Multi-Cultural Dinner Feast

By Bryan Fleck

In an attempt to strengthen Baruch College's undergraduate student government, and to increase student participation, the Day Session Student Government and the Evening Session Student Assembly have come to terms on a referendum that would merge the two governments into one body to be called the Undergraduate Student Government. The newly formed executive cabinet, consisting of an upper council and a lower council, will be more conducive to getting matters done.

The top four positions in the eight member executive cabinet, consisting of the president, executive vice president, treasurer and secretary, would be, as always, elected at large.

The remaining four positions, vice president for academic affairs, vice president for campus affairs, vice president for legislative affairs and the newly formed vice president for part-time student affairs, would be appointed by the president with the consent of the senate.

The four vice president slots would be selected and filled from candidates, to comprise the six seats. The proposal was passed with a unanimous vote by ESSA. Aylman believes that at large, would be selected from any undergraduate candidate.

According to the proposal, an emphasis will be placed onhaving senate representation in the three schools at Baruch: the School of Business, the School of Liberal Arts and the School of Public Affairs. In the 20 seat senate, elected at large, six of the seats would come from the three schools, with each school having one day and one evening representative, to comprise the six seats.

New plan calls for total restructuring of Student Governments

By Bryan Fleck

In an attempt to strengthen Baruch College's undergraduate student government, and to increase student participation, the Day Session Student Government and the Evening Session Student Assembly have come to terms on a referendum that would merge the two governments into one body to be called the Undergraduate Student Government. The newly formed executive cabinet, consisting of an upper council and a lower council, would be, as always, elected at large.

The remaining four positions, vice president for academic affairs, vice president for campus affairs, vice president for legislative affairs and the newly formed vice president for part-time student affairs, would be appointed by the president with the consent of the senate.

The four vice president slots would be selected and filled from candidates, to comprise the six seats. The proposal was passed with a unanimous vote by ESSA. Aylman believes that at large, would be selected from any undergraduate candidate.

According to the proposal, an emphasis will be placed on having senate representation in the three schools at Baruch: the School of Business, the School of Liberal Arts and the School of Public Affairs. In the 20 seat senate, elected at large, six of the seats would come from the three schools, with each school having one day and one evening representative, to comprise the six seats. The remaining 14 seats, also elected at large, would be selected from any undergraduate candidate.

The top four positions in the eight member executive cabinet, consisting of the president, executive vice president, treasurer and secretary, would be, as always, elected at large.

The remaining four positions, vice president for academic affairs, vice president for campus affairs, vice president for legislative affairs and the newly formed vice president for part-time student affairs, would be appointed by the president with the consent of the senate.

The four vice president slots would be selected and filled from candidates, to comprise the six seats. The proposal was passed with a unanimous vote by ESSA. Aylman believes that at large, would be selected from any undergraduate candidate.

According to the proposal, an emphasis will be placed on having senate representation in the three schools at Baruch: the School of Business, the School of Liberal Arts and the School of Public Affairs. In the 20 seat senate, elected at large, six of the seats would come from the three schools, with each school having one day and one evening representative, to comprise the six seats. The remaining 14 seats, also elected at large, would be selected from any undergraduate candidate.

According to the proposal, an emphasis will be placed on having senate representation in the three schools at Baruch: the School of Business, the School of Liberal Arts and the School of Public Affairs. In the 20 seat senate, elected at large, six of the seats would come from the three schools, with each school having one day and one evening representative, to comprise the six seats. The remaining 14 seats, also elected at large, would be selected from any undergraduate candidate.
By Brian Black

The City University of New York's Center of Public Affairs, in cooperation with the National Council on Family Relations and the National Association of Social Workers, sponsored a workshop on Immigration Law for Professionals and Community Leaders. The workshop is the first of a three-part series of workshops focused on immigration issues that will be held over the next three years. The workshop addressed the challenges facing immigration attorneys and community leaders.

VITA Recruits for New Tax Season

By Elethia P. Zeleka

Volunteer Income Tax Assistance, an annual event sponsored by the Golden Key Honors Society, has started recruiting students on campus. The event was organized primarily to help those who can't afford professional assistance.

Prof. Documents Sexuality At Gay and Lesbian Meeting

By Elaine We

The first panel of a special event in Western civilization when arranged by the American Historical Association and the University of Michigan. The theme of the event was "Women and the Role of Women in History." The event was organized primarily to help those who can't afford professional assistance.

VITA candidates, after attending training to become certified in the use of tax software, will be notified of their status by the VITA program. The candidates will be notified by the VITA program. The candidates will be notified by the VITA program.

While there are many differences between the immigrant experiences and the experiences of native-born citizens, the similarities are also significant. The immigrants' experiences are often characterized by a sense of cultural and linguistic assimilation. The immigrants often have to learn the language and culture of their new country, and this can be a challenging and difficult process. The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process. The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process.

The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process. The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process.

The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process. The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process. The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process.

The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process. The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process. The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process.

The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process. The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process. The immigrants often have to adapt to a new culture, and this can be a challenging and difficult process.
COMMUNITY CALENDAR EVENTS

By: Debbie Cruz and April Tucker

VOLUNTARY WORK

Secret Santa Program

When you're making out your holiday list, why not include someone who is less fortunate. The New York Cares Foundation is sponsoring their annual Secret Santa Program where you will have the privilege of answering a child's letter to Santa Claus. This year they are starting a new program just for teens. If you are interested, please write to New York Cares, Secret Santa, attn: N. Math, 116 East 16th Street, 6th Floor, NY, NY 10036-2112.

Calling all baseball fanatics

The Harlem RBI association is recruiting voluntary coaches for boys baseball and girls softball. The Harlem RBI is a private, nonprofit organization dedicated to using baseball as a means of engaging inner-city children in educational and enriching activities. Coaching or playing experience is helpful, but you do not have to volunteer, but you will work alongside boys aged 7-18 and girls aged 10-17. Love of kids is a must!

Please call Richard Berlin at Harlem RBI (212-722-1608) for more information. You can join!

HOLIDAY PLACES TO GO

24 Hour Post Office

If you have a lot of holiday mail and find you are suddenly out of stamps, there is a solution to your problem. The post office on 212-888-2890 is open 24 hours a day for any postal emergency. There is a post office for any of your questions: (800-725-2161).

24 Hour Car Rental

If your quest for the perfect gifts leads you out of town, at the last minute you can go to the 24 hour Avis Car Rental. The rental place is located at 217 East 42nd Street between 2nd and 3rd Avenues. Call 212-303-8378 for any info.

Broadway holiday savings

Save up to 60% off regular ticketed prices for the Broadway smash hit "Smoky Joe's Cafe." Sing along with the original cast as they sing your favorite musical hits. Call recharge for both of these events at 212-239-6200.

