the food was gone. “I feel that what’s left is still plenty.” Unfortunately, not everyone agreed with those that were present.

Santiago said, “All I want to know is why did all those students take two plates each? They probably wouldn’t have taken a third serving, if they had a third hand. Why didn’t anyone limit how many plates one person can take?” DSSG, and several other student organizations, spent approximately $3,000 of student funds to balance the event. Therefore, I don’t think that any calculated fears was the main problem.

DSSG president, Derekk Zhang, was present for the first part of the event, but when asked to comment on the outcome of this event, he said, “I’m very upset with the fact that student organizations were taking more than one plate. Especially since the event was supposed to encourage new student members to the circles that were present. I hope we can learn from this and behave appropriately next time.” He had food reason to be upset, since when he arrived, he too found that there was no food left.

Overall, the event and its purpose was not still bad. Those who actually got to eat and mingle had a really good time. Patrick Darbourne, a senior, was rather pleased with the whole event. “I like it, the whole thing is pretty cool.”

Carla Capellan, Vice President of DSSG, agreed. "I think it was a success."

Although it may be of no consolation to those of us who were left out, the main purpose of the night was to get together and have a good time. For the most part that’s what the ma-

What does the "M" in Bernard M. Baruch stands for?

By Harry Valek

The Multi-Cultural Thanksgiving Dinner, which was held on November 23rd, was a success. The event was attended by approximately 200 students, and although there was not enough food for everyone, it was generally well-received.

The event was organized by the Multi-Cultural Center, and the theme of the night was to get together and have a good time. For the most part that's what the majority of the students who attended did. Therefore, it's fair to say that the organizers got an "A" for effort. As there remains room for improvement as far as distribution is concerned. In fact, partial distribution of the food, instead of offering all of the food at once to the small group standing in front of the line. People made a fair point when they pointed out that the event was not just about eating, it's about getting together.

But the fact is that the students mingle a whole lot better when they have a bite to eat. Moreover, the fact that everyone in the room was stuffing their "Thanksgiving boxes" and you're not doing too much. Oh, one last thing fellas, nice try!

Early Christmas Shopping

By Mallory Del-Vale

"Everyone has a 'prez' is a term often heard in courses of corruption and organized crime, but who would think that this term was actually put into action at Baruch?"

The auditorium of the 23rd street building was the site of Phi Beta Sigma Second Annual Date Auction on November 17th during club hours. Austin Williams, a member of Beta Sigma, explained that if the outcome of this event is successful, it will be held every year after. He also clarified the cause of the event by stating "This is one of many of our projects to raise money for needy students." When the auction begins, it was further explained that all the money was going to benefit the charity New Year's Eve. While that some money would also be used to set up a book grant. A competition will be held in the future, and whoever wins will receive money to buy books.

There were some technical problems during the auction, it finally started when the bachelors were asked to the back of the stage, and the auctioneers simply introduced Babylon, explaining the bidding rules. Bidding started at $2. After people purchase their dates, they were given tickets to a party held that Friday night. The parties could also make their own plans. The highest bid on their shirts. One bachelor even went back to the event "was not just about eating, it's about getting together."

But the fact is that the students mingle a whole lot better when they have a bite to eat. Moreover, the fact that everyone in the room was stuffing their "Thanksgiving boxes" and you're not doing too much. Oh, one last thing fellas, nice try!

I think the M stands for Moses.

"The M stands for money which I hope this education will get me."

I think the M stands for Disneyland.

I think the M stands for Merit.

What does the "M" in Bernard M. Baruch stands for?

A couple at the auction

$60 was not the highest bid. Names of 11 DELTA bidders were read to be made as the reception, following the auction, since this time was not enough time to present all of the bidders. A total of 11 females were also auctioned off. They too used the tactic of exposing their bodies. This was in order to get higher bids, since the men in the crowd were holding back.

Women had a more difficult time being sold. The highest bid was only $40. When the final bid was made and they announced that the auction would continue during the reception, many of the bidders were taken aback and left almost instantly. People were bidding on themselves. The main problem was the only member to the reception in order to get a good meal. Many people left and said that they wanted to go to the ATM first.