---

Friday, December 11-22

Library Open 24 Hours

---

Monday December 14

Hanukkah

Wednesday December 16

Last day of classes for fall semester

---

Thursday December 17

Final examinations begin
They end December 23

Faculty Senate Executive Meeting
123 E 22 / Senate Office

President's Holiday Reception
4:00-6:00 pm

151 E 25 / Conference Center

Thursday December 24

Winter recess begins
It ends January 4; College closed on December 24, 25, and 31, and January 1
TICKER NEWS DECEMBER 9, 1998

METRO NEWS BRIEFS

By Jon Minners

Every student has problems and sometimes, those problems get in the way of things. Graduates begin to plan, internships start to drop and you generally become irritated to those around you. Of course, things will continue to get worse unless you do something.

That's when Helpline comes into play. Helpline is a group of students who are there to help those with problems or, people who just need someone to talk to. Yes, you said student, and that's what it makes so much better than having a regular counselor. Only fellow students know what we are going through. We understand and can offer some help that makes sense to your peer. Most students want to have a personal conversation and don't want real advice. It really makes a difference to have someone helping who is on the same level as you. It may not be a friend, but it is almost like one, and that's the best thing.

I won't sit here and draw a problem with a peer of mine. How many times have we complained to a regular student in our class about how hard things are going and they aren't even trained!

You won't find just anyone working at Helpline. You say "I want to help people" and "but you're in school." Interesting fact here in this Helpline. It goes through two semesters of training. One is the basic training course to learn the Freshman Seminar. The other is an Internship for them to do to be trained. In Helpline, there aren't any seminars to tell us what to do. They learn all they need to know about a problem and then follow us as a Helpline counselor. There is a certain list of things we can't do, and there is always a list of problems they can't try to solve.

If you have a severe problem, and are in a crisis, they refer you to the 17th floor in the 26th street building. It is there that you will find the Counseling Center where professional counselors try to help you with your problem. Helpline can also refer a student to low fee clinics or organizations that may be able to help those who have drug or alcohol problems. Sometimes, we don't know where to turn, and Helpline can help point us in the right direction.

Unfortunately, many students do not take advantage of the service, so the Helpline is not known. They have four people who label them a "nonprofit." Well, you're crazy if you don't use Helpline to help you, and why not try it. If you do. The students at Helpline care. While they do get paid to be there, they also enjoy helping people. These are students who are down and talk with you. They aren't coun- selors. Sometimes, sitting and talking about a problem is all you need to feel better. They can cover a wide range of problems, from a teacher we feel is treating us horribly to a family that is on the rocks. Chances are, they've had similar problems too, and now can help you.

Helpline kind of scares people, says Audrey Sang, a Helpline worker. "It's not for counseling people. People should take advantage of it. If someone knows more than you about a topic, why not talk?" We've echoed by Rabela Choubhurry, a Helpline worker. "It's a Helpline kind of scares people, because they want to. Take advantage of it!"

Helpline does a lot for the Baruch community. They are here to help, because they want to. They take advantage of it! Better yet, if you think you can help people, see what you can do about being one of the Helpline family. Helpline is searched for by the 25th floor of the 26th street building. The Helpline hours are from 9 to 6. Hours may be different at times when classes aren't meeting. They are there to help those who are having a problem. For those who choose not to come at all, Helpline still does all it can to help you. We can't always have three on the bulletin boards as we sit bored out of our minds, waiting. for a reporter inside look at the Baruch's Helpline.
By Jonathan Carolin

It was 4:30, and I was the first to arrive. Sitting down on a bench, I tell myself that I don’t mind the rain. It’s probably much colder where my friend is, anyway. Soon, others begin to trickle in. I am surprised that more people hadn’t come earlier, after all the flyers said 4:30, and it was 4:30, and there were only five people here who looked like they had come for a vigil.

As time passed, however, more and more people arrived. By 5:00, the area outside Baruch College’s 22nd Street building was saturated—perhaps 150 people. All of us had come to do nothing more than show that we hadn’t forgotten. The crowd was mostly made up of students, interspersed by some adults, and several reporters from local news stations. Traffic streamed by on Lexington Avenue—the rush hour was just beginning and the piercing horns of yellow cabs filled the cold November air.

A serious and intelligent looking young man handed me a candle in a plastic cup, and a poster to hold. It was orange with black lettering that read, “Kristine Kupka. Missing since October 26th.” As I stood holding the poster in one hand and the candle in the other, I thought about how much I had learned in a week. I had learned to be patient with those who have walked into the bottom of the East River, hanging on, but not yet fully dead. Statistically, the happy couple walked into the water with only a 20% chance of making it out...I mean, sure, anything to help. I didn’t want to see her face. She had no doubt just finished class. “Oh wow!” she exclaimed with a smile. “Look at all these TV cameras!”

Once reserved for punk rockers, alloys containing different metals, including nickel, cobalt and chrome are some of the aforementioned metals. Body piercing; allergy to piercing makes it save for most nickel sensitive skin. Items containing nickel can cause dermatitis, as well as the jewels used for display. Only sterile nickel can cause an allergic reaction. "D-toolbar jewelry is often made of alloys which contain different metals. Nickel, cobalt, and chrome are frequently used in costume grade rings, studs, and bar-bells used in body piercing. Allergy to piercing makes it safe for most nickel sensitive skin. Nickel concentration in the skin may increase dermatitis induced rashes. Nickel also increases dermattus in nickel sensitive individuals. In wave weather, items containing nickel can cause an allergic reaction. 'You Thinks I'll Fix It?'"
Christmas Food Attack

By Jessica Zhou

Abhh .. the holidays! The last few months of the year is a period of festivity, of unfamiliarites these around the dining table whose presence is legitimated under the definition of "relatives", of late-night Chin Pet revival commercials, of redolent and readi-cast classics and of food. Lotes and lots of food. But before you gobble that portion of mince pie, whole, here are a few words for you to digest.

In a study conducted by scientists associated with the American Council on Science and Health, foods that make up the traditional American holiday dinner have been identified to contain naturally occurring rodent carcinogens, or chemicals that in large doses cause cancer in laboratory animals. The conclusion was reached after laboratory rats were fed foods typical of an all-American diet that included cereals, bread, pasta, vegetables, fruits and meats.

There are at least 10,000 rodent carcinogens. ACSH estimates that one person would have to consume 82,600 slices of bread a day to develop a rodent carcinogen. ACSH estimates that the lists are carrots, celery, and lettuce. The seven principles that it stands for are: Cooperative Economics, Self-Reliance, Collective Work and Responsibility, Kuumba which means Creativity, Ujamaa which means Unity, Labiriata which means Self-Determination; 3) Ujamaa which means Self-Determination; 4) Ujamaa which means Self-Determination; 5) Ujamaa which means Self-Determination; 6) Ujamaa which means Self-Determination; 7) Ujamaa which means Self-Determination.

For more information on the International Student Services and Naturalization Project for its Traineeship Exchange Program, please contact the International Student Services.

Falling Fall '88

Citizenship and Naturalization Project

By Ana Morena

October 23rd, 1988, the International Student Services held the Fall 1988 Citizenship and Naturalization Project. This was the third consecutive semester. Sixty-four students participated in this class this year. Students who met the INS requirements were provided with free citizenship guidance, free photography of the application materials. All the staff from the ISSC were present for the event, providing assistance to the students. The ISSC helps all resident students wishing to become U.S. citizens by providing him or her with the necessary documents. This happened on a train to New Delhi.

On April 9, 1988, I was on an air- plane headed to a country I know nothing about except from what I know from the movie "The Shining", its a town on the sea in Switzerland to AIESEC Zürich.

What is AIESEC? A year ago I had never heard of this organization. So now I thank AIESEC for the wonderful opportunity it has given us. AIESEC is an international student organisation in 70 countries around the world. Short for the International Students in Economics and Business, AIESEC aims to develop the individual by providing him or her with opportunities to interact with other cultures while gaining practical and management experience. It is open to all students of different cultures of a student-sponsored educational exchange program and management experience.

Recipe for marinated meat

1/2 cup packed brown sugar
3 garlic cloves
1 Tbsp. salt
3 tbsp mustard
1/4 cup cider vinegar
3 tsp lemon juice
6 tbsp olive oil

"marinade meat prior cooking"

The observance of Christmas is celebrated by Christians around the world as a time to mark the birth of Jesus Christ. Known as the season of advent, it is a time to reflect on the deeper meaning of faith.

Three Kings Day

Wednesday, January 6th

The celebration of "Three Kings" or Epiphany day is centered around the story that on the 6th of January the Magi arrived in Jerusalem to mark the birth of Jesus Christ. It is told that three kings set out from different regions of the known world, following a star in search of the "King of Kings" to Jerusalem. They brought gifts to a newborn baby giltas of Gold, Myrrh, and Frankincense.

Western Christmas has evolved into the observance of Christmas. It is celebrated by Christians, who sometimes sometimes cold, long and lonely, Christmas speaks of hope and love.

Cranah-kah

Sunday, December 20, 1987, at the Cranah-kah... Around 166 BC, Jewish warriors known as the "Maccabees" fought for and won their religious and national freedom. Following their victory, the Jews returned to Jerusalem to rekindle the Menorah in the temple, and even though they could only find a small amount of oil, the Menorah miraculously remained lit for 8 full days.

You are at least 18 years old.

We encourage all eligible students to participate. Visit the ISSC to complete and mail out your application. Please ensure to have your application before January 1999, since the application will be instilled once the semester begins at the beginning of the next year.
EDITORIAL

Looking back at the fall semester, we are all very proud of all that we have accomplished and the foundation that we have established for future developments.

Our news pages we have successfully provided a wide-range of coverage on issues of relevance and concern to the Baruch community. The editorial pages have advocated student interests to the point of generating dialogue, student activism and have been the catalyst to resolution of many concerns. Overall, our publication is rapidly advancing as a vehicle for the professional development of its staff.

We have lived up to our mission of being "The Students' Voice". Topics as diverse as academic standards, Student Government reform, homophobia in college life, administrative policies and the plight of international students have been spotlighted on our pages. We will continue this tradition of providing an outlet for student voices and concerns.

The Saga Continues...

STUDENT SPEAKS ON "GIRL TALK, BOY TALK"

Staff

Dear Ticker,

I am writing this letter to you because I am sick and tired of this continuous "girl talk". I would like to comment about what Brooklyn Boy says in a recent article. I believe that Brooklyn Boy is in an advantageous position to talk because he is familiar with the subject as well as his peers.

I want to make it clear that I am not against the idea of having girls and boys in the same class. However, I do believe that there are certain topics that should be discussed with both genders.

I am also concerned about the way Brooklyn Boy writes. His articles lack substance and are often written in a casual, unprofessional style. I think that this kind of writing is disrespectful to the women who read the articles.

Thank you for considering my views.

Sincerely,

---

Quote of the Fortnight:

"Perhaps you are under the mistaken impression that I spend my life trying to be "professional" or "corporate" or trying to live up to some".

- Dashiell Hammett, Editor-in-Chief
Descendant Of Sally Hemings & Thomas Jefferson Responds to “My Two Cents” Article

By Arthur Westerinen

I am a graduate student at Bard College working towards obtaining my MBA. I am also the great-great-great-grandson of Thomas Jefferson and Sally Hemings. Recent DNA tests have proven that this relationship is real. I am the only person who provided the matching DNA to President Clinton and Sally Hemings.

The article says that we should not speak for Sally Hemings. But she is my mother – my mother was a victim of slavery. My grandmother’s story is worth telling.

The two cents the author thinks he has on this story are laughable. An economist and someone who never witnessed anyone from the past would never understand the history of how the poor and the slave were treated.

I intend to remind shoppers that the cost of clothes is much more than the price on Wal-Mart.

The threadbare stories of those who live in poverty is much more than the price paid on Wal-Mart.

I demand that the author prove the point of his argument that making clothes is a simple process.

I demand that the author prove the point of his argument that making clothes is a simple process.

I demand that the author prove the point of his argument that making clothes is a simple process.

I demand that the author prove the point of his argument that making clothes is a simple process.
It is a pleasure to have you as my reader, and I am glad that I am able to respond to your request for the My Two Cents article.

I am writing this letter to express my gratitude for your prompt response to the My Two Cents article. My original article was posted online yesterday, and I am very pleased to see that it has received a lot of positive feedback. I appreciate your kind words and encouragement. I will continue to write and publish articles on various topics, and I hope to continue to engage with my readers.

Thank you again for your support. I look forward to hearing from you in the future.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
Baruch Alumni Speak Out on Job Strategy

Baruch alumni are speaking out about their experiences in the job market, offering advice to current students. Jacobson used this example to demonstrate that he is not only the only one who is offering job opportunities, but also encouragement and support for others to pursue similar careers.

Internet Stocks Reach Hyper-Valuations

Internet stocks are reaching unprecedented valuations, with new companies and established firms alike seeing their stock prices surge. The bubble continues to grow, with many investors jumping on the bandwagon, hoping to make a quick profit. However, some experts warn that the market is becoming overheated and that the bubble could burst at any time.

Globalization: One World, Many Views

In "1960, the Korean per capita income per year was $60. In 1995 it was $10,000."

"In 1960, the Korean per capita income per year was $60. In 1995 it was $10,000."

Globalization is an economic phenomenon that is changing the way businesses operate and interact with each other. As a result, many companies are restructuring their internal processes to meet the demands of a global economy. However, this does not mean that the traditional methods of doing business are disappearing. Instead, they are being adapted to fit the new global environment.

"In 1960, the Korean per capita income per year was $60. In 1995 it was $10,000."