The Answer is Manners.

"The M stands for a legacy of Merit."
FRIDAY
DECEMBER 9, 1994
END OF THE SEMESTER
CHRISTMAS PARTY
AND
TOY DRIVE!
PLEASE DONATE YOUR TOYS!
FREE FOOD, FREE BEER
14TH FLOOR, 360 PAS
BROUGHT TO YOU BY:

CREDIT CONTROL

By Nancy Rodrigues

Stacey unlocked the door and stepped into the conference room. The room was dark, empty, and very quiet. Stacey was left alone in the room. She was told to leave her shoes on because cold was the atmosphere that was created by the sound of the doors opening. She walked over to the window and opened it, letting in some fresh air. The sun was shining through the windows, casting a warm glow over everything. Stacey closed the window and went over to the door, where she began to unlock it.

"So, Patakoo is supposed to switch the position on the other one on death row?" you're crazy Mike."

"Hey, if they want the death penalty, let them do their own dirty work."

Remini followed Mike into the conference room. Fifteen minutes later, the room was filled with cigarette smoke and noise was being served by Stacey Johnson, who had been waiting for her final meeting. Miss Johnson was a walking legend, and the people who waited for their final meetings knew it. Mike was in control, and the scene was one of total disarray. This had been followed by a highly financed recruiting effort, first and last word on anything and everything, and the new boss was named and given the position of CEO.

Mr. Karl was in control and the scene was one of total disarray. This had been followed by a highly financed recruiting effort, first and last word on anything and everything, and the new boss was named and given the position of CEO.

Mr. Karl was in control and the scene was one of total disarray. This had been followed by a highly financed recruiting effort, first and last word on anything and everything, and the new boss was named and given the position of CEO.

The presentation of the golden time slot, primetime TV, Mr. Karl took his role very seriously. In the early years of his company, he had adjusted his Baldwin during a Monday morning meeting.

"Mr. Karl, you look like you got a fade the wrong way."

"It's back on the cutting edge."

"Okay, people, let's hear the changes and this could be ready to go."

"We're not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to cope with hard times. Oh, are not a minority of the population. We've to
Bon Jovi Is Back and Better Than Ever

By Eric Thorsen

The next time you overhear someone saying nothing good ever came out of the state of New Jersey, remind them that it's because New York sends its garbage out to bury the state and also remind them of a sensation that came out of Sayerville. That sensation was a garage band that because of raw talent and perseverance, made it big in the world of rock and roll. This band is known as Bon Jovi and, after 11 years, they can still rock with the best of them.

Since getting together in 1982, the band has grown and matured, becoming the established musicians that they are today. Even after many disputes that almost lead to the band's demise and a couple of solo projects, the band has managed to maintain the bond that made them great. These stages of growth, from the 80's into the 90's, can be heard on their most recent releases, Cross Road.

Cross Road, is Bon Jovi at their best, singing the songs that put their name on the map. This compilation contains tunes from all of the albums in the Bon Jovi collection and causes you to remember times forgotten. What comes to mind are the high hair days, the '84 Camaro, and the suburbs of New Jersey. For a greatest hits album to stir the emotions is a rare phenomenon. This album will definitely cause you to become nostalgic for the days of old and create a yearning inside you to be young again.

This album is comprised of tracks, such as "Runaway" from the album Bon Jovi, "Love on a Prayer" from Slippery When Wet, "Bad Medicine" from New Jersey, and "Keep the Faith" from the album of the same name. These songs, plus 10 others combine to comprise this greatest hits album.

The new songs on the album include "Always," which is a classic example of a Bon Jovi melody, written to please the female audience. Then there is "Someone I'll Be Saturday Night," which has a catchy chorus and rhythm, and "Prayer '94," which is probably the only track that could have been left off the album. The song is an acoustic remix of sorts of "Living on a Prayer," which is to listen to at first, but after a while seems like a waste of time. All the songs mentioned above have gained airplay and have given the greatest hits album a greater value.