Managers who want to succeed in the global marketplace need to develop a strong understanding of the local culture and market conditions in which they will be operating. By doing so, they can avoid making mistakes that could damage their reputation and hurt their business. In addition, they can learn how to effectively manage their employees and create a positive work environment that will help them achieve their goals.

"In 1960, the Korean per capita income per year was $60. In 1995 it was $10,000."

Globalization is not just about expansion into new markets. It is also about learning how to work with people from different cultures and backgrounds. This requires a strong commitment to diversity and inclusion, as well as a willingness to adapt to new ways of doing things. By doing so, companies can gain a competitive advantage and succeed in the global marketplace.
Don’t let finals turn you into a Scrooge!
Start your Holidays with

 TICKER BUSINESS DECEMBER 9, 1998

TICKER ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT DECEMBER 9, 1998

Manifesto Destiny: Jack Dangers’ Meat Exposed

By Spacecamp Spy
Jack Dangers (real name Keith Wainwright) is the frontman for Meat Beat Manifesto, a band that has been making waves in the world of electronic music. Their sound is a unique blend of samples, percussion, and synthesis, creating a seamless mix of influences from techno, industrial, and world music. Dangers’ vocals are distinctive, often sampled and manipulated, adding to the band’s experimental nature.

Jack Dangers’ career began in the late 80s with the formation of Meat Beat Manifesto, which has since evolved into a major force in the electronic music scene. The band’s music has been featured in films, TV shows, and video games, with their sound reaching a wide audience.

Jack Dangers’ passion for music began at a young age, growing up in a music-loving family. In their early days, the band struggled to gain recognition, but perseverance paid off as they built a dedicated fanbase.

The band’s discography includes albums like "Kid Mother," "The Barbaric House," and "Who the-operator," each featuring a unique blend of sounds and influences. Songs like "Kid Mother" and "Who the-operator" have become anthems for fans of electronic music, with their catchy rhythms and thought-provoking lyrics.

Jack Dangers’ influence extends beyond music, with their unique style and approach inspiring others in the industry. Their dedication to their craft is evident in their music, setting them apart as one of the most influential figures in electronic music.

And a Merry Christmas!!

Tickets on sale now in Room 1512. 360 PAS
Only $26 with a valid Baruch ID
CASH ONLY!!

Exact Change Please!!

By David Lo

Ride the Narrow Highway

By Spacecamp Spy
Jack Dangers (real name Keith Wainwright) is the frontman for Meat Beat Manifesto, a band that has been making waves in the world of electronic music. Their sound is a unique blend of samples, percussion, and synthesis, creating a seamless mix of influences from techno, industrial, and world music. Dangers’ vocals are distinctive, often sampled and manipulated, adding to the band’s experimental nature.

Jack Dangers’ career began in the late 80s with the formation of Meat Beat Manifesto, which has since evolved into a major force in the electronic music scene. The band’s music has been featured in films, TV shows, and video games, with their sound reaching a wide audience.

Jack Dangers’ passion for music began at a young age, growing up in a music-loving family. In their early days, the band struggled to gain recognition, but perseverance paid off as they built a dedicated fanbase.

The band’s discography includes albums like "Kid Mother," "The Barbaric House," and "Who the-operator," each featuring a unique blend of sounds and influences. Songs like "Kid Mother" and "Who the-operator" have become anthems for fans of electronic music, with their catchy rhythms and thought-provoking lyrics.

Jack Dangers’ influence extends beyond music, with their unique style and approach inspiring others in the industry. Their dedication to their craft is evident in their music, setting them apart as one of the most influential figures in electronic music.

And a Merry Christmas!!

Tickets on sale now in Room 1512. 360 PAS
Only $26 with a valid Baruch ID
CASH ONLY!!

Exact Change Please!!

By Spacecamp Spy
Jack Dangers (real name Keith Wainwright) is the frontman for Meat Beat Manifesto, a band that has been making waves in the world of electronic music. Their sound is a unique blend of samples, percussion, and synthesis, creating a seamless mix of influences from techno, industrial, and world music. Dangers’ vocals are distinctive, often sampled and manipulated, adding to the band’s experimental nature.

Jack Dangers’ career began in the late 80s with the formation of Meat Beat Manifesto, which has since evolved into a major force in the electronic music scene. The band’s music has been featured in films, TV shows, and video games, with their sound reaching a wide audience.

Jack Dangers’ passion for music began at a young age, growing up in a music-loving family. In their early days, the band struggled to gain recognition, but perseverance paid off as they built a dedicated fanbase.

The band’s discography includes albums like "Kid Mother," "The Barbaric House," and "Who the-operator," each featuring a unique blend of sounds and influences. Songs like "Kid Mother" and "Who the-operator" have become anthems for fans of electronic music, with their catchy rhythms and thought-provoking lyrics.

Jack Dangers’ influence extends beyond music, with their unique style and approach inspiring others in the industry. Their dedication to their craft is evident in their music, setting them apart as one of the most influential figures in electronic music.

And a Merry Christmas!!

Tickets on sale now in Room 1512. 360 PAS
Only $26 with a valid Baruch ID
CASH ONLY!!

Exact Change Please!!

By David Lo

Ride the Narrow Highway

By Spacecamp Spy
Jack Dangers (real name Keith Wainwright) is the frontman for Meat Beat Manifesto, a band that has been making waves in the world of electronic music. Their sound is a unique blend of samples, percussion, and synthesis, creating a seamless mix of influences from techno, industrial, and world music. Dangers’ vocals are distinctive, often sampled and manipulated, adding to the band’s experimental nature.

Jack Dangers’ career began in the late 80s with the formation of Meat Beat Manifesto, which has since evolved into a major force in the electronic music scene. The band’s music has been featured in films, TV shows, and video games, with their sound reaching a wide audience.

Jack Dangers’ passion for music began at a young age, growing up in a music-loving family. In their early days, the band struggled to gain recognition, but perseverance paid off as they built a dedicated fanbase.

The band’s discography includes albums like "Kid Mother," "The Barbaric House," and "Who the-operator," each featuring a unique blend of sounds and influences. Songs like "Kid Mother" and "Who the-operator" have become anthems for fans of electronic music, with their catchy rhythms and thought-provoking lyrics.

Jack Dangers’ influence extends beyond music, with their unique style and approach inspiring others in the industry. Their dedication to their craft is evident in their music, setting them apart as one of the most influential figures in electronic music.

And a Merry Christmas!!

Tickets on sale now in Room 1512. 360 PAS
Only $26 with a valid Baruch ID
CASH ONLY!!

Exact Change Please!!

By David Lo

Ride the Narrow Highway

By Spacecamp Spy
Jack Dangers (real name Keith Wainwright) is the frontman for Meat Beat Manifesto, a band that has been making waves in the world of electronic music. Their sound is a unique blend of samples, percussion, and synthesis, creating a seamless mix of influences from techno, industrial, and world music. Dangers’ vocals are distinctive, often sampled and manipulated, adding to the band’s experimental nature.