Even with all the great attributes of Cross Road, I still have a quastion with the song selection. This is because of the exclusion of a couple of songs that I felt should have been added. These songs include "Living in Sin," which is one of the greatest Bon Jovi songs to date, "Never Say Goodbye," and "I'll Be There For U." Leaving these songs off the album was a crime to all the die-hard Bon Jovi fans.

Also, another problem with this compilation was the fact that the song "Blaze of Glory" should have been added. This song was taken off Jon Bon Jovi's solo album and had nothing to do with the band. Therefore, I feel it shouldn't have been included.

From left to right: Tino Torres, Jon Bon Jovi, David Bryan, Richie Sambora, Alex John Buch.
I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm reading about how AIDS gets transmitted and make sure we don't do this.

I'm thinking about life and immortality, who I slept with, some behavior I must admit with.

I think about life and immortality, what's the first thing I'd do if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

It's going to be a negative.

Joey, you're a negative.

I'm positive but it's better to know than to not find out.

But how am I going to live my life if I'm positive?

I go home in my apartment and try to give myself a list assessment of my time on earth.

I never thought about infecting anyone but it's better to know than to not find out.

I'm trying to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.

I'm going to live my life six feet under if I'm positive.
MEDIA MISH MOSH FROM HELL!!

By Bennet Maurer

One of the geniuses of comedy writing, Michael O'Donogue just died. He used to be the head writer when Saturday Night Live was the best show on television. One of his most famous bits, was the Star Trek spoof, John Belushi played Captain Kirk. When the world loses funny minds, it really and truly, bye funny man. I'll miss you.

The best way to sum up the election is that Americans love blood and death. Who cares if they go on claiming what the evils of the world are; yet we never do to deserve that. Just as long as the public can watch TV and not forget boys and girls, the entertainment only.

Funny minds, its really sad. Bye, just died. He used to be the head comedy writing, Michael O'Donogue was the best show on television.

One of his most famous theories is Newt Gingrich. He's trying to play with moral issues, when he had his own problems with them. Let's ask his ex with about how moral Mr. Gingrich is. Well if that is the God he wants us to worship, will hear me Satan, because Newton's God doesn't sound all that loving to me.

Now that George Patkas is governor, I'm going to stand as far from the sun as possible. On the basis of the election results, anyone with any color at all, will be out of luck.

Can you believe that there was a Nixon stamp? What did he ever do to deserve a stamp, except maybe give his Drug Czar. And I say we should proclaim making Elvis his Drug Czar. We should proclaim that just like the religious right?

No one with any color at all, can anyone place him in a costume except for a red coat and a black hat. He's an example of this. The disgruntled postman at the post office is what I call it. He stoop to whatever is needed to get by. He used to be the head of the ring, no disputing that. Richard Lewis is killing his Rangers a videotape of the hattrick, with the hattrick, Emerged as the best player in the league.

This was too, and Montana did. Messier is better than anyone else. It's been the year, the disputed postman also got a rile. And secondly there is a guy getting smothered by American Cheese. This is maybe those men give worse meals. Let's go. ask the postman at the post office for a cause. There are those men give worse meals. Let's go. ask the postman at the post office for a cause.

49ers over Chargers

K: Kramer

Record: 62-39

Super Bowl XXXIII:

49ers over Steelers

K: Kramer

Record: 70-31

Super Bowl XLVIII:

49ers over Broncos vs. Kansas City Chiefs, Monday Night Football. Don't care what sport, you're talking the Rangers as well as Hakeem Olajuwon for the Rockets. He's not. Emerging as the best player in the league.

Week Seventeen

K/DH Jets at Oilers K

K/DH Bills at Colts DH

K/DH Chiefs at Raiders DH

K/DH Packers at Steelers DH

K/DH Raiders at Seahawks DH

K/DH Chiefs at Patriots DH K

K/DH Patriots at Bills DH

Week Sixteen

K/DH Chargers at Jets K

K/DH Giants at Eagles DH

K/DH Bengals at Cardinals K

K/DH Falcons vs Packers K

K/DH Browns at Cowboys K

K/DH Rams at Bus DH

K/DH Eagles at Steelers K

K/DH 49ers at Raiders

K/DH Broncos at Raiders

K/DH Seahawks at Oilers

K/DH Colts at Patriots K

K/DH Chiefs at Dolphins DH

Week Fifteen

Bengals at Giants K/DH

Jets at Lions K

Redskins at Cardinals K/DH

Saints at Falcons K/DH

Browns at Cowboys K/DH

Rams at Bus K/DH

Vikings at Bills DH

Eagles at Steelers K

K/DH 49ers at Chargers

K/DH Broncos at Raiders

K/DH Seahawks at Oilers

K/DH Colts at Patriots K/DH

K/DH Chiefs at Dolphins DH

K/DH Patriots at Bills DH

Monday - Thursdays

9:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m.

Weekends

10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Study Area will be opened at 24th Street will be opened until 12:00 a.m.!!

NOTE: PLEASE COMPLETE THE SURVEY AVAILABLE AT THE LIBRARY.
Upcoming Games

Men's Basketball

December
- Wednesday 7: Stevens Tech (7:00)
- Friday/Saturday 9-10: RIT Tournament
- Monday 12: Yeshiva (8:00)

January
- Tuesday 3: Polytechnic (7:30)
- Monday 9: Queens (7:30)
- Thursday 12: CCNY (6:00)
- Saturday 14: Mt. St. Vincent (3:00)
- Tuesday 17: Lehman (7:30)
- Thursday 19: John Jay (7:00)

Monday 23: SUNY New Paltz (7:30)
- Wednesday 25: CCNY (7:00)
- Monday 30: Lehman (7:00)

Bold denotes home game played at Xavier High School, 16th Street and 5th Avenue

Women's Basketball

December
- Wednesday 7: Mt. St. Mary (7:00)
- Friday/Saturday 9-10: Mt. St. Vincent Tournament

January
- Friday 6: Bethany (W.Va.) (6:00)
- Saturday 7: Washington & Jefferson (2:00)
- Monday 9: John Jay (6:00)
- Friday 13: Staten Island (6:30)
- Wednesday 18: Lehman (6:30)
- Saturday 21: NJT (4:00)
- Monday 23: SUNY Old Westbury (6:30)
- Wednesday 25: CCNY (6:30)
- Friday 27: Sweet Briar (Va.) (6:00)
- Saturday 28: Bennet (Greensboro, NC) (2:00)
- Tuesday 31: York College (6:30)

Bold denotes home game played in the 6th floor gymnasium at 17 Lexington Avenue (23th Street Building)

Recent Games

Men's Basketball

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Opponent</th>
<th>Score</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>St. Joseph</td>
<td>at home</td>
<td>87-41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUNY Maritime</td>
<td>at home</td>
<td>84-63</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUNY Old Westbury</td>
<td>at home</td>
<td>78-63</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Centenary</td>
<td>at home</td>
<td>79-67</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Women's Basketball

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Opponent</th>
<th>Score</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Yeshiva</td>
<td>at home</td>
<td>40-42</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mt. St. Vincent</td>
<td>at home</td>
<td>64-39</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Happy Holidays From Ticker Sports!

Don't let me leave the "great" coach Riley out here either. Anyone who saw his coaching down the stretch against Houston had to wonder about his ability to improvise and adjust to a situation. I would have told you that Starks was out all that night, but in fact my mother would've seen it so why not the "great" Riley? Sticking with Starks wasn't faith, it was craziness but hey, I'm not the one who won all those titles with the Lakers by giving the ball to Magic and Kareem, so what do I know.

If you notice I'm leaving Charles Smith out of this, I don't want to be here all day. Don't think I'm unappreciative of our hero in orange and blue. With a great work ethic, the best defense on the planet and a whole lot of luck (Thank You Keep Outfield!), the Knicks had a glorious run. If not for Olajuwon & Starks I would be doing a column on our chances to repeat right now.