Jack Dangers’ career began in the late 80s with the formation of Meat Beat Manifesto, which has since evolved into a major force in the electronic music scene. The band’s music has been featured in films, TV shows, and video games, with their sound reaching a wide audience.

Jack Dangers’ passion for music began at a young age, growing up in a music-loving family. In their early days, the band struggled to gain recognition, but perseverance paid off as they built a dedicated fanbase.

The band’s discography includes albums like "Kid Mother," "The Barbaric House," and "Who the-operator," each featuring a unique blend of sounds and influences. Songs like "Kid Mother" and "Who the-operator" have become anthems for fans of electronic music, with their catchy rhythms and thought-provoking lyrics.

Jack Dangers’ influence extends beyond music, with their unique style and approach inspiring others in the industry. Their dedication to their craft is evident in their music, setting them apart as one of the most influential figures in electronic music.

And a Merry Christmas!!

Tickets on sale now in Room 1512. 360 PAS
Only $26 with a valid Baruch ID
CASH ONLY!!

Exact Change Please!!
Ride the Naked Highway

By: Sy

For me, it's artistic validation — it means that really am a good songwriter and a good musician.

David: What instruments can you play? Do you sing on the album too?

Sy: I think I just have that sort of creative output. I got all those ideas in my head and I need to express them in some way. I also do a comic strip for my paper, and I also ask as a hobby I think the best thing about being in a band is the feeling of being done, that whole niggas around you.

David: What does the band like to do to relax?

Sy: Play music!

David: What is your favorite music? What instruments can you play?

Sy: My favorite music is hip-hop. For me, it's artistic validation — it means that really am a good songwriter and a good musician.

David: What are the best things you've been asked to do?

Sy: I think there are a couple of things that I really liked doing, like writing for other people, like getting a lot of airplay on national radio because the acoustics were a dream. There was a moment or memories that you can never expected any of that. The second one is playing outside of NYC?

David: Have you met any famous musicians before?

Sy: Oh, yes. I've met Curve, which was sung by "Find out." I think that's really cool. I've met Curve, which was sung by "Find out." I think that's really cool.

David: Do you have any pets?

Sy: No, I don't have any pets.

David: What do you think of the album?

Sy: For me, it's artistic validation — it means that really am a good songwriter and a good musician.

David: What's the one thing you never expected?

Sy: I never expected any of that. The second one is playing outside of NYC?

David: What does the band like to do to relax?

Sy: Play music!

David: What's the one thing you never expected?

Sy: I never expected any of that. The second one is playing outside of NYC?

David: What do you think of the album?

Sy: For me, it's artistic validation — it means that really am a good songwriter and a good musician.

David: What's the one thing you never expected?

Sy: I never expected any of that. The second one is playing outside of NYC?

David: What do you think of the album?

Sy: For me, it's artistic validation — it means that really am a good songwriter and a good musician.

David: What's the one thing you never expected?

Sy: I never expected any of that. The second one is playing outside of NYC?

David: What do you think of the album?

Sy: For me, it's artistic validation — it means that really am a good songwriter and a good musician.

David: What's the one thing you never expected?

Sy: I never expected any of that. The second one is playing outside of NYC?
An Adam Coozer Christmas

I made my first date at the age of five. It was the windiest day in New York City's history. The TVs and radios warned all to stay inside and tie down valuables, pets, and street garbage that was randomly spinning in the wind. I was standing still when the wind struck me in the face. I was 1983, remember) and not as chunky. Well, I was and gave each other a big, shaky glass. Used condoms, and other street garbage that was randomly spinning in the wind. I was standing still when the wind struck me in the face. I was 1983, remember) and not as chunky. Well, I was a bit at my face, nipped my freckles, as if nothing was going on.

As I was driving home from Gibson train station last night, and noticed that "So, Adam," Lisa started, "How do you like kindergarten?"

"I was standing still when the wind struck me in the face. I was 1983, remember) and not as chunky. Well, I was freezing. So I bundled up, scarf, mittens, snow pants, earmuffs, everything. Now, even at that age, I wasn't stupid and I knew I was too young for her, but I had an as in the hole. I had my very old electric Big Wheels that was painted up to look like a motorcycle, and also a pair of dark sunglasses that my parents bought home from a wedding. I was certain that these things would make me look older. All bundled up, I called to my mom, "Mummy, I'm going on a date with Lisa!"

"OK, Oodle, good luck," My mom knew I had a Stumpy Nino-Choo's chance to Hell that Lisa would take me seriously, but she was always very supportive. Or maybe she thought that I was a bit out of myself. Oodles was her nickname for me because that was the sound I made when I sucked on my pacifiers (which I still hadn't outgrown at age five).

"I stood there, silent. I didn't know how to answer that."

"So how did it go?" my mom asked when I walked through the door. She came in and we said, "Adam, that was cool about it and said, "Oh right. Let me leave you two alone. But I'm sure she's coming over at six. Can you make us dinner?"

"My mom was in shock. She immediately called Lisa who confirmed, yes, we definitely have a date at six tonight. My mom flipped out. "She's going to be here in four hours and this house is a pig sty!" She immediately called Lisa who confirmed, yes, we definitely have a date at six tonight. My mom flipped out. "She's going to be here in four hours and this house is a pig sty!" She immediately called Lisa who confirmed, yes, we definitely have a date at six tonight. My mom flipped out. "She's going to be here in four hours and this house is a pig sty!"

"I was standing still when the wind struck me in the face. I was 1983, remember) and not as chunky. Well, I was a bit at my face, nipped my freckles, as if nothing was going on.

"I was standing still when the wind struck me in the face. I was 1983, remember) and not as chunky. Well, I was a bit at my face, nipped my freckles, as if nothing was going on.
Bjork and Siouxsie and the Banshees. On his debut album, "Oakenfold," is best known for his collaborations with other artists, such as "Outside," which was a huge hit that left cum stains. Oakenfold "Tranceport" Viagra. The South Park perspective than a singles collection, including some forgotten gems such as that will leave cum stains.

Track 5, "Bomb. I can't stop listening to it!"

"Out this month. The Rugrats Soundtrack is also surprisingly good-nonetheless, it's my last issue as editor."

Mghan Whigs' "1965 (Sony) is simply too weird.

Other noteworthy releases include the soundtrack to the South Park Movie Soundtrack. "The South Park Gang..." "...doesn't even know our overtures..."

I've never really cared for Porishead, but their new album, "Rosie," proves they're worth much more than some project as their live sound surely surpasses their efforts for the record. ""Annoy!"

"Afghan Whigs" 1993 (Sony) is somehow awful. I never really liked the band. I had a copy of "Black Love," which is really nothing but a spastic version of the many tracks. It presents us with a more focused and mature Afghan Whigs. Their newest release, "Tourgates," utilizes string on songs such as "Come On Again." And singer Greg Dulli works all his on the lead track and first single, "The Mule." Sounds terrible.