In 1996 we have so many hand checking, a rating Magic, an overconfident Pacers team and nothing but trouble west. I think we're asking an awful lot of the Knicks to duplicate last season's fun but hey, everybody should have seen it. So maybe Doug Christie is as good as advertised, maybe Hicks Davis can deliver 10 or 12 valuable minutes every night that Smith plays as well as he did before he got here and we won't have any O.J.'s car chases next year. For simply, all I want for Christmas is one more shot.
By John Vorosse

There have been four games since the onset of the 1994-95 basketball season for the Baruch College Statesmen. Unlike last season, they have convincingly won all four games as they prepare to meet their CUNY adversaries.

"They're playing unselfishly," said coach Ray Rankis about the reasons for his team's success. "We're keeping turnovers at a minimum [under twelve], we're out-rebounding our opponents and we're playing very, very tough defense." He added that this team is functioning in the way it was designed to.

Whether the team will continue to play in this manner, Rankis was unable to answer. He believes that anything from a new player becoming eligible in January to injuries can greatly effect how the team will perform in the future. Rankis simply answered that he didn't know how long the team will play like it is now.

Their season thus far has consisted of four home wins, the closest of which was by a margin of 12 points. Unfortunately, the other CUNY Athletic Conference (CUNYAC) teams have also won their first games as convincingly as the Statesmen. "When we get into conference play," said Rankis, "it's a whole other matter."

One bright note though is the fact that Hunter College almost lost to Centenary, who Baruch beat in their most recent match by the score of 78-67 on December 5. In addition, Centenary has a starting five with heights as much as seven-foot-one and six-foot-eight, the Statesmen had to over come a physical challenge, with their tallest players being six-foot-six.

The games were not all peaceful though, a rare altercation between Baruch and Brooklyn College a week ago. That fake spike in the final seconds is the type of play that will make any team hang their heads in shame. It has been said before and is worth mentioning; if you're leading Marino's Dolphins by a touchdown or less and only one minute left, if Marino has the ball you lost.

Being fooled once is understandable, but being fooled twice makes you wonder if the Giants have taken one to many hits in the head. The fake field goal attempt which changed into a punt downed at the Jets own one yard line was just as sly and clever as Marino's play. Two plays later Esiason threw an interception which lead to the winning touchdown for the Patriots. It was almost as if everybody but those in red, white and blue on the field thought it was a "Hail Mary" kick. Maybe in the future the Jets won't underestimate the power of the almighty Parcells.

The Giants on the other hand have been riding high these past three weeks. After winning their first three, losing their next seven and then winning three consecutively again, the Giants are no longer the laughing stock of the NFL, now they are contenders. True they didn't play the strongest of teams in Houston and Washington, but the Browns are rather impressive this year (9-4) and are almost sure to gain a wild card spot in the playoffs. People are already comparing the game ending drive by the Giants to "the drive" executed by Reeves and Elway and marched 98 yards down the field to send the game into overtime when the two of them were together in Denver. True Reeves coached both teams and both games were in Cleveland and both games were important to the team but to compare the two might be a bit extreme.

The Big Blue face the pitiful Bengals next week and the failing Eagles the week after that. Their final game is against Dallas, unfortunately all dreams must come to end. The Jets must face Detroit, San Diego and Houston for the remainder of the season. The first two are strong teams and will give the Jets a run for their money while Houston should be an easy win. Then again, the way the Jets have been playing, who knows.

Both teams are 6-7 and still in the running for the playoffs. Since they have also had their shares of ups and downs only time will tell if either team has what it takes to play more than sixteen games this season.

1994: A Year In Review

By Richard Browne

It's been a great year for sports so we here inTicker Sports feel it only necessary that we hand out a few awards on the deserving. Anybody who doesn't agree, hey that's your prerogative. And now, the first annual 1994 Ticker Sports Awards:

Clutch Performance of The Year
Scotty Thurman's "guts to the max" three point shot with nothing left on the clock to beat Duke in the NCAA final. Scotty misses that shot and Grant Hill goes off to the NBA with three championship rings and no one's done that since a couple of guys named Alcindor and Walton. In a year of big performances in big games Scotty had the biggest shot.

Sports Awards:

Continued on page 30