I've never really cared for Porishead, but their new album, "Rosie," proves they're worth much more than some project as their live sound surely surpasses their efforts for the record. ""Annoy!"

"Afghan Whigs" 1993 (Sony) is somehow awful. I never really liked the band. I had a copy of "Black Love," which is really nothing but a spastic version of the many tracks. It presents us with a more focused and mature Afghan Whigs. Their newest release, "Tourgates," utilizes string on songs such as "Come On Again." And singer Greg Dulli works all his on the lead track and first single, "The Mule." Sounds terrible.

I've never really cared for Porishead, but their new album, "Rosie," proves they're worth much more than some project as their live sound surely surpasses their efforts for the record. ""Annoy!"

"Afghan Whigs" 1993 (Sony) is somehow awful. I never really liked the band. I had a copy of "Black Love," which is really nothing but a spastic version of the many tracks. It presents us with a more focused and mature Afghan Whigs. Their newest release, "Tourgates," utilizes string on songs such as "Come On Again." And singer Greg Dulli works all his on the lead track and first single, "The Mule." Sounds terrible.

"Come On, Come On" (Kumbakana), "The South Park Band..." "...doesn't even know our overtures..."

There are always a couple of chink 'n duds I must thank many. Changes have occurred in my personal life this past year; and I am in debt to all who have supported me in my work. Thanks to Jeffery Woo, for making himself look chic...and to all the others who have contributed their time and efforts..."
By Spacemen
Spacemen No. 1, I lost my childhood. Although I’d known before, it has become apparent that the age of innocence and naivete is gone forever. Spacemen No. 1, I wasn’t interested in the concept right to your heartbeat. Spacemen No. 1, I was now in thestay of innocence. Spacemen No. 1, I was growing up.

Low Than Jaks’ latest effort, Halebekka (Capital Sound) is one of the most accessible albums the band has put out. Jared’s vocals is not quite as strong as his previous efforts, but he manages to put out a solid effort. Love Thieves: Halebekka is an album that is not quite as strong as his previous efforts, but he manages to put out a solid effort. Love Thieves: Halebekka is an album that is not quite as strong as his previous efforts, but he manages to put out a solid effort.

Levi’s Car-Creole Pool of Memory (Perspective Records) is like a last undying treasure. Careful, most well written for the famed Basketball Diaries, now a new insight to the realm of the so-called Boy Bands. For those who love the genre, this album is a realization that there are other causes of unhappiness. For those who love the genre, this album is a realization that there are other causes of unhappiness. For those who love the genre, this album is a realization that there are other causes of unhappiness. For those who love the genre, this album is a realization that there are other causes of unhappiness.

I lost my childhood. Although I’d known before, it has become apparent that the age of innocence and naivete is gone forever. I wasn’t interested in the concept right to your heartbeat.
The Vourer

The exhibition showed the artist getting ready. He was an eager child with a box on his head. Watching him through this lens sheet of glass, my desires were frustrated trying hard to pass. For he left me there drooping wet with green-looking eyes, as though he had never seen a man.

Do I have the right to create my own flame? Chip my own stones and fire of silver! Do I have the power to light a spark within me? He said as the wind, as morning on the sea? Can I make a sun that will always be bright? An embers that burns nothing of the night? Do I have the tools to explore, quench this thirst, feed him come forth, instead he came first...

-Dermot Hannon

A Celestial Princess

A silver dress graces across an endless sky. We live in a bleeding heart upon a barren chessboard.

A flash of light, ever so bright... As I dragged my broken wings across a place so dark.

Paintings of her appear in my mind... Like an enchanted spell. My breathless eyes dances across her fine pretty face. Mesmerized by the way her silky hair. Just to capture a glimpse of her smile. With such beauty and elegance. Paintings of her appear in my mind...

Late, Just at a glance, she is the whispering siren of my mind. The knights of my heart?

She is the instrument of my inspirations. She is the cause of my revolution. So close, yet we are so far...

The knight of a barren sands of my heart.

-Dermot Hannon

Inland Flavor

A cup green tea, eight cups flowing water, a dash of love. These are the ingredients that are combined in accurate proportions. To form the flavor of the Caribbean. I could smell the fresh dew that fell in the early hours of the morning. That hissed and soaked nature's wonders. The exquisite island flavor. The active and self fish was on the stove. And grandmothers homemade bread was on the table. And in a few minutes they were on the table. Oh I am a cup of hot tea.

Assisting my arrival from the night's slumber. But first I had to thank the heavenly father for the safety of the night.

Grandmas called me to the table and she greeted me with a kiss. But in the same breath she asked if I said my morning prayers. After the morning ritual my taste buds were given the opportunity to go open. As I ate to my hearts content. There was no counting calories or diet at that time or any other that morning. When it came to this sweet island flavor. This was the life that I once knew. I never would forget the smell of the morning breeze. Or the bread in the oven. The progres that I worried about the stubble of the tongue. I still feel my grandmas lips on my cheek and the hot chocolate as it cascades down my throat. Enjoy the Island Flavor sometime. The Island Flavor always runs free.

-Alicia Gift

Imaginary Love

The stretch of time upon a violin. The release of a silver row pierces. The way of a Blue Moon. A single flower embeded upon a chapples windowsill. A wingless shadow slides across a single frame of a once forgotten memory. Waiting. I had foreseen in a long past love. The stretch of a velvet curtain, a blash of candlelight. Burn my deadened eyes.

The soft of baby maternity.

The song of a broken heart.

The harsh sounds of my heart.

My name is forever traced.

The harsh sounds of my heart.

Perhaps a phantom of her imagination.

So am I left to feel empty. Within the state of the moonlight. For I am the darkness and she is the light. For only one bind us...

-Kiro

Coming to an end

The house is empty. What kind of a home is this that you just needed to let go. Can you escape all your heart burned inside. Let's face it. It's over.

Two years have vanished. All the stories we shared. We somehow managed to give away.

You said you would never give up. That I was the one to let go. You told me I was weak and negative. You portrayed yourself as Mr. Positive, Mr. Strong.

The half of my heart you possessed is currently filled on high. It's breathing fresh air now. It's full of creations of more.

I'm growing now. Realizing who I truly am.

Realizing that you are my present choice.

No more dragging you along, stunting my growth.

You call me and want to talk.

Pretending everything is so great. Come on, I know you better than I know myself.

Get rid of that poker face.

Goodbye now. You hope we can still be friends.

At this point that does not seem to work. I'm tired of playing mind games.

I need to be away from you.

Unlike you, I am surviving.

We will see who the strong one is now.

Who can manage to try.

The memories are engraved. It's time for me to leave. My whole life is ahead of me.

-IWong Hannon

Going Back Home

Not using the old true I engahed "shame." But I was gladened to see that old house still standing.

Its door flapping to the changes, Like a flag. But I went back to my self-help book. Began to impress them with how much I'd grown.

-Dermot Hannon

FUND RAISER
FOR MISSING BARUCH STUDENT!!!!

KRISTINE KUPKA
HAS BEEN MISSING SINCE OCT. 24

DSGG STRONGLY URGES ALL BARUCH STUDENTS TO PLEASE MAKE A DONATION SO WE CAN CONTINUE THE SEARCH AND INCREASE THE REWARD.

DEPOSIT YOUR DONATION IN THE STUDENT LIFE OFFICE, ROOM 1512, 360 PAS

THANK YOU!

The Ticker
Spring 1999
Meeting Schedule

OPEN HOUSE
February 11, 1999
Guest Speaker and Presentation (Club Hours)

February 25, 1999
Student Government Candidate Forum

March 12, 1999
OPEN HOUSE
Guest Speaker and Presentation (Club Hours)

March 25, 1999
General Meeting Workshop: Adobe Photoshop
Guest Speaker and Presentation (Club Hours)

April 22, 1999
General Meeting Workshop: Adobe Photoshop
Guest Speaker and Presentation (Club Hours)

-TICKER ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT DECEMBER 9, 1998

-TICKER ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT DECEMBER 9, 1998
The Weissman Center for International Business
Graduate & Undergraduate Internships

Dr. Marie Manca
The Weissman Center for International Business
Baruch College - The City University of New York

To apply, fill out an application and bring your resume to:

Dr. Marie Manca
The Weissman Center for International Business
Baruch College - The City University of New York
360 Park Avenue South, Room 1339
Tel.: (212) 802-6730 Fax: (212) 802-6742

A Concert Diary: 1998

By David Lo

Dan Wilson of Semisonic doesn’t look like your typical rock star. No long hair. No flashy schtick. But Wilson does know how to play his guitar and threaten his co-workers. "I don’t think he will," she added quickly. "I use of the slide and keep it to myself. "Thank God, I thought. "I thought I was going to get killed."

"Do you want me to cook you dinner?" I asked. She smiled and laughed a lot, but there was something about her that immediately made me want to protect her. She was hiding a lot of sadness. She closed the door behind us and embraced me again. I pulled her away. "Make a wish," she said. I closed my eyes and did.

"You trust me, right?" she said as we hurried to my first blind date. Suddenly I realized why I asked that and laughed. "Oh, you’re not my murderer, the New York Times will tell me that if anyone so much as looks at me he’ll kill them. He even came to Dan Wilson of Semisonic doesn’t look like your typical rock star. No long hair. No flashy schtick. But Wilson does know how to play his guitar and threaten his co-workers. "I don’t think he will," she added quickly. "I use of the slide and keep it to myself. "Thank God, I thought. "I thought I was going to get killed."

"Do you want me to cook you dinner?" I asked. She smiled and laughed a lot, but there was something about her that immediately made me want to protect her. She was hiding a lot of sadness. She closed the door behind us and embraced me again. I pulled her away. "Make a wish," she said. I closed my eyes and did.

A Toasters’ Tour Diary

"You trust me, right?" she said as we hurried to my first blind date. Suddenly I realized why I asked that and laughed. "Oh, you’re not my murderer, the New York Times will tell me that if anyone so much as looks at me he’ll kill them. He even came to Dan Wilson of Semisonic doesn’t look like your typical rock star. No long hair. No flashy schtick. But Wilson does know how to play his guitar and threaten his co-workers. "I don’t think he will," she added quickly. "I use of the slide and keep it to myself. "Thank God, I thought. "I thought I was going to get killed."

"Do you want me to cook you dinner?" I asked. She smiled and laughed a lot, but there was something about her that immediately made me want to protect her. She was hiding a lot of sadness. She closed the door behind us and embraced me again. I pulled her away. "Make a wish," she said. I closed my eyes and did.

A Concert Diary: 1998

By David Lo

Dan Wilson of Semisonic doesn’t look like your typical rock star. No long hair. No flashy schtick. But Wilson does know how to play his guitar and threaten his co-workers. "I don’t think he will," she added quickly. "I use of the slide and keep it to myself. "Thank God, I thought. "I thought I was going to get killed."

"Do you want me to cook you dinner?" I asked. She smiled and laughed a lot, but there was something about her that immediately made me want to protect her. She was hiding a lot of sadness. She closed the door behind us and embraced me again. I pulled her away. "Make a wish," she said. I closed my eyes and did.

A Concert Diary: 1998

By David Lo

Dan Wilson of Semisonic doesn’t look like your typical rock star. No long hair. No flashy schtick. But Wilson does know how to play his guitar and threaten his co-workers. "I don’t think he will," she added quickly. "I use of the slide and keep it to myself. "Thank God, I thought. "I thought I was going to get killed."

"Do you want me to cook you dinner?" I asked. She smiled and laughed a lot, but there was something about her that immediately made me want to protect her. She was hiding a lot of sadness. She closed the door behind us and embraced me again. I pulled her away. "Make a wish," she said. I closed my eyes and did.

A Concert Diary: 1998

By David Lo

Dan Wilson of Semisonic doesn’t look like your typical rock star. No long hair. No flashy schtick. But Wilson does know how to play his guitar and threaten his co-workers. "I don’t think he will," she added quickly. "I use of the slide and keep it to myself. "Thank God, I thought. "I thought I was going to get killed."

"Do you want me to cook you dinner?" I asked. She smiled and laughed a lot, but there was something about her that immediately made me want to protect her. She was hiding a lot of sadness. She closed the door behind us and embraced me again. I pulled her away. "Make a wish," she said. I closed my eyes and did.
Interview On-Site With Over 100 Outstanding Employers At Careers '99 New York

Collectively these employers are recruiting for over 3,000 openings, and set aside positions to be filled by Careers '99 student participants. Now in its 13th year, Careers '99 is an extremely effective strategy to increase your number of second interviews and job offers. One major reason is that students attend by invitation only. To be considered for an invitation, please apply online at www.careerconferences.com or fax an updated resume with current GPA to:

C99NY - (203) 741-0033 by 12/17/98. Invited students will be mailed a personal invitation and additional Conference Information (only invited students will receive a reply).

There is Absolutely No Charge Of Any Kind To Apply Or Attend

MAXIMIZE YOUR JOB SEARCH WITH CAREERS '99 - APPLY TODAY!!

Raise Your Grade Point Average

Something's Missing!

We Provide:

* FREE Citizenship Guidance
* FREE Photographs
* All Application Materials

You must pre-register & pick up your forms in advance at

The International Student Services Center - 360 Park Avenue South Room 711

Date: DECEMBER 3rd, 1998 Time: 10:00AM - 3:00PM Place: ROOM 1708 (360 PARK AVE)

CUNY CITIZENSHIP AND NATURALIZATION PROJECT

---

GET YOUR REST TO BE YOUR BEST

TICKER SPORTS DECEMBER 9, 1998

By John Minners

"Mike, I haven't seen you at the gym in weeks," I said.

"Yeah, yeah. I know. I've got school and I have no time," he replied.

"So, I have school, too. I go to the gym before classes," I said.

Whatever I need some sleep. I just can't get up early to do it."

"Sound familiar? Most people don't have time for sleep, let alone the gym. This is especially true for college students who also have jobs. So, that means those people are exercising from working out. You have too much work to do already. Wrong! Thought I'd put you that easy out that. Chuck, you should know better by now. There is never an excuse to keep yourself from being healthy. There is always time for a good workout.

I have school and work, and I do both full time. I have family friends and a girlfriend who need my attention, too. I still find time to work out. I get up at six or seven in the morning and go to the gym. In fact, going to the gym that early wakes me up and keeps me pumped for the long day ahead. I used to full asleep in class all the time, but working out in the morning has almost completely erased that. A busy schedule can be an excuse for not working out.

How do you fit a workout routine into your schedule? If you are dedicated to your body building, you'll find the time. First, write out your schedule. Then, start adding some-

...
By Jon Minners

Here I am again to tell you about the fast-paced world of sports. Of course, things get a little blurred in the translation, so pardon me if I stray away from the hard facts.

The NBA lockout continues, and I heard Kenny Anderson had to sell one of his cars. Poor kid. Now he’s got to stay home on Wednesdays. If things continue to go the way they are going, he may have just one car to drive around in all week. I can’t write any more on this subject. I am shedding too many tears.

“Hollywood” Hulk Hogan made it official a couple of weeks ago on The Tonight Show. He’s retiring from wrestling and going into the political arena. If all goes his way, he’ll be the next President of the United States. First thought: When did The Tonight Show become a place for a major announcement like that? Second thought: It’s about time he retired. He’s been around forever. What is he, like 70 or something?

Make no mistake. Larry Brown was not playing due to possible food poisoning that they experienced the night before. Who cares? It’s not like there is some big story (Red Sox). Just my opinion. I only need one, too. I won’t build my business on this. I know that when I get some money, I will get all I can, and I won’t write about it either. This Christmas, I will do what I can for those less fortunate. I learned a lot from the lockout. Maybe they can learn something from people giving all they can to help others.

That’s my spin on things. Have a Merry Christmas, and maybe you can give something of yourself to those less fortunate during this holiday season. I’ll see you next semester.

CONTACT
Kenyatta Pious
ticker_sports@scsu
baruch.cuny.edu

NOTE: ALL INQUIRIES ABOUT GAME DATES AND SITES CAN BE DIRECTED TO RALPH SIRIANNI. SIRIANNI IS LOCATED ON THE 7TH FLOOR OF THE 23RD STREET BLDG. PH: (212) 387-1274

STATEWOMEN LOSE TOURNAMENT

By Kenyatta Pious

The Baruch Women’s basketball team lost the Manhattanville Tournament. They played against Manhattanville in the first round and got embarrassed. In the consolation game, they played against Western New England. This game saw Baruch lose 90-25.

The Statewomen were particularly out matched at the guard position. It is imperative to note, however, that forward Natalie Testamark and guard Christine Grant were not playing due to possible food poisoning that they experienced the night before.

It is imperative to note, however, that forward Natalie Testamark and guard Christine Grant were not playing due to possible food poisoning that they experienced the night before.

The Rangers traded Alexei Kovalev to the Pittsburgh Penguins and I have to admit that I forgot he was even on the team. Come to think of it, with the Jets doing so well, a huge free agency market in baseball and the NBA lockout, I forgot there was a hockey season.

The Denver Broncos seem unstoppable. Too bad they lose to the Jets in the playoffs.

The Yankees re-signed Bernie Williams to a huge contract that just makes me sick. The Daily News writes that Williams went to George Steinbrenner to tell his story to the owner. What story? He gets like $99 million over the next eight years. He’s just a greedy bastard. Anyone who would use first an expansion team (Arizona) and next your team’s biggest rival (Red Sox) to get a huge contract offer from any team is a bonafide loser in my book. But that’s just my opinion.

So much for the Mets big splash in the free agency market.

Does anyone really care about college football? Too many teams, too many players names to memorize, scores that looks like basketball scores and they don’t even have an overtime. Anyway, why try hard when every team makes a bowl game anyway? The only bowl I give a damn about on New Year’s Day is the Budweiser Head in the Toilet Bowl.

The Christmas games between the Bulls and Knicks and the Lakers and Suns have been canceled due to the lockout. Oh, now the players will be forced to sit with their families and celebrate the holidays together. I almost feel bad for them.

On a serious and final note, we should all look at this lockout and learn something from it. If at any time I become rich, I could never let myself change. I’d still have to work. I’d live in a nice house with one nice car or two (I’m sure when I get married my wife will want one, too). I won’t own the 100-inch television set with neighborhood surround sound. I won’t have my own submarine (I really need one, too) and I won’t build my own bowling alley in my bedroom, even though I always wanted one. I know what is important. When they say that they are just trying to survive, people just trying to get a bite to eat and a place to live. When I see them walk out of a meeting with the owner of the NBA with cell phones in hand, I remember how hard it is for some people to pay their regular phone bill.

I know that when I get some money, I will give all I can, and I won’t write about it either. This Christmas, I will do what I can for those less fortunate. I learned a lot from the lockout. Maybe they can learn something from people giving all they can to help others.

That’s my spin on things. Have a Merry Christmas, and maybe you can give something of yourself to those less fortunate during this holiday season. I’ll see you next semester.

ROOKIE OF THE WEEK

By CUNYAC Press

Lou Pento

The 6’4’’ freshman forward/center has added some needed size to a very talented Baruch squad, in addition to some frontcourt scoring. Pento (New, Dorp H.S./Staten Island, NY) and his size will certainly help in the rebounding department and guarding in the low post. In helping the Stateswomen win the St. Joseph’s Tournament, with only Pento contributing 6.0 points and 5.0 rebounds in the two wins against Stony Brook (72-67) and Lehman (78-66). Pento is exactly the kind of player that Baruch needs to take them to CUNY excellence!

NOTES: All home games are played at Xavier High School on 16th St. bet. 5th and 6th.

UPCOMING MENS BASKETBALL SCHEDULE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DAY</th>
<th>DATE</th>
<th>OPPONENT</th>
<th>SITE</th>
<th>TIME</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tue.</td>
<td>07</td>
<td>Yeshiva</td>
<td>Away</td>
<td>8:00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed.</td>
<td>09</td>
<td>City College</td>
<td>Away</td>
<td>5:00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat.</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>Old Westbury</td>
<td>Home</td>
<td>3:00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